WILSON SCORES PACT ENEMIES

Reservations Break Senatorial Line-up

TREATY IS NOW READY

Senate Committee Finishes Work.

Will be Reported Early Next Week; Consideration Starts the Week After.

Four Reservations Adopted; Minority Given Three Days to Make Report.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee late today finished its work on the peace treaty with Germany and after adopting four reservations to the League of Nations covenant, ordered the treaty reported to the Senate with about two score amendments previously incorporated.

The treaty now passes, so far as the United States is concerned, to its final stage—that of open consideration by the Senate for ratification or rejection. Committee action was deferred on the special treaty to protect France and on other treaties submitted.

The first contest will be over the committee's amendments, with the final and decisive struggle over the reservations, which the resolution provides must be specifically accepted by three of the four great powers—France, Japan, Italy and Great Britain.

FOUR RESERVATIONS.

The four reservations which were sponsored by Chairman Lodge and written into a resolution providing for conditional ratification of the treaty, provide:

First, for "unconditional" withdrawal of the United States from the league.

Second, refusal of this nation to assume any foreign territorial guarantees under Article X of the league covenant or mandates without action by Congress.

Third, exclusive action by the United States on domestic affairs.

Fourth, interpretation of the Monroe Doctrine solely by this nation.

In all four reservations the party line-up of the committee was shattered.

FORTY AMENDMENTS.

The treaty as amended and incorporating about forty amendments adopted recently by the majority will be reprinted for the Senate's deliberations. The amendments finally provide:

For return of Shantung to China under the amendment of Senator Lodge to substitute

TEMBLOR ROCKS BAY DISTRICT.

Severest Shock in Years is Felt in Oakland and Also in Berkeley.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

OAKLAND, Sept. 4.—Oakland and other cities in the east bay district were startled shortly after 1 o'clock today by the heaviest earthquake shock felt in several years. The earth wave was from northwest to southeast.

BERKELEY, Sept. 4.—An earthquake of one second's duration was registered on the seismograph at the University of California here shortly after 1 o'clock today. The origin of the temblor was near Berkeley.

AUSTRIA IS GIVEN TWO DAYS EXTRA TO REPLY.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PARIS, Sept. 4.—The supreme council of the Peace Conference has decided to grant the request of the Austrian peace delegation for two days' delay in the time for presenting the Austrian answer to the terms of peace.

Serbia seems likely to adopt the same attitude as Rumania toward the Austrian peace treaty, says the Petit Parisien today. According to information from a most authoritative source, the newspaper says, the Belgrade government feels it cannot accept the treaty unless there is modification of certain clauses concerning the protection of racial minorities which Serbia considers as infringing upon her sovereignty.

Before leaving for Vienna Tuesday night after receiving the final draft of the Austrian peace treaty, Dr. Karl Renner, head of the Austrian delegation, said in an interview published yesterday that the communications made to the Austrians by the Peace Conference showed that the Allies understood perfectly well the economic situation of Austria, and had adopted a benevolent attitude in this connection.

ARIZONAN IS KILLED IN MEXICO.

Yaquis Massacre Truck Driver for the San Xavier Mining Company and Escort of Mexican Federal Soldiers. Mechanician Escapes and Gives Report.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NOGALES, Sept. 4.—A. P. Hennessey, an American truck driver, formerly employed in the immigration service at Nogales, and four Mexican Federal soldiers, acting as escort to a truck operated by the San Xavier Mining Company, were killed by Yaqui Indians Tuesday, according to reliable information received by forwarding agents of the Laughlin Mining Company here today. The information came from Miguel Lopez, Federal judge at La Colorada.

The Indians attacked a truck carrying powder and supplies to the San Xavier mine, according to the message.

According to the message the attack occurred at Hisa, between La Colorada and San Xavier, where the mine is located. Jose Arivisio, a mechanic, who was with the truck, managed to escape to the San Juancisco ranch after he had been stripped of clothing and beaten. He gave the alarm. Hennessey's home is said to have been in Tucson, Ariz.

The San Xavier is a valuable silver property owned by W. C. Laughlin of Glendale, Cal.

OLD CRIME DISCLOSED.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

EL PASO, Sept. 4.—Another story of the outrages committed by Mexican bandits on American citizens has reached El Paso. This time it is a story never before told because those who knew of it feared to tell it, knowing they would be killed by Mexicans if they did.

It is the story of the brutal murder of an American Mormon woman, Mrs. E. A. Martensen, and a criminal attack on her little 10-year-old daughter in their home at Guadalupe, near Casas Grandes, in Chihuahua.

The story was brought to El Paso by J. N. Quail, field secretary for the National Association for the Protection of American Rights in Mexico. It was told to him at the recent Vanhorn reunion by a ranchman from Casas Grandes and neighbor to the unfortunate Mrs. Martensen. The rancher who came to the United States especially to tell the story is L. R. Mills. Mr. Mills is well known in Northern Mexico and the upper Rio Grande district, Mr. Quail says.

FATHER DRIVEN OUT.

The story had its origin back in 1916 when Mr. Martensen, the husband and father, was driven from Mexico by conditions which made it impossible to continue work on the ranch. He decided to leave his wife and daughter at their home and come to El Paso to find work. He found it and after a short while sent his wife $40 in gold. One night the wife called at a little grocery store in Guadalupe, which also served as a postoffice, and was told by the proprietor that there was $40 in gold there for her. At the time three young Mexicans were sitting in the store. They overheard the grocer's remark and saw the gold delivered to the woman. After she had gone the three Mexicans followed the mother to her home. Arriving a few minutes after she had reached her home the Mexicans, so the story goes, found the door fastened.

THREATEN DYING WOMAN.

The Mexicans began shooting through the door and broke in. One of the bullets had penetrated Mrs. Martensen's abdomen and she lay

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PARIS, Sept. 4.—(Havas.) The supreme council has appointed Sir George Clerk, an official of the British Foreign office, to go to Bucharest to present to the Rumanian government the desires of the Allied and associated powers with regard to Rumanian occupation of Hungary.

[The above probably refers to the proposed plan of the supreme council to send a note to Rumania by an English high commissioner, as reported in a Paris dispatch today.]

Burned in an Airplane.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SIOUX FALLS (S. D.) Sept. 4.—J. S. Gallager, Canton, S. D., was burned to death and Lieut. Roy Brown of Esterville, Iowa, was seriously injured when an airplane which Gallager was learning to pilot fell into an air pocket and dashed to earth in Hisa, at Canton, late today.

Gambling Den Raided.

Following several reports that gambling was again in full blast along Central avenue, Officers Winget and Phillips of the purity squad and Hubert Kittle, former investigator for Dist.-Atty. Woolwine, but now special police officer for Chief of Police Home, made a spectacular raid on Sam Young's place at 1011 Central avenue shortly before midnight and took five men into custody charged with gambling. Kittle, who was formerly a policeman, was again appointed to the force by Home a few days ago for special duty in connection with the alleged gambling in the colored district, as he is considered one of the best men in this line in the city. The men arrested gave their names as Carl Cody, Arthur Cook, Frank Williams, Joe Harris and Early Fennell. All were held under $100 bonds.

After making this raid the officers went to a rooming-house at Fourth and Stanford streets and took into custody Harry Suggen and Walter Lincercum on charges of violating the Gandler ordinance.

INDIANAPOLIS ADDRESS TEXT.

President Explains That Article Ten of Covenant Represents Conscience of World and Will Prevent Wars.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 4.—The text of President Wilson's speech here follows:

My fellow-citizens: So great a company as this tempts me to make a speech [laughter and applause] and yet I want to say to you in all seriousness and soberness that I have not come here to make a speech, in the ordinary sense of that term.

I have come upon a very sober errand, indeed. I have come to report to you upon the work which the representatives of the United States attempted to do at the Conference of Peace, on the other side of the sea, because I realize, my fellow-citizens, that my colleagues and I, in the task we attempted over there, were your servants. We went there with a distinct errand, which it was our duty to perform in the spirit which you have displayed in the prosecution of the war and in conceiving the purposes and objects of that war.

I was in the city of Columbus this afternoon, where I was endeavoring to explain to a body of our fellow-citizens there just what it was that the treaty of peace contained, for I must frankly admit that in most of the speeches that I have heard in debate upon the treaty of peace, it would be impossible to form a definite conception of what that instrument means.

I want to recall to you, for the purposes of this evening, the circumstances of the war and the purposes for which our men spent their lives on the other side of the sea.

ORIGIN OF WAR.

You will remember that a prince of the house of Austria was slain in one of the cities of Serbia. Serbia was one of the smallest kingdoms of Europe. She had no strength which any of the great powers needed to fear. As we see the war now, Germany, and those who conspired with her, made a pretext of that accusation in order to make unconscionable demands for the weak and helpless kingdom of Serbia, not with a view of bringing about an acquiescence in those demands, but with a view to bringing about a conflict in which their purposes, quite separate from the purposes connected with these demands, could be achieved.

Just so soon as these demands were made, other nations of Europe sent telegraphic messages to their representatives at Vienna and Berlin, urging them to ask the governments of Vienna and Berlin to enter into discussion of these matters.

I was recalling, my fellow-citizens, the circumstances which began the terrible conflict that has just been concluded.

"So soon as the unconscionable demands of Austria were made on Serbia the other governments of Europe sent telegraphic messages to Berlin and Vienna, asking that the matter be brought into a conference. And the significant circumstance of the beginning of this war is that the Austrian and German governments did not dare to discuss the demands on Serbia or the purpose which they had in view.

CONFERENCE REFUSED.

"It is universally admitted on the other side of the water that if they had gone into international conference on the Austrian demands the war never would have been begun. There was an insistent demand from London, for example, by the British Foreign Minister, that the cabinets of Europe should be given time to confer with the governments at Vienna and Berlin. The governments at Vienna and Berlin did not dare to admit time for discussion.

"I am recalling these circumstances, my fellow citizens, because I want to point out to you what apparently has escaped the attention of some of the critics of the League of Nations, that the heart of the League of Nations does not lie in any of the portions which have been discussed in public debate. The great bulk of the provisions of that covenant contained these engagements and promises on the part of the states which undertook to become members of it: That in no circumstances will they go to war without first having either submitted the question to arbitration, in which case they agree to abide by the result, or having submitted the question to discussion by the council of the League of Nations, in which case they will allow six months for the discussion and engage not to go to war until three months after the council has announced its opinion upon the subject under dispute.

"So that the heart of the covenant of the league is that the nations solemnly covenant not to go to war for nine months after a controversy becomes acute.

"If there had been nine days of discussion Germany would not have gone to war. If there had been nine days within which to bring to bear the opinion of the world, the judgment of mankind upon the purposes of these governments, they never would have dared to execute those purposes.

"So that what it is important for us to remember is that when we sent those boys in khaki across the sea we promised them, we promised the world, that we would not conclude this conflict with a mere treaty of peace. We entered into solemn engagements with all the nations with whom we associated ourselves, that we would bring about such kind of settlement, and such consort of the purpose of nations that wars like this could not again occur.

"If this war has to be fought over again then all our high ideals and purposes have been disappointed, for we did not go into this war merely to beat Germany. We went into this war to beat all purposes such as Germany entertained.

WRONGS NOT FORGOTTEN.

"We are presently, my fellow-countrymen, to have the very great pleasure of welcoming on this side of the sea the Queen and King of the Belgians. [Applause.] And I, for one, am perfectly sure that we are going to make it clear to them that we have not forgotten the violation of Belgium; that we have not forgotten the intolerable wrongs which were put upon that suffering people. I have seen their devastated country. Where it was not actually laid in ruins every factory was gutted of its contents; all the machinery by which it would be possible for

COMMUNIST-SOCIALISTS BAR RICH.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 4.—Despite the protest of Rose Pastor Stokes, the communist party put into its platform, late last night, a provision that no one receiving money from rent, interest or "profit" can belong. Not only Mrs. Stokes but William Bross Lloyd, who signed the appeal bonds which released a number of convicted I.W.W. members from Leavenworth penitentiary recently, is barred from fellowship. The communist party members also decided that doctors, lawyers and editors can have no part in the "coming revolution."

The communist labor party also adopted a programme. It plans propaganda for a "new republic" based on that of Russia, with the shop and factory as the all-important unit.

In the meantime, the national Socialist convention, from which the two radical wings departed, is continuing its sessions, principally occupied with routine work.

Each of the conventions is being watched by agents of the Department of Justice.

In a declaration of principles adopted today, the national Socialist party unqualifiedly indorsed the soviet republic of Russia and the international Socialist movement and condemned the League of Nations.

The delegates jumped to their feet and cheered for several minutes when the paragraph was read approving the soviet republic of Russia. The document compared the Russian revolution with the American Revolution of 1776.

PRESIDENT TELLS COUNTRY TREATY MUST BE RATIFIED TO AVOID WARS IN FUTURE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 4.—President Wilson's special train left here shortly after 10 o'clock tonight for St. Louis, where he will speak tomorrow.

"Put up or shut up," was the advice given opponents of the League of Nations by the President here tonight in the second address of his 10,000-mile tour of the United States. "If the critics of the league have something better to suggest," said the President, "I hope they will hold their convention and do it now."

He said the league opponents could not hope to defeat the programme except by offering something better.

No one believed the League of Nations would make all wars impossible, he said, but he expected it to make war "improbable."

The economic and arbitration sections of the covenant, he asserted, would "keep war on the outskirts" and make it only a "last resort."

Before a crowd that filled to overflowing the fair grounds coliseum, with a seating capacity of 16,000, President Wilson tonight made the second address of his tour.

The President began speaking at 8:15 o'clock and was given an ovation as he arose.

The President was escorted to the coliseum at the State fair grounds by a committee which included Gov. James P. Goodrich, Mayor Charles T. Jewett of Indianapolis; Thomas Taggart, former Gov. Samuel L. Ralston and Franklin McCray, president of the Indiana branch of the League to Enforce Peace. Thousands of persons, including many visitors to the State Fair, crowded the streets and cheered lustily as the President passed.

Gov. Goodrich in a brief address, welcoming the President, said everyone wanted a better understanding among the nations, but that every true American citizen also favored a strong nationalism. He pleaded for all parties to lay aside partisanship in deciding the issues of the peace treaty.

CHEERS GREET HIM.

When the Governor mentioned that the meeting was to hear the President, the crowd cheered for several minutes and the Governor could only stop them by presenting Mr. Wilson. It was ten minutes before the crowd was quieted and the President proceeded. He traced the incidents from which the great war started, saying the significant circumstance was that Austria and Germany "did not dare to discuss" the demands made on Serbia. It generally was admitted abroad, he asserted, that if there had been discussion there would have been no war.

This fact, he said, recalled that the "part of the League of Nations covenant," the agreement not to go to war for nine months after a controversy became acute, had not been considered at all by those who criticise the league.

"If there had been nine days," said the President, "Germany would not have gone to war."

It was a solemn pledge to those who fought the war, said the President, that there should be such an arrangement to prevent future wars.

"The act which was characteristic of the beginning of this war was the violation of the territorial integrity of Belgium," he continued, adding that one of the primary provisions of the league convenant was to prevent violation of territorial integrity.

This provision, he pointed out, was contained in the much discussed Article X.

CONSCIENCE OF WORLD.

"Article X," declared the President, "speaks the conscience of the world. It goes to the heart of this whole bad business."

It was true, Mr. Wilson said, that every man surrendered part of his sovereignty whenever he promised to respect the rights of his neighbors; but he declared he could see no harm, nevertheless, in making such a promise for the common good.

Pointing out that decisions by the league council must be unanimous, the President said that whatever judgment was passed upon the United States by the council must have the concurrence of the United States. He added that, of course, the American delegate on the council would not act without instructions from his government.

Referring to the economic pressure that would be brought to bear on covenant breakers, the President said economic pressure would preclude the need of force.

Referring to the economic questions, Mr. Wilson said that if he did wrong he would rather be shot than be stood up for the judgment of mankind.

Explaining how the treaty freed many small peoples, the President said that Poland, for example, had been given "a unity she could not have won and an independence she cannot maintain," without aid from the great powers.

The President's speech here was interrupted several times by noise in the rear of the great elliptical enclosure. Mr. Wilson's voice did not carry against the din and many persons on the outskirts, unable to hear, left the hall.

POLICE CLOSE DOORS.

After the President had proceeded for a few minutes he was forced to suspend while the police closed the doors.

It was the second extended address to be delivered by the President during the first day of his country-wide speaking trip in the interests of the treaty.

Earlier in the day at Columbus, O., he had outlined in a fifty-minute speech the purpose of the trip which he said was to report to the people and to explain just what the treaty contained.

Opponents of the League of Nations, he said, had discussed on three out of twenty-six articles of the covenant. The articles which would make war improbable had been overlooked.

Calling on opponents of the League of Nations to present a "better programme for peace," President Wilson declared it is a case of put up or shut up.

The President said his speaking trip was partly to point out how "absolutely ignorant" of the contents of the covenant some of those who opposed the league were.

If they read the English language at all," he said, "they don't understand it as I do."

The President said he wanted to forget and wanted people to forget that they were Republicans or Democrats.

"I am an American," he declared, "and a champion of rights which America believes in."

At this the crowd cheered, and there was another outburst of cheering when he declared he had "not the slightest doubt" what the verdict of the people would be.

Some delegations, the President said, came to the Paris conference with causes which were not considered properly within the scope of the Peace Conference. In that connection he pointed out that under Article X any threat of war could be investigated by the league.

"At present," he said, "we have

TREATY IS VITALLY AMERICAN, WILSON TELLS RICHMOND CROWD.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Special Correspondent of the "Times" on Board the President's Train.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

RICHMOND (Ind.) Sept. 4.—One of the largest crowds en route greeted the President at Richmond, at 5 o'clock this afternoon. They called for a speech as the President and his secretary, Joseph Tumulty, came out on the rear platform. The President said to them, in part:

"We have now to make the most critical choice we ever made as a nation and it ought to be made in all soberness and without the slightest tinge of party feeling in it. I would be ashamed of myself if I discussed this great matter as a Democrat and not as an American. I am sure that every man who looks at it without party prejudice and as an American will find in that treaty more things that are genuinely American than were ever put into any similar document before.

"Shall we or shall we not sustain the first great act of international justice? The thing wears a very big aspect when you look at it that way, and all little matters seem to fall away and one seems ashamed to bring in special interests, particularly party interests. What difference does party make when mankind is involved?"

Significance of Treaty and League is Clarified by the President.

COLUMBUS THRONG HEARS KEYNOTE TREATY SPEECH

Wilson Greeted with Wild Enthusiasm and His Address is Given the Closest Attention.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
Special Correspondent of the "Times" on Board the President's Train.
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 4.—President Wilson began his campaign today for the League of Nations.

Out of the fog and drizzle of the early morning in the Ohio valleys, the Presidential special, with the Mayflower on the rear, rolled into Columbus at 11 o'clock this morning, where the "keynote" address of his twenty-seven days' tour of the West was delivered at Memorial Hall.

Big crowds came out to welcome him in Columbus. There were groups at many stations along the way and several times the President came out and shook hands with all who could reach him.

The President made it plain that he does not intend to get into a debate or controversy with the league opponents in the Senate. He has started out to interpret and "clarify" the whole document to the people. He takes the ground that the critics of the league plan do not understand it or are misstating its terms and that as a whole it is the best workable plan that could emerge from the world turmoil and that unless it is adopted more wars are sure to follow.

CONFIDENT OF ADOPTION.

He promised the people of Columbus if the league covenant was adopted, and he expressed assurance that it would be, that they would not have to send their sons and fathers away in khaki across the seas again.

The President laid stress upon the punishment inflicted upon Germany in the treaty, explaining that it was in the nature of reparation and that Germany had been treated on the basis that she must be made to pay all she could pay and not more.

He said that the league plan contained a new Magna Charta of labor and that whether the plan was ratified or not the first labor congress, as outlined in the league terms would meet in Washington next month. By his emphasis on this he seemed to point the way to a new outlook for labor throughout the world. There is nothing political about it, he said, but it concerns the conditions of labor and that "labor shall be remunerated in proportion to the maintenance of the standard of living which is proper for the man who is expected to give his whole brain and energy to a particular task."

FULL OF AMERICANISM.

The central idea of the treaty, he said, is that nations do not consist of their governments but consist of their people. He said he thought he understood the heart of the American people better than some who are speaking for them. It was a treaty, he said, shot full of American principles, as American treaty without which he would not have dared to come home, an attempt to "right the history of Europe and in my humble judgment a measurable success."

He said that he was glad to get away from Washington and that it had become increasingly necessary that he should report to the American people.

He said he did not have to report to any one else. He asked if the opponents of the league had forgotten the promises made before the peace table conferences began.

"If we do not do this thing," he said, "we have neglected the central covenant we made to our people. The rivalries of this world have not cooled us, they have rendered passions hotter than ever."

REDEEM THE WEAK.

He warned the people that great wrongs would be attempted unless the nations united. The center of the treaty, he said, is the redemption of weak nations. He ended his appeal in this way:

"It makes a league of the fine passions of the world, of its philanthropic passions, of its passions of pity, of its passion of human sympathy, of its passion of human friendliness and helpfulness."

He asked the people to assert their spirit for the league, not to let it be pulled down and misrepresented.

"What about Shantung, Mr. President?" asked a Chinese in the gallery at the Columbus meeting.

LISTENS INTENTLY.

The President did not hear him. The crowd at Memorial Hall was friendly and cheered the President warmly. They listened to him intently. The crowds along the street, where the parade of automobiles passed from the station to the hall along North High and Broad streets, were wildly enthusiastic. An escort of soldiers from Columbus barracks led the way. There was a long string of automobiles. Airplanes curved overhead. The President and Mrs. Wilson rode with former Gov. James E. Campbell and Mayor George L. Karb. Mrs. Wilson carried flowers which had been sent to the train by J. Cookey Jones, Mayor of Buckeye Lake, O., and Mrs. Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones appended their pictures and the pictures of the three Jones children. In Columbus Mrs. Wilson was given a great bouquet of red roses. She carried this to the platform at Memorial Hall. A girl song leader started the crowd singing "Dixie" and the audience rose and gave a great cheer as Mrs. Wilson stood beside her husband clasping the roses.

SCOUTS FORM LANE.

Boy Scouts and police helped to clear the lanes in Columbus and the train got away on schedule time. The President was in a cheerful mood all day, and seemed to enjoy getting away from Washington. He came into the club car during the afternoon and chatted with newspaper men for half an hour. Cinema men are a feature of this trip, three of them going along on the train and taking scenes in every city.

The Presidential special is traveling as the second section of a regular passenger train. Thomas M. Lipsett, general passenger agent, is in charge of the train down to details. A secret service man is ahead of the tour several days, making all arrangements. Every detail as to automobiles, routes, addresses and receptions is arranged.

At Urbana, O., a group reached the President. One man asked him about Shantung. The President explained that criticism of Japan in this matter was not justified at present. He said he thought Japan would keep her promise to restore the province and that this might be expected two or three months after peace was signed.

SURE OF VICTORY.

Someone ventured the opinion that he would beat his opponents in the Senate. The President replied that this was easy because their cause was weak.

The President greeted a group of Red Cross girls at Dennison, O., this morning. They were waiting to feed a trainload of soldiers that is following the special. The President told the girls he was sorry he could not be on hand to greet Gen. Pershing when he returns from Europe.

Shaking Hands with an Admirer from Rear of Private Train.

At every station where the Presidential train stops great crowds surround the rear of Mr. Wilson's private car, The Mayflower. The picture shows the President leaning far over the rear railing returning the greeting of one who wishes him well. At either side of the President are standing secret service agents, ever on the alert for danger to the United States' chief Executive.

TEXT OF SPEECH IN COLUMBUS.

President Tells Enthusiastic Audience That the Heart of the Treaty is Rectifying Age-Long Wrongs of Weak Nations.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

COLUMBUS, Sept. 4.—The text of President Wilson's address here today follows:

Mr. Chairman, Governor Campbell and my fellow citizens:

It is with very profound pleasure that I find myself face to face with you. I have for a long time chafed at the confinement of Washington. I have for a long time wished to fulfill the purpose with which my heart was full when I returned to our beloved country, namely, to go out and report to my fellow countrymen concerning those affairs of the world which now need to be settled.

The only people I owe any report to are you and the other citizens of the United States and it has become increasingly necessary, apparently, that I should report to you. After all the various angles at which you have heard the treaty held up (perhaps you would like to know what is in the treaty. I find it very difficult in reading some of the speeches that I have read to form any conception of that great document.

It is a document unique in the history of the world for many reasons and I think I can not do you better service or the peace of the world a better service than by pointing out to you just what this treaty contains and what it seeks to do.

PUNISHES GREAT WRONG.

In the first place, my fellow countrymen, it seeks to punish one of the greatest wrongs ever done in history, the wrong which Germany ought to do to the world and to civilization and there ought to be no weak purpose with regard to the application of the punishment. She attempted an intolerable thing and must be made to pay for the attempt.

The terms of the treaty are severe, but they are not unjust. I can say that the men associated with me at the Peace Conference in Paris had it in their hearts to do justice and not wrong, but they knew perhaps with a more vivid sense of what had happened than we could possibly know on this side of the water the many solemn covenants which Germany had disregarded, the long preparation she had made to overwhelm her neighbors, the utter disregard which she had shown for human rights, for the rights of women and children and those who were helpless. They had seen their lands devastated by an enemy that devoted itself, not only to the effort of victory, but to the effort of terror, seeking to terrify the people whom they fought, and I wish to testify that they exercised restraint in the terms of this treaty. They did not wish to overwhelm any great nation and they had no purpose in overwhelming the German people, but they did think that it ought to be burned into the consciousness of men forever that no people ought to permit its government to do what the German government did.

INIQUITY IS REALIZED.

In the last analysis, my fellow-countrymen, as we in America would be the first to claim a people are responsible for the acts of their government, if their government purposes things that are wrong, they ought to take measures to see to it that purpose is not executed.

Germany was self-governed. Her rulers had not concealed the purposes that they had in mind, but they had deceived their people as to the character of the methods they were going to use, and I believe from what I can learn that there is an awakened consciousness in Germany itself of the deep iniquity of the thing that was attempted.

When the Austrian delegates came before the Peace Conference they, in so many words, spoke of the origination of the war as a crime, and admitted in our presence that it was a thing intolerable to contemplate. They knew in their hearts that it had done them the deepest conceivable wrong; that it had put their people and the people of Germany at the judgment seat of mankind, and throughout this treaty every term that was applied to Germany was meant, not to humiliate Germany, but to rectify the wrong that she had done.

NO INDEMNITY.

And if you will look even into the severe terms of reparation, for there was no indemnity—no indemnity of any sort was claimed—merely reparation, merely paying for the destruction done, merely making good the losses, so far as the losses could be made good which she had unjustly inflicted, not upon the governments—for the reparation is not to go to the governments—but upon the people whose rights she had trodden upon with absolute absence of everything that even resembled pity.

There is no indemnity in this treaty, but there is reparation, and even in the terms of reparation a method is devised by which the reparation shall be adjusted to Germany's ability to pay it.

I am astonished at some of the statements I see made about this treaty, and the truth is that they are made by persons who have not read the treaty, or who, if they have read it, have not comprehended its meaning.

PAYMENT IS RIGHTEOUS.

There is a method of adjustment in the treaty by which the reparation shall not be pressed beyond the point which Germany can pay, but she will be pressed to the utmost point that she can pay which is just, which is righteous. It would be intolerable if there had been anything else, for, my fellow-citizens, this treaty is not meant merely to end this single war, it is meant as a notice to every government who in the future will attempt this thing that mankind will unite to inflict the same punishment.

There is no national triumph sought to be recorded in this treaty. There is no glory sought for any particular nation. The thought of the statesmen collected around that table was of their people, of the sufferings that they had gone through, of the losses they had incurred, that great throbbing heart which was so depressed, so forlorn, so sad in every memory that it had of the five tragical years, my fellow-countrymen. Let us never forget the purpose, the high purpose, the disinterested purpose with which America lent its strength, not for its own glory, but for the advance of mankind.

And, as I said, this treaty was not intended merely to end this war, it was intended to prevent any similar war.

I wonder if some of the opponents of the League of Nations have forgotten the promises we made our people before we went to that peace table? We had taken by processes of law the flower of our youth from every countryside, from every household, and we told those mothers and fathers, and sisters and wives and sweethearts that we were taking those men to fight a war which would end business of that sort, and if we do not end it, if we do not do the best that human concert of action can do to end it, we are of all men the most unfaithful—the most unfaithful to the loving hearts who suffered in this war; the most unfaithful to those whose heads bowed in grief, yet lifted with the feeling that the lad laid down his life for great things, among other things, in order that other lads might not have to do the same thing.

PURPOSE OF LEAGUE.

That is what the League of Nations is for, to end this war justly, and it is not merely to serve notice on governments which would contemplate the same things which Germany contemplated, that they will do it at their peril, but also concerning the combination of power which will prove to them that they will do it at their peril. It is idle to say the world will combine against you because it may not, but it is persuasive to say the world is combined against you, and will remain combined against any who attempt the same things that you attempted.

The league of nations is the only thing that can prevent the recurrence of this dreadful catastrophe and redeem our promises. And the character of the league is based upon the experience of this very war.

It did not meet a single public man who did not admit these things, that Germany would not have gone into this war if she had thought Great Britain was going into it and that she most certainly would never have gone into this war if she had dreamed America was going into it, and they have all admitted that a notice beforehand that the greatest powers of the world would combine to prevent this sort of thing would have prevented it absolutely.

ISSUE IS FAITH.

When gentlemen tell you, therefore, that the league of nations is intended for some other purpose than this, merely reply this to them. 'If we do not do this thing we have neglected the central covenant that we made to our people,' and there will be no statesman of any country who can thereafter promise his people any alleviation from the perils of war.

The passions of this world are not dead; the rivalries of this world have not cooled; they have been rendered hotter than ever. The harness that is to unite nations is more necessary now than it ever was before and unless there is this sureness of combined action before wrong is attempted, wrong will be attempted just so soon as the most ambitious nations can recover from the financial stress of this war.

HELPS THE WEAK.

Now, look, what else is in the treaty. This treaty is unique in the history of mankind because the center of it is the redemption of weak nations. There never was a Congress of nations before that considered the rights of those who could not enforce their rights. There never was a Congress of nations before that did not seek to effect some balance of power brought about by means of serving the strength and interest of the strongest powers concerned, whereas this treaty builds up nations that never could have won their freedom in any other way. It builds them up by gift, by largess, not by obligation, builds them up because of the conviction of the men who wrote the treaty that the rights of people transcend the rights of governments, because of the conviction of the men who wrote the treaty that the fertile source of war is wrong; that the Austro-Hungarian empire, for example, was held together by military force and consisted of peoples who did not want to live together; who did not have the spirit of nationality as towards each other; who were constantly chafing at the bands that held them.

PARTNERS IN AMBITION.

Hungary, though a willing partner of Austria, was willing to be her partner because she could share Austria's strength for accomplishing her own ambitions, and her own ambitions were to hold under the Jugo-Slavic peoples that lie to the south of her. Bohemia, an unhappy partner—a partner by duress, bowing in all her veins the strongest national impulse that was to be found anywhere in Europe and north of this pitiful Poland, a great nation divided up among the great powers of Europe; torn asunder—kinship disregarded, natural ties treated with contempt and an obligatory division among sovereigns imposed upon her, a part of her given to Russia, a part of her given to Austria, and a part of her given to Germany and great bodies of Polish people never permitted to have the normal intercourse with their kinsmen for fear that that instinct of the heart should assert itself which binds families together. Poland could never have won her independence. Bohemia never could have broken away from the Austro-Hungarian combination.

The Slavic peoples to the south running down into the great Balkan peninsula had again and again tried to assert their nationality and independence and had as often been crushed, not by the immediate power they were fighting but by the combined power of Europe.

LITTLE NATIONS CRUSHED.

The old alliances, the old balances of power, were meant to see to it that no little nation asserted its rights to the disturbance of the peace of Europe and every time an assertion of rights was attempted they were suppressed by combined influence and force and this treaty tears away all that and says these people have a right to live their own lives under the governments which they themselves choose to set up. That is the American principle and I was glad to fight for it and when strategic considerations were urged I said—not I alone—but it was a matter of common council that strategic considerations were not in our thought, that we are not now arranging for future wars, but were giving people what belonged to them.

ADRIATIC CLAIMS.

My fellow citizens, I do not think there is any man alive who has a more tender sympathy for the great people of Italy than I have and a very stern duty was presented to us when we had to consider some of the claims of Italy on the Adriatic because strategically, from the point of view of future wars, Italy needed a military foothold on the other side of the Adriatic, but her people did not live there except in little spots. It was a Slavic people and I had to say to my Italian friends that everywhere else in this treaty we have given territory to the people who lived on it and I do not think that it is for the advantage of Italy and I am sure it is not to the advantage of the world to give Italy territory where other people live.

MILITARISTIC PURPOSE.

I felt the force of the argument for what they wanted, and it was the old argument that had always prevailed, namely, that they needed it from a military point of view and I have no doubt that if there is no League of Nations they will need it from a military point of view, but if there is a League of Nations they will not need it from a military point of view. If there is no League of Nations the military point of view will prevail in every instance and peace will be brought into contempt, but if there is a League of Nations Italy need not fear the fact that the shores on the other side of the Adriatic tower above her lower sandy shores on her side of the sea because there will be no threatening guns there and the nations of the world will have considered not merely to see that the Slavic peoples have their rights, but that the Italian people have their rights as well. I would rather have everybody on my side than be armed to the teeth and every settlement that is right, every settlement that is based upon the principles I have alluded to, is a safe settlement because the sympathy of mankind will be behind it.

TRUST IN THE PEOPLE.

Some gentlemen have feared with regard to the League of Nations that we will be obliged to do things we don't want to do. If the treaty were wrong that might be so; but if the treaty is right we will wish to preserve right. I think I know the heart of this great people whom I for the time being have the high honor to represent better than some other men that I hear talk.

I have been bred and am proud to have been bred in the old revolutionary stock which set this government up, when America was set up as a friend of mankind, and I know if they do not—that America has never lost that vision or that purpose.

But I haven't the slightest fear that arms will be necessary if the purpose is there. If I know that my adversary is armed and I am not, I do not press the controversy and if any nation entertains selfish purposes set against the principles established in this treaty, and is told by the rest of the world that it must withdraw its claims, it will not press them.

HEART OF THE TREATY.

The heart of this treaty, then, my fellow citizens, is not even that it punishes Germany—that is, a temporary thing—it is that it rectifies the age-long wrong which characterized the history of Europe.

There were some of us who wished that the scope of the treaty would reach some other age-long

WILSON SHRUGS AT THIRD TERM.

Ohio Man Suggests it, but it Gets Laugh and Gesture.

First Day is One of the Most Strenuous of Schedule.

President in Excellent Condition, Says Doctor.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

ON BOARD PRESIDENT WILSON'S SPECIAL TRAIN, Sept. 4.—When the President's train stopped for a few minutes at Dennison, O., a number of Red Cross workers and some town folks were at the station and the President came out on the platform of his car. He greeted the small crowd and chatted with the Red Cross workers for a moment.

An elderly, gray-bearded man got in conversation with the President just before the train pulled out of Dennison.

"I wish you success on your trip," he said. "It means a great deal to me. I lost two boys in the war and have only one left. I am looking to you to prevent future wars so he won't have to go."

SHRUGS AT THIRD TERM.

Another man in the crowd reminded the President that Dennison had voted against him in the last Presidential election, but would be for him in 1920.

"Oh, no," replied the President, laughing and shrugging his shoulders.

The first day of the trip was one of the most strenuous of the twenty-six which will elapse before the President returns to Washington. Speaking in Columbus, O., before noon, he had arranged to go on to Indianapolis in time to address a meeting there at night.

IN GOOD TRIM.

Mr. Wilson appeared in good trim for his arduous speech-making schedule, and was said by his physician, Rear-Admiral Grayson, to be in excellent health. He retired early last night after a talk with Secretary Tumulty regarding the points to be covered in the Columbus speech, and arranged during the morning to make further preparations. He decided, however, to speak extemporaneously.

The speech at Columbus, being his first utterance regarding the treaty addressed directly to the people, was expected by his advisers to strike the keynote of his entire tour. Columbus was the farthest East of the thirty cities on the schedule and the address there was to be one of only four to be delivered East of the Mississippi River.

KEPT PROMISE, SAYS WILSON.

to mind our own business, but under the covenant and the league we can mind other people's business."

There wasn't an oppressed people anywhere, he said, that could not get attention for itself under the league. He did not mention any oppressed people by that name, but many of his hearers remarked that they thought he spoke of the case of Ireland.

Referring to the Shantung section, the President pointed out that Japanese repeatedly had promised to return the peninsula to China. He did not go into the subject at length, however, but mentioned it in emphasizing that the covenant would refuse to recognize the validity of secret treaties.

KEPT HIS PROMISE.

The President said he could look the mothers of the country in the face proudly, because he had kept his promise to do all he could to prevent any more war.

"This league," he said, "is the only conceivable arrangement which will prevent our sending our men abroad again very soon."

The Presidential train pulled into the station promptly at 7 o'clock and escorted by a citizens' committee, President Wilson was driven five miles to the Coliseum.

Along the entire route the streets were thronged with people who had turned out to greet him.

When the fair grounds were reached thousands cheered as the President made his way into the hall. Many who had attended the State fair during the day remained over to see the President.

MAINTENANCE OF WAY MEN ASKING A RISE.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—Representatives of the 600,000 members of the United Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way and Railroad Shop Laborers, asked the railroad wage board today to adjust their wages in accordance with the principle laid down by President Wilson in approving adjustments last week for the railroad shopmen.

The board was told that the men adhered to the President's decision that there should be no increases of wages while government agencies were actively seeking to return economic conditions to normal, but that they felt the inequalities in pay existing as between the employees of different railroad systems should be corrected. The maintenance of way men and shop laborers, the spokesmen said, received the lowest rates of pay of any class of employees in the railroad service.

Decision to ask for an adjustment of their wages at this time was reached by the men recently through a secret ballot. It was announced that the question of a general wage increase would be considered at the annual convention of the Brotherhood of Detroit, September 8.

DETROIT, Sept. 4.—The strike referendum of the United Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way and Shop Laborers, completed Wednesday, shows that 325,000 members favor a walk-out unless their demands for a wage increase of approximately $1 a day per man are granted, brotherhood officials announced today.

ARTICLE TEN IS NOT A BARRIER.

Wilson Interprets Moral Significance of Pact.

Explains that Conscience of World is Behind It.

men to go to work again was taken away, and those parts of the machinery that they could not take away were destroyed by experts who knew how to destroy them.

"Belgium was a very successful competitor of Germany in some lines of manufacture, and the German armies were sent there to see to it that that competition was put a stop to. Their purpose was to crush the independent action of that little kingdom—not merely to use it as a gateway through which to attack France. And when they got into France they not only fought the armies of France, but they put the coal mines of France out of commission, so that it will be a decade or more before France can supply herself with coal from her accustomed source.

ARTICLE TEN'S PURPOSE.

"You have heard a great deal about Article X of the covenant of the League of Nations. Article X speaks the conscience of the world. Article X is the article which goes to the heart of this whole bad business, for that article says that the members of this league—and that is intended to be all the great nations of the world—engage to respect and preserve against all external aggression the territorial integrity and political independence of the nations concerned. That promise is necessary in order to prevent this sort of war recurring and we are absolutely discredited if we fought this war and then neglect the essential safeguard against it.

"You have heard it said, my fellow-citizens, that we are robbed of some degree of our sovereign, independent choice by an article of that sort. Every man who makes a choice to respect the rights of his neighbors deprives himself of absolute sovereignty, but he does it by promising never to do wrong, and I cannot, for one, see anything that robs me of any inherent right that I ought to retain, when I promise that I will do right.

MORAL COMPULSION.

"We engage, in the first sentence of Article X, to respect and preserve from external aggression, the territorial integrity and the existing political independence, not only of the other member states, but of all states, and if any member of the League of Nations disregards that promise, then what happens? The council of the league advises what should be done to enforce the respect for that covenant, on the part of the nation attempting to violate it. And there is no compulsion upon us to take that advice—except the compulsion of our good conscience and judgment. So that it is perfectly evident that it, in the judgment of the people of the United States, the council adjudged wrong, and that this was not an occasion for the use of force, there would be no necessity on the part of Congress of the United States to vote the use of force.

the use of force. But there could be no advice of the council on any subject without a unanimous vote and the unanimous vote would include our own. And if we accepted the advice we would be accepting our own advice. For I need not tell you that the representatives of the government of the United States would not vote without instructions from their government at home and that what we united in advising we could be certain that our people would desire to do.

NO NOTE OF SURRENDER.

There is in that covenant not one note of surrender of the independent judgment of the government of the United States, but an expression of it, because that independent judgment would have to join with the judgment of the rest.

But when is that judgment going to be expressed, my fellow citizens? Only after it is evident that every other resource has failed. And I want to call your attention to the central machinery of the League of Nations. If any member of that league, or any nation not a member, refuses to submit the question at issue either to arbitration or to discussion by the council, there ensues, automatically, by the arrangements of this covenant, an absolute economic boycott. There will be no trade with that nation by any member of the league, there will be no interchange of communication by post or telegraph; there will be no travel to or from that nation. Its borders will be closed; no citizen of any other State will be allowed to enter it and no one of its citizens will be allowed to leave it. It will be hermetically sealed by the unified action of the most powerful nations in the world, and if this economic boycott bears with unequal weight the members of the league agree to support one another, and to relieve one another in any exceptional disadvantage that may arise out of it. And I want you to realize that this [illegible] was won, not only by the arms of the world, but it was won by economic means, as well. Without the economic means the war would have been much longer continued. What happened was that Germany was shut off from the economic resources from the rest of the world and she could not stand it; and a nation that is boycotted is a nation that is in sight of surrender. And this economic, peaceful [illegible] deadly remedy and there will be no need for force.

It is a terrible remedy. It does not cost a life outside the nation boycotted, but it brings a pressure upon that nation which, in my judgment, no modern nation could resist.

"PUT UP OR SHUT UP."

The covenant is the only conceivable arrangement which will prevent our sending our men abroad again, very soon. And, if I may use a very common expression, I would say, "If it is not to be this arrangement, what arrangement do you suggest to secure the peace of the world? It is a case of put up or shut up."

Opposition is not going to stop the world; negations are not going to construct the policies of any kind. A great plan is the only thing that can defeat a great plan. The only triumphant ideas in this world are the ideas that are organized for battle. The only thing that stands is an organized programme is a living programme.

If this is not the way to secure peace I beg that the way may be pointed to you. If we must return this way, then I beg that before I am sent to ask Germany to accept a new kind of peace with us, I shall be given specific instructions as to what kind of peace it is to be.

If the gentlemen who don't like what was done in Paris think they can do something better I beg that they will hold their convention soon and do it now. They cannot, in conscience, or in good faith, deprive the world of this great work of peace without substituting some other [illegible] for it.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 4.—Because of the strike at the yards of the Los Angeles Shipbuilding & Dry Dock Company, all vessels established by that corporation since the strike started have been placed on the blacklist of the Bay Cities Metal Trades Council and the Water Front Workers' Federation. When this position was taken by these two labor unions last night, it was stated that, should any vessels finished by the Los Angeles concern since the strike began put into the port of San Francisco, union sailors will refuse to sail on such vessels, riggers and stevedores will decline to handle any cargo for the vessels and no repairs will be done by members of the unions affiliated with the Bay City Metal Trades Council.

This action will become effective at once and will apply to the steamer West Calumb, which is due in San Francisco soon.

An effort to make the boycott on vessels constructed by the Los Angeles firm Coast-wide will be started by the Bay Cities Metal Trades Council and the Water Front Workers' Federation. This is a part of the programme decided upon at a recent conference in this city of heads of unions affiliated with the metal trades department of the American Federation of Labor, who say the Los Angeles Shipbuilding & Dry Dock Company refused to become a party to the wage scale and working agreement negotiated for all shipyards on the Pacific Coast.

LIQUOR CONFISCATION IS LIGHT IN PORTLAND

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PORTLAND, Sept. 4.—The effect of the national prohibition act is being felt, even in "dry" Portland, according to the report of the police morals squad for the last month, announced today.

The report shows that only 14 gallons of liquors of all kinds were confiscated during the month. There were only eighteen arrests for violations of the prohibition law.

HABIT-FORMING DRUGS WORTH $100,000 SEIZED

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—Eight men were arrested and habit forming drugs, valued at more than $100,000 were seized here today by internal revenue agents in what they declared to be the most important raid of its kind that has ever taken place in this district.

The prisoners had $25,000 in cash on their persons and are said to be members of a gang whose operations extended throughout the country.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

CONSTANTINOPLE (via London) Sept. 4.—More than 1000 persons were executed by the Bolsheviki before they evacuated the city of Yekaterinoslav, in Southern Russia, according to a dispatch giving a physician's account of the massacres. The physician was present at the opening of the pits into which the bodies of these victims had been thrown.

This physician, a Dr. Robin, declares the victims' heads had been crushed with hammers and their bodies badly mutilated. Many of them, he says, were found with broken legs and ribs, caused by blows with sledge hammers.

The physician tells of the case of one officer who missed being shot by the firing squad's bullets, but simulating death, escaped the Bolsheviki, who came along, bayoneting the wounded.

The Bolshevik organizations in the city had been headed by a Serbian man and various Chinese, and the principal posts of the soviet administration were in the hands of young men and women. Wholesale pillaging is declared to have occurred in the town before the evacuation.

This action will become effective at once and will apply to the steamer West Calumb, which is due in San Francisco soon.

An effort to make the boycott on vessels constructed by the Los Angeles firm Coast-wide will be started by the Bay Cities Metal Trades Council and the Water Front Workers' Federation. This is a part of the programme decided upon at a recent conference in this city of heads of unions affiliated with the metal trades department of the American Federation of Labor, when the Los Angeles Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company refused to become a party to the wage scale and working agreement negotiated for all shipyards on the Pacific Coast.

LIQUOR CONFISCATION IS LIGHT IN PORTLAND.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PORTLAND, Sept. 4.—The effect of the national prohibition act is being felt, even in "dry" Portland, according to the report of the police morals squad for the last month, announced today.

The report shows that only 144 gallons of liquors of all kinds were confiscated during the month. There were only eighteen arrests for violations of the prohibition law.

HABIT-FORMING DRUGS WORTH $100,000 SEIZED.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—Eight men were arrested and habit forming drugs, valued at more than $100,000 were seized here today by internal revenue agents in what they declared to be the most important raid of its kind that has ever taken place in this district.

The prisoners had $25,000 in cash on their persons and are said to be members of a gang whose operations extended throughout the country.

LABOR UNIONS THREATEN INDUSTRIAL BODIES' ACT.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—Decision of President Wilson to have the public well represented in the conference planned to discuss industrial and economic readjustments next month was disclosed from the White House today through publication of the President's letter to heads of various associations setting the definite date for the conference as October 6 and requesting them to appoint their own representatives.

The President says that he will name fifteen individuals to look after the interest of the general public in the discussions which he says will be for the purpose of "reaching, if possible, some common ground of agreement and action with regard to the future conduct of industry."

The other representation at the conference will include five persons to be selected by the United States Chamber of Commerce, five by the National Industrial Conference Board, fifteen by the American Federation of Labor, three by farmers' organizations of the country, and two by the Investment Bankers' Association, forty-five in all, exclusive of the President and members of the Cabinet, who will also participate in the conference.

DEVELOPMENTS AT CAPITAL.

Coincident with the publication of the President's letter, other developments in Washington, all having a bearing on the general economic situation, were as follows:

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, protested to the District of Columbia commissioners against their order directing Washington policemen to desert their American Federation of Labor policemen's union or give up their jobs, sounded a note of warning against the tendency in some quarters to deprive working men of their rights, stating that four million Americans who fought in Europe to kill autocracy did not propose to come back home to be confronted with a spirit of autocracy upon the part of employer or government.

Heads of twenty-four international unions in the iron and steel industry conferred on the critical situation which has arisen over refusal of the United States Steel Corporation to recognize the organizations or to confer with their representatives, determined that some severe measures must be taken, and it may be impossible to avert a strike.

The railway department of the American Federation of Labor announced that the 500,000 railroad shopmen of the country had voted to reject President Wilson's offer of a 4 per cent. increase in wages, and to insist upon their original demands for a 15 per cent. increase, but agreed to leave the general strike order to their executive council, pending the administration's effort to bring down the cost of living.

Fifteen hundred shopmen in three cities who disregarded the strike advice were urged to return to work by their national chiefs and ordered to return by Saturday morning by the Railroad Administration or sacrifice their jobs.

Completion of plans by the United States Chamber of Commerce for the international trade conference to open in Atlantic City September 30, at which general economic and industrial conditions will be considered from a world standpoint.

Adoption by the Senate of a resolution approved at a joint meeting of Senate and House labor committees indorsing President Wilson's proposed industrial conference.

Appeal to the President by the American National Live Stock Association on behalf of legislation to regulate the packing industry, the association asserting that the high cost of living is at the bottom of industrial unrest.

PRESIDENT'S LETTER.

The President's letter regarding the forthcoming "round table" discussion was addressed to Magnus W. Alexander, managing director of the National Industrial Conference Board, Boston; Homer L. Ferguson, president of Chamber of Commerce of the United States; Samuel Gompers, president American Federation of Labor; William C. Baker, Jr., president Investment Bankers' Association; C. S. Barrett, president, National Farmers' Union; Oliver Wilson, president National Grange, Peoria, and J. H. Tittemore, president American Society of Equity.

The letter was as follows:

"The White House, Washington, September 3, 1919.

"My dear sir: For the purpose of reaching, if possible, some common ground of agreement and action with regard to the future conduct of industry, I desire to obtain the combined judgment of representative employers, representative employees and representatives of the general public conversant with these matters, and for the accomplishment of that purpose I have decided to call a conference of five persons to be selected by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States of America, five persons to be selected by the National Industrial Conference Board, fifteen persons to be selected by the American Federation of Labor, three persons to be selected by the farming organizations, and two persons to be selected by the investment bankers, to confer with fifteen representatives of the general public whom I shall select, these representatives to meet in the city of Washington on October 6, 1919, for the purpose of consulting together on the great and vital questions affecting our industrial life and their consequent effect upon all our people, to discuss such methods as have already been tried out of bringing capital and labor into close cooperation and to canvass every revelant feature of the present industrial situation for the purpose of enabling us to work out, if possible, in a genuine spirit of co-operation a practicable method of restoration based upon a real community of interest which will redound to the welfare of all our people.

"The wastages of war have seriously interfered with the natural course of our industrial and economic development. The nervous tension of our people has not yet relaxed to normal. The necessity of devising at once methods by which we can speedily recover from this condition and obviate the wastefulness caused by the continued interruption of many of our important industrial enterprises by strikes and lockouts emphasizes the need for a meeting of minds in a conference such as I have suggested. I am sure that your organization will gladly bear the expenses of its own representatives to a conference chosen for such an important purpose and I would therefore request that you select five persons to act as the representatives of the industrial conference board in the conference and advise the Secretary of Labor of the names and addresses of the persons selected so that he may make the necessary arrangements for the meeting.

"Sincerely yours,

"WOODROW WILSON."

SENATE APPROVES.

The Senate adopted today a resolution indorsing the proposed conference which was proposed by Senator Kenyon and approved by the Senate and House Labor Committees in joint session as follows:

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled that,

Whereas the President of the United States has called or is about to call a conference of the representatives of labor, capital and agriculture for the purpose of discussing questions relating to these great interests as affecting each other and the public, therefore be it

Resolved that the Congress of the United States endorse the plan of the President in calling such conference and pledges to him its earnest support and co-operation for the success thereof.

The House is expected to pass the resolution tomorrow.

FIRM HAND FOR STRIKE.

The Railroad Administration laid a firm hand on 1500 railroad shopmen today who have struck in three cities despite the fact that their executive officers have withheld a strike order and that the majority of the organization voted to permit the officers to hold the order in abeyance.

All of the strikers who do not return to work by Saturday will be regarded as dropped from the service. The shopmen affected are on strike at Havelock, Neb., Cumberland, Md., and Depew, N. Y. Director-General Hines sent telegrams today to the regional directors in each of the districts, the following being his telegram to Hale Holden, regional director at Chicago:

"I am advised that certain mechanical department employees of the C. B. & Q. Railroad at Havelock, Neb., are engaged in a strike in violation of their agreements with the individual railroad upon which they have been employed and in violation of the agreement for adjustment of grievances between the United States Railroad Administration and the chief executives of the organizations to which the strikers belong, as well as in violation of the laws of the organizations of which they are members. The chief executives of these organizations have definitely instructed their members to return to work. Will you please at once instruct the General manager of the C. B. & Q. railroad to post copies of this telegram on bulletin boards and in conspicuous places at and in the vicinity of the shops affected as notice to all employees who are on strike to resume work not later than their regular reporting time on Saturday, September 6, and further as a notice that those who do not report and resume duty at or before their regular reporting time on that date will be considered as having permanently left the service of the United States Railroad Administration, their places will be filled and if they return to the service of the Railroad Administration later it will be only as new employees. This telegram will also be considered by the Federal manager as his instructions to proceed accordingly.

"WALKER D. HINES,
"Director-General of Railroads."

TRIPLE ALLIANCE POSTPONES ACTION.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, Sept. 4.—The triple alliance of railway employees, transportation workers and miners at their meeting here today decided to postpone consideration of the question of taking a ballot again on direct action in support of their demands. The postponement will be until after the Glasgow Congress of Trades Unions, to be held September 8.

SEATS AND STANDING ROOM TO HEAR SPEECH OF PRESIDENT TO BE DRAWN.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Sept. 4.—Seats and standing room in the public auditorium at President Wilson's meeting here Monday night, September 15, will be assigned through a State-wide lottery to be conducted in Portland under the supervision of a responsible committee, it was announced today. Coupons will be published in the Portland newspapers which can be filled out indicating that a seat at the meeting is desired.

These coupons are to be mailed to a headquarters to be designated, there deposited in a large sealed box and on the day of the lottery, which will probably be Wednesday, September 10, will be emptied into a large receptacle, shaken and drawn.

Under the proposed plan the first 4000 names drawn will be assigned seats, given under the first-come, first-served plan. The next 2500 coupons drawn will entitle the owners to a ticket for standing room.

Ample opportunity will be given to residents of Oregon to catch a glimpse of the President and Mrs. Wilson, as the committee plans to take the entire Presidential party in automobiles through the main streets, over thoroughfares on the east side, thence to the Columbia River highway, returning by way of Gresham.

NEW MEXICO PLANS TO FIGHT PROFITEERS.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SANTA FE (N. M.) Sept. 4.—A special session of the New Mexico Legislature will be called to enact such laws as will protect the public against extortion and undue illegal profiteering, if vigorous prosecutions demonstrate that the present laws are wholly inadequate to stop soaring prices. This is the declaration made today by Gov. D. A. Larrazolo in letters he is sending to various agencies, including mayors, presiding judges of the district courts, and the chambers of commerce, touching upon high cost of living.

CHINA'S FAITH UNSHAKEN.

Peace Delegate Believes in Friendship of America and Justice of League.

BY ROBERT B. ARMSTRONG.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—In an interview here, Tai Chi Quo said that the American peace delegation at the Paris conference did its best to effect an equitable and just settlement of the Far Eastern question and only yielded on the ground of expediency and that the American efforts were a genuine evidence of the friendship that has continued unbroken for three-quarters of a century.

Tai Chi Quo was technical delegate of China to the Paris peace conference and was formerly secretary to the President of China. He said that the government and people of China have no doubt that the League of Nations will eventually secure peace for the world and establish peace and justice in the Far East where they have been lacking.

The interview which was given just as Tai Chi Quo was leaving Washington, where he recently arrived from Paris, was as follows:

HAS FAITH IN LEAGUE.

"China looks to the League of Nations for justice that was not hers at Paris.

"China confidently expects the League of Nations to reject the principles in respect to Far Eastern affairs that prevailed in Paris. The League of Nations has been a Chinese policy for centuries; her people are reasonable and averse to war. They have no doubt that the League of Nations will eventually secure peace for the world and establish peace and justice in the Far East where they have been lacking.

"China believes that the League of Nations is a big step in the right direction and an institution destined to grow; and that with its growth, China's opportunity to lead a free and untrammeled life among the nations will be assured.

FRIENDSHIP NOT AFFECTED.

"The Shantung question has not affected the friendly attitude of China toward the United States. China is grateful for all that America has done for her in the past and for her efforts at Paris on China behalf. The American peace delegation did its best to effect an equitable and just settlement of the Far Eastern question during the conference and only yielded on the ground of expediency. While China does not agree entirely that the final solution was the necessary expedient, she nevertheless feels that the American efforts were a genuine evidence of the friendship that has continued unbroken for three-quarters of a century.

"We were disappointed at not being chosen as one of the four smaller nations to be represented in the Council of the League. We hope that at the first meeting of the league China's right to represent the great populations and the several nations of the Orient in that body will be recognized. In the assembly of course we have equal representation with all nations great and small.

"While a great deal can be said about the moral issue involved in the Shantung question, I prefer to rest the case on the facts as China has seen them. By the Chinese declaration of war she formally abrogated all Chino-German treaties and this declaration was duly taken notice of by all the powers including Japan, who in their written reply assured the Chinese government of 'their solidarity, of their friendship and of their support' and pledged to do 'all that rested with them to insure China in her national relations the position and regard due to a great country.' In 1915, as a result of the twenty-one demands, China was made to "give full assent to all matters on which the Japanese government may hereafter agree with the German government," relating to Shantung.

"China maintains that her declaration of war, by abrogating German right, left nothing for Japan to negotiate on with Germany. And the peace made Germany not only give Japan rights she no longer possessed in Shantung but also regarded as 'scraps of paper' her written pledge to China not to sublet the leased territory to another power.

"The Peace Conference did not recognize China's rightful claim. China feels that the actual transfer of German rights to Japan represents a perpetuation of the German system in the Far East because the German rights were originally acquired by a typically Prussian aggression against China. She desired to see the Prussian system destroyed in the Orient as well as the Occident."

BOYCOTT CONTINUES.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 4.—A letter to the Sacramento Bee, dated Peking, China, July 31, and published today, says:

"The boycott instituted by the Chinese against the Japanese because of the Shantung controversy, is going on as strong as ever, though three months have passed. The published returns of exports from Japan to China show a decided decrease. In some lines the reduction has been as much as 50 per cent. Already the Japanese government has sent Mr. Yoshimawa, formerly First Secretary at Peking, on a mission to Shantung and Peking. What object lies behind his mission no one knows yet.

ATTACK JAPANESE AGENT.

"The recent students' agitation, which began in May with the burning of the house of Tsao Ju Lin and the beating of Chan Chung Hsiang, late Minister in Japan, was a wonderful thing—perhaps the most remarkable incident since the revolution in 1911. The two officials named are of the five prominent officials of China who are openly charged as being agents of Japan.

"This agitation was responsible for the discomfiture of the pro-Japanese, the beginning and continuance of the boycott, the establishment of numberless new industries, the awakening of the illiterate and mercantile classes and the shaky positions of the militarists.

"Mr. James Potter, late United States Ambassador to Italy, spent some time in Peking and the Yangtse Valley this year and has expressed his views in the Japan Advertiser, where he warned the Japanese of the mistrust which they have raised against them among all peoples."

INTERNATIONAL TRAIN SERVICE CONSIDERED.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PARIS, Wednesday, Sept. 3.—International train representatives of the British, French, Belgian and Central European railways have been in conference in Paris for the past three weeks with the object of establishing a new service of international trains. Subject to confirmation at a final meeting of all the delegates, it has been decided to run the Orient Express via the Simplon tunnel with through carriages between Paris and Bucharest and between Paris and Belgrade. A portion will go on to Athens.

In connection with this express there will be a train from Ostend to Milan and vice versa, via Brussels. Another international express is to run between Paris, Prague and Warsaw.

DISQUE TAKES RESPONSIBILITY.

Spruce Production Head Lays Claim to Railroad.

Investigator Shows Connection with Ryan Company.

Lea Calls Investigation "Political Flapdoodle."

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Sept. 4.—Brig.-Gen. Brice P. Disque, retired, former head of the government's Spruce Production Corporation, assumed full responsibility today for the construction of the $4,000,000 logging railroad in Clallam county, Washington, by the Siems-Carey-H. S. Kerbaugh Corporation.

This, and testimony by Guy George Gabrielson, chief investigator for the Spruce Investigating Committee of Congress, that Gen. Disque now is receiving a salary of $30,000 a year as president of a company in which John D. Ryan, former head of the aircraft board, is interested featured the day's hearings by Congressman James Frear and his colleagues here.

"POLITICAL FLAPDOODLE."

A spirited tilt was precipitated between Chairman Frear and Congressman Clarence F. Lea, Democratic member of the subcommittee, from California, when Frear read into the record a newspaper dispatch stating that the Vancouver, Wash., Commercial Club had refused, a few days ago, to indorse the administration of Gen. Disque.

"Why not cut out this political flapdoodle and get at the facts in the case?" interposed Mr. Lea. He also suggested that the Republican members of the committee refrain from "making campaign literature at the expense of the government" and "shut down the poison gas factory."

"We are going to show more political flapdoodle before we get through and we are going to get at the facts regardless of politics," retorted Mr. Frear.

The California Congressman then declared that such matter had no place in the records and Frear replied that the only "effort to cover up" had come from Lea, "who is acting apparently under the direction of Mr. Homer Cummings, chairman of the National Democratic Committee."

TAKES RESPONSIBILITY.

In taking responsibility for the building of the Clallam county railroad Gen. Disque declared he had first endeavored to prevail upon the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway Company to build the road, and failing that, had persuaded the government to construct it.

He selected the present route there, because officials of the Milwaukee Railroad and other engineers stated it was more feasible than the Deep Creek route, the general said.

Congressman Frear questioned Gen. Disque closely to get a definite explanation of why he reversed himself as to the two routes. Originally the general was for the Deep Creek route and he even convinced the Secretary of War that it was the more economical and practical, it was claimed.

BURLESON BARRED BY TELEGRAPH MEN.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

DENVER (Colo.) Sept. 4.—Honorary membership in the Western Union Employees' Association, a national organization, was denied Postmaster-General Burleson at the first annual conference of the association here today, when the gathering adopted a report of the Committee on Resolutions recommending that a resolution extending honorary membership to the Postmaster-General be rejected.

LONG AND SHORT HAUL PROVISION IS IN BILL.

PACIFIC COAST CITIES WILL SUFFER IF IT IS ENACTED INTO A LAW.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—Pacific Coast cities will suffer greatly if the long and short-haul provision in Senator Cummins's bill remains in the law finally enacted, Senator Poindexter of Washington, who has been fighting for a low rate for the intermountain country, is responsible for this clause. If it becomes a law no power of the Interstate Commerce Commission, the courts or other government agency can be invoked to set aside the absolute long and short haul, and thereafter all freight rates will be based on absolute distance.

Such a law would mean that the Pacific Coast would have perpetually a higher rate from eastern points than any other section of the country, and all advantages of water transportation, as far as affecting rail rates, would be lost forever. Under the present law, the Interstate Commerce Commission may set aside the operation of the long and short haul, according to conditions as presented to that body.

Senator Poindexter has been for a long time fighting to get this provision in railroad legislation, as it would give a lower rate to intermountain points, as compared with Coast points. It will mean that all manufacturers and shippers so located that their products must take the long haul will have to absorb the additional rate or lose business. It will work a serious revolution in freight rates to the Pacific Coast, and unless united opposition is presented by the Pacific Coast shippers, manufacturers and merchants, this provision of the law is likely to succeed, and once it is enacted, will be virtually impossible to repeal.

FRENCH DEPUTY MAKES ATTACK ON COVENANT.

FRANKLIN-BOUILLON SAYS ACCEPTANCE OF "FOURTEEN POINTS" ERROR.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PARIS, Sept. 4.—Paul Mistral, minority Socialist, during the debate in the Chamber of Deputies this afternoon on ratification of the peace treaty with Germany, declared that he and his party of about thirty-five members would vote against ratification of the treaty.

PARIS, Wednesday, Sept. 3.—Debate in the Chamber of Deputies on the ratification of the treaty of peace with Germany was marked by personal attacks today when Deputy Franklin-Bouillon declared that he would vote against the treaty and held Premier Clemenceau personally responsible for the failure of France to obtain better guarantees in the treaty.

"It was a grave error," said M. Franklin-Bouillon, "to accept President Wilson's 'fourteen points' unreservedly and without discussion. The British were careful to take exception to the 'point' dealing with the freedom of the seas, and Great Britain, America and Japan obtained entire satisfaction of all their claims."

SAYS RADIO CONTROL WOULD HURT SERVICE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—Governmental control of radio communication will result in the long run in lower standards of service, higher rates and be an added burden to the taxpayers, the Senate naval subcommittee was told today by John L. Merrill of New York, president of the Central and South American Cable Company.

"Any permenent benefits claimed from government ownership can be better secured by regulation," said Mr. Merrill. "If the government once enters the field of commercial radio telegraphy under peace conditions, the development of the industry will stop.

GARY URGES RESUMING TRADE WITH GERMANY

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BOSTON, Sept. 4.—Immediate resumption of business relations with Germany and Austria was advocated today by Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the board of directors of the United States Steel Corporation, in an address before the annual meeting of the American Bar Association.

Mr. Gary prefaced his speech with a declaration that the majority of the people of America were in favor of the peace treaty and the League of Nations, and that he would assume that it would be adopted without material change.

wrong. It was a big job and I don't say that we wished that it were bigger, but there were other wrongs elsewhere than in Europe, and of the same kind, which no doubt ought to be righted, and some day will be righted, but which we could not draw into the treaty, because we could deal only with the countries whom the war had engulfed and affected. But so far as the scope of our treaty went, we rectified the wrongs which have been the fertile source of war in Europe.

REVOLUTIONARY SOURCES.

Have you ever reflected, my countrymen, on the real source of revolution? Men don't start revolutions in a sudden passion. Do you remember what Thomas Carlyles said about the French revolution? He was speaking of the so-called hundred days' terror which reigned, not only in Paris, but throughout France, in the days of the French revolution; and he reminded his readers that back of that hundred days of terror, lay several hundred years of agony and of wrong. The French people had been deeply and consistently wronged by their government; robbed; their human rights disregarded and the slow agony of those hundreds of years and after a while gathered into a hot agony that could not be suppressed. Revolutions don't spring up over night; revolutions gather through the ages; revolutions come from the long suppression of the human spirit; revolutions come because they know that they have rights and that they are disregarded. And when we think of the future of the world in connection with this treaty, we must remember that one of the chief efforts of those who made this treaty was to remove that anger from the heart of great peoples, great peoples who had always been suppressed and always been used, who had always been only the tools in the hands of governments—generally of alien governments—not their own. And the makers of the treaty know that if these wrongs were not removed, there could be no peace in the world, because, after all, my fellow citizens, war comes from the seed of wrong and not from the seed of right. This treaty is an attempt to right the history of Europe and in my humble judgment it is a measureable success.

GREAT DIFFICULTIES.

I say "measurable," my fellow citizens, because you will realize the difficulty of this. Here are two neighboring peoples. The one people have not stopped at a sharp line and the settlements of the other people or the migrations, begun at this sharp line; they have intermingled. There are regions where you can't draw a national line and say there are Slavs on this side and Italians on that; there is this people there and that people there. It can't be done. You have to approximate the line. You have to come to it, as near to it as you can, and then trust to the process of history to redistribute, it may be, the people who are on the wrong side of the line. And there are many such lines drawn in this treaty, and to be drawn in the Austrian treaty and where perhaps there are more lines of that sort than in the German treaty.

SILESIAN PROBLEM.

When we came to draw the line between the Polish people and the German people, not the line between Germany and Poland—there wasn't any Poland strictly speaking—the line between the German people and the Polish people, there were districts like the upper part of Silesia, or rather the eastern part of Silesia which is called "Upper Silesia" because it is mountainous and the other part is not. High Silesia is chiefly Polish and when we came to draw a line to represent Poland, it was necessary to include High Silesia, if we were really going to play fair and make Poland up of the Polish peoples wherever we found them in sufficiently close neighborhood to one another.

But it wasn't perfectly clear that upper—that high Silesia wanted to be part of Poland. At any rate there were Germans in high Silesia who said that it did not, and therefore we did there what we did in many other places; we said very well then, we will let the people that live there decide. We will have a referendum within a certain length of time after the war under the supervision of an international commission which will have sufficient armed force behind it to preserve order and see that nobody interferes with the elections. We will have an absolutely free vote and high Silesia shall go either to Germany or to Poland as the people in high Silesia prefer.

PEOPLE TO DECIDE.

And that illustrates many other cases where we provided for a referendum or a plebiscite, as they choose to call it, and are going to leave it to the people themselves, as we should have done, what government they shall live under.

It is none of my prerogatives to allot peoples to this government and the other. It is nobody's right to do that allotting except the people themselves and I want to testify that this treaty is shot through with the American principle of the choice of the governed.

Of course at times it went further than we could make a practical policy of, because various peoples were keen upon getting back portions of their populations which were separated from them by many miles of territory and we couldn't spot over with little pieces of separated states.

MANY CLAIMS.

I even had to remind my Italian colleagues that if they were going to claim every place where there was a large Italian population we would have to cede New York to them because there are more Italians in New York than in any Italian city.

But I believe—I hope—that the Italians in New York City are as glad to stay there as we are to have them. I would not have you suppose that I am intimating that my Italian colleagues entered any claim for New York City.

We of all peoples in the world, my fellow citizens, ought to be able to understand the questions of this treaty, and without anybody explaining them to us; for we are made up out of all the peoples of the world. I dare say that in this audience there are representatives of practically all the peoples dealt with in this treaty.

NATIONAL ASPIRATIONS.

You don't have to have me explain national ambitions to you; national aspirations. You have been brought up on them; you learned of them since you were children and it is those national aspirations which we sought to realize, to give an outlet to, in this great treaty.

But we do much more than that. This treaty contains among other things, a magna charta of labor—a thing unheard of until this interesting year of grace. There is a whole section of the treaty devoted to arrangements by which the interests of those who labor with their hands all over the world, whether they be men or women or children—are all of them to be safeguarded. And next month there is to meet the first assembly under this section of the league—and let me tell you it will meet whether the treaty is ratified by that time or not.

LABOR PROVISION.

There is to meet an assembly which represents the interests of laboring men throughout the world, not their political interests. There is nothing political about it. It is the interests of men concerning the conditions of their labor, concerning the character of labor which woman shall engage in, the character of labor which children shall be permitted to engage in; the hours of labor, and, incidentally, of course, the remuneration of labor. The labor shall be remunerated in proportion, of course, to the maintenance of the standard of living which is proper for the man who is expected to give his whole brain and intelligence and energy to a particular task.

I hear very little said about this magna charta of labor which is embodied in this. It forecasts the day which ought to have come long ago, when statesmen will realize that no nation is fortunate which is not happy, and that no nation can be happy whose people are not contented, contented in their industry, contented in their lives and fortunate in the circumstances of their lives.

If I were to state what seems to me to be the central idea of this treaty, it would be this: It is almost a discovery in international conventions—"that nations do not consist of their government, but consist of their peoples."

That is a rudimentary idea; it seems to us to go without saying to us in America, but my fellow-citizens, it was never the leading idea in any other international congress that I ever heard of; that is to say, any international congress made up of the representatives of government.

They were always thinking of national policy, of national advantages, of the rivalries of trade, of the advantages of territorial conquest.

There is nothing of that in this treaty.

NO ANNEXATIONS.

You will notice that even the territories which are taken away from Germany, like her colonies, are not given to anybody. There is not a single act of annexation in this treaty. But territories inhabited by people not yet able to govern themselves, either because of economic or other circumstances or the stage of their development, are put under the care of powers, who are to accept as trustees, trustees responsible in the forum of the world, at the bar of the League of Nations, and the terms upon which they are to exercise their trusteeship are outlined.

They are not to use those people by way of profit and to fight their wars for them; they are not to permit any form of slavery among them or of enforced labor. They are to see to it that there are humane conditions of labor with regard not only to the women and children, but the men, too. They are to establish no fortification; they are to regulate the liquor and the opium traffic; they are to see to it, in other words, that the lives of the people whose care they assume—not sovereignty over whom they assume, but whose care they assume—are kept clean and safe and holy.

There, again the principle of the treaty comes out, that the object of the arrangement is the welfare of the people who live there and not the advantages of the government.

It goes beyond that and it seeks to gather, under the common supervision of the League of Nations, the various instrumentalities by which the world has been trying to check the evils that were in some places debasing men, like the opium traffic, like the traffic—for it was a traffic—in men, women and children—like the traffic in other dangerous drugs; like the traffic in arms among uncivilized people, who could use arms only for their detriment; for sanitation; for the work of the Red Cross. Why, those clauses, my fellow citizens, draw the hearts of the world into the league; draw the noble impulses of the world together and make a poem of them.

CONTROLS EVIL PASSION.

I used to be told that this was an age in which mind was monarch; and my comment was that if that were true the mind was one of these modern monarchs that reigns and does not govern; but, as a matter of fact, we were governed by a great representative assembly, made up of the human passions, and that the best we could manage was that the high and fine passions should be in a majority, so that they could control the face of passion, so that they could check the things that were wrong, and this treaty seeks something like that.

In drawing the humane endeavors together, it makes a mirror of the fine passions of the world, of its philanthropic passions and of its passion of pity, of this passion of human sympathy, of this passion of human friendliness and helpfulness, for there is such a passion. It is the passion that has lifted us along the slow road of civilization; it is the passion that has made ordered government possible; it is the passion that has made justice, and established the thing in some happy part of the world.

That is the treaty. Did you ever hear of it before? Did you ever know before what was in this treaty? Did anybody before ever tell you what the treaty was intended to do?

I beg, my fellow citizens, that you and the rest of those Americans with whom we are happy to be associated all over this broad land, will read the treaty themselves—or if they won't take time to do that—for it is a technical document that is hard to read—that they will accept the interpretation of those who made it and know what the intentions were in the making of it.

UNITED PURPOSE

I hear a great deal, my fellow citizens, about the selfishness and the selfish ambitions of other governments, but I would not be doing justice to the gifted men with whom I was associated on the other side of the water if I did not testify that the purposes that I have outlined were their purposes.

We differed as to the method, very often; we had discussions as to the details, but we never had any serious discussion as to the principle. And, while we all acknowledge that the principles might perhaps in details have been better, really, we are all back of those principles.

There is a concert of mind and of purpose and of policy in the world that was never in existence before. I am not saying that by way of credit to myself or those colleagues to whom I have alluded, because what happened to us was that we got messages from our peoples. We were there under instructions, whether they were written down or not, and we did not care to come home without fulfilling those instructions.

If I could not have brought back the kind of treaty I brought back I never would have come back, because I would have been an unfaithful servant, and you would have had the right to condemn me in any way that you choose to use so that I testify that this is an American treaty, not only, but it is a treaty that expresses the heart of the people—of the great peoples who were associated together in the war against Germany.

NOT A DEBATE.

I said at the opening of this informal address, my fellow-citizens, that I had come to make a report to you. I want to add to that a little bit. I have not come to debate the treaty. It speaks for itself if you will let it. The arguments directed against it are directed against it with a radical misunderstanding of the instrument itself. Therefore, I am not going anywhere to debate the treaty. I am going to expound it, and I am going, right here and now, to urge you in every vocal method that you can use to assert the spirit of the American people in support of it. Don't let them pull it down. Don't let them misrepresent it; don't let them lead this nation away from the high purposes with which this war was inaugurated and fought.

NO BOYS FOR OVERSEAS.

As I came through that line of youngsters in khaki a few minutes ago I felt that I could salute it because I had done the job in the way I promised them I would do it, and when this treaty is accepted men in khaki will not have to cross the seas again.

That is the reason I believe in it, I say, "when it is accepted," for it will be accepted. I have never entertained a moment's doubt of that, and the only thing I have been impatient of has been the delay. It is not a dangerous delay, except for the temper of the peoples scattered throughout the world who are waiting.

Do you realize, my fellow-citizens, that the whole world is waiting on America? The only country in the world that is trusted at this moment is the United States, and they are waiting to see whether their trust is justified or not.

That has been the ground for my impatience; I knew their trust was justified, but I begrudge the time that certain gentlemen oblige us to take in telling them so. We shall tell them so in a voice as authentic as any voice in history, and in the years to come men will be glad to remember that they had some part in the great struggle which brought this uncomparable consummation of the hopes of mankind.

JOHNSON DOES NOT VOTE ON LEASE ACT.

INDIFFERENCE TO MEASURE VITAL IN CALIFORNIA BRINGS MUCH CRITICISM.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—With thousands of Californians interested in the outcome of the oil-leasing measure, several of the leaders here in the fight for the relief of California oil men are incensed at the indifference of Senator Johnson to the measure. He was not even in the Senate chamber last night when the final vote was taken, and, according to the men who have been leading the fight, has never done anything to help the men whose money and savings of many years have been tied up in the withdrawn lands.

As illustrative of this feeling, the following telegram was sent to many of the newspapers in California today by former Gov. James N. Gillette:

"Oil land leasing bill passed Senate last night without roll call. The oil claimants of California are greatly indebted to Senator Phelan for the splendid work done by him during the last three years in getting this important legislation passed."

The very studied elimination of all reference to Senator Johnson is more significant than appears, and his failure to aid the oil claimants for relief has been the subject of much discussion at the Capitol today.

EXTRA MEN SENT TO FIGHT FOREST FIRES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MISSOULA (Mont.) Sept. 4.—Fearing that the Pahl Creek fire in Northern Idaho had escaped control lines during the high winds yesterday, which severed all communications with the region, the forest service district headquarters here today dispatched reinforcements to the firefighters. The blaze has burned over several thousand acres of the best white pine timber in Idaho, and is threatening the East Creek drainage.

CREST REACHED IN LIVING COST

Armour Says so; Other Packers are not so Sure.

Wholesale Grocer Declines to Display Any Optimism.

Shoe Man Refuses to Make Any Predictions.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 4.—Has the peak in the high cost of living been reached?

J. Ogden Armour says it has, but interview just made public, but Chicago packers showed a pronounced disinclination today to commit themselves on the subject.

From several sources came the intimation Mr. Armour "might be a little overoptimistic."

Dealers in other lines than foodstuffs said they hoped he was right, but that, so far as their own affairs were concerned, they were not venturing in no predictions.

The heads of the other big packing companies, including Louis F. Swift, Edward Morris, Jr., and Thomas E. Wilson, unanimously declined to comment on Mr. Armour's statement.

GROCER NOT SO CERTAIN.

"We'd like to see prices go down all right," said R. A. Keyes, president of Franklin MacVeagh & Co., wholesale grocers, "but whether they will or not is another matter.

"With production low and consumption high, as it is at present, the possibility of any immediate drop in prices seems doubtful. There's one thing, though, we can't very well go much higher, and they do, the public will register a protest by cutting down consumption. In that event the price level will have been reached, all right, but only because consumption has decreased."

Discussing the matter from a banker's standpoint, Harry H. Frick, president of the Great Western Trust Company, said he believed Mr. Armour was right, granting that a truce had been declared between labor and industry.

NOW, AS TO SHOES.

J. Harry Selz, president of the Selz-Schwab Shoe Company, was ready to say the crest had been reached in the price of shoes and other allied lines.

"I thought the crest of the high cost of living cost had been reached some time ago," he said, "but I find I was mistaken. Now I'm not making predictions.

"So far as shoes and a good many of the other necessities are concerned the point behind it is that there is just so much of the raw material to go around. At present we are sending an immense percentage of it to Europe and that means high prices in America. When they start manufacturing shoes on our present foreign market for dwindle and we can look for a big reduction."

Big business men in other lines expressed themselves similarly.

Referring to present-day unrest, Col. Roosevelt said the Bolsheviki, the I.W.W., and the red-flag anarchists were criminals, pure and simple, and should be treated as such. He said rioting was no remedy for labor and deserved to be put down ruthlessly.

...S TRIBUNAL ON RAIL WAGES.

...ood Urges Commission to Settle Disputes.

Just Decisions Would Prevent Strikes.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

...INGTON, Sept. 4.—Establishment of a governmental commission with a board with powers to fix railroad wage scales and transportation rates was advocated in the senate today by Senator Underwood (Democrat), a Democratic member of the Interstate Commerce Committee.

...t disclosing whether he favored the Interstate Commerce Commission as the proposed tribunal following the Cummins bill plan to settle strikes and lockouts of railroads, Senator Underwood said the interests of the public, of railroads and of railroad employees would each ask such a plan.

"I will not strike," said the senator, "against the just rule of the government. After determination of the controversy by an impartial tribunal, sentiment will force the contending parties to accept the verdict as final. It must be done in the interest of the men involved, in the interest of the people, and the interest of the nation."

...T PEOPLE'S RIGHTS.

...ginal he proposed, Senator Underwood continued, "must be authority and power to protect the rights of the whole people against the recurrence of strike and lock-outs."

"...e is but one way out in my opinion," he continued, "and that is to create a tribunal with the power to adjust these matters, which will have time to consider and the ability to know the facts. A tribunal of this kind must also have the authority and opportunity to consider the rights of shippers and travelers who in the last analysis must pay any increased burden that may be the carriage of property or passengers over the transportation lines.

...DS CLOSE STUDY.

"...e want a final and just solution of such a controversy, you are absolutely driven to leaving the decision to a governmental commission with full and ample opportunity to investigate the rates of wage, the ability of the transportation lines to pay the cost of living, the final test rests on the shipping board to determine; First, what is a just and living wage for the second, how far this charge can be placed on the capital of the nation without breaking it down; third, how far an increased charge for labor, interest or supplies can be handed down to the public without doing injustice to the shipper and traveler, and without becoming a menace to the development of the industry.

"It is essential that the board or commission that is given the power to adjust the wage scale of the men must also have the power to reflect its findings in the rates charged for the transportation of persons and property over the railroads."

BORAH DOUBTS POWER.

Only under proof that strikes were for the purpose of impeding interstate commerce could Congress force arbitration or make strikes criminally illegal, Senator Borah said, adding that such a purpose would be difficult to prove. He doubted that Congress could do more than foster agreements between employees and employers unless it should become necessary to see that labor had a larger and more direct interest in the enterprise in which it was engaged.

Senator Williams, Democrat, Mississippi, declared American labor was coming to European methods of strikes, adding that he had seen it stated that general strikes would be called to force passage of the Plumb plan bill for railroad reorganization. Such a project would be no less than treason, he declared.

DOUBLE AREA OF AMERICAN FORCE.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

COBLENZ, Sept. 4.—Marshal Foch, the Allied commander-in-chief, has decided upon the extent of the territory in the Rhineland to be held permanently by American forces. Its area will be twice as large as that which has been under American jurisdiction since the last combat division left for home.

By Marshal Foch's decision, which was arrived at in Paris, the Americans are again to take over all the Coblenz bridgehead proper or exactly the same territory on the east bank of the Rhine as the Americans have occupied since December last.

Data Hounds

The data hound is not peculiar to the advertising business alone. The ancient Greeks spoke of the man who couldn't see the forest because of the trees.

But in the advertising business there are many young men—it is a business itself not yet old.

These young men do not wish, of course, to accept even the obvious—unchallenged.

And so with the aid of co-tangent and slide-rule, a great mass of data is compiled to the confusion of the new advertiser and the amusement of the old.

For, after all, the elements of advertising success are very simple and very hard.

Make worthy goods, put your name on them and tell many people about them continually for many years. For, after all, "psychology" means human nature, "potentiality" means human wants, and "cumulative effect" means repetition.

NEED MILLIONS FOR NAVY BASE.

Mare Island Yard Commandant Submits His Plan.

Expenditure of $114,000,000 is His Estimate.

Secretary Daniels and Admiral at the Plant.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

VALLEJO (Cal.) Sept. 4.—Expenditure of $114,000,000 for the development of the San Francisco Bay naval base was proposed in plans submitted by Capt. E. L. Beach, commandant of Mare Island navy yard, to Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels, who, with Admiral Hugh Rodman, inspected the Mare Island navy yard near here today.

Development of the Mare Island yard would cost $26,000,000, according to the plans. The Alameda site, across the bay from San Francisco, would cost $42,000,000, and the Hunter's Point site, at the southern end of San Francisco, $46,000,000, it was estimated.

The commandant of the Mare Island navy yard recommended the removal of the ammunition depot to the north end of the Mare Island yard and the establishing of berthing and docking stations at the south end. Deepening of the Pinole shoal channel in connection with construction of docking and berthing facilities was recommended.

Secretary Daniels was requested to recommend to Congress apportionment of $5,000,000 to start the work immediately.

The Secretary and his party were guests at luncheon of Capt. Beach.

TO REVERSE ORDER.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SEATTLE, Sept. 4.—The battleship Oregon, from whose decks President Wilson and Secretary Daniels will review the Pacific Fleet here September 13, will steam past the big ships on display, according to tentative plans announced here today by Commander R. S. Holmes, who, as a representative of Admiral Hugh Rodman, is here arranging for the review. At other Pacific Coast reviews held by the fleet, the big ships have sailed past the reviewing boats.

CHILD ORPHANED BY TRAGEDY IS ADOPTED.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 4.—Helena, 5-year-old daughter of William and Mary Tanner, who were killed by a Chicago and Northwestern passenger train at Hubbard Woods Monday night, has a new father and mother.

Three feet high, a pink apron over her play clothes, the little girl, who, since Monday night has been mothering her twin brothers in their home at Hubbard Woods, wheeled her doll carriage yesterday across the alley to the back door of the house of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Watson.

Mr. and Mrs. Watson have adopted her.

William and Lyman, the twins, aged 3½ years, watched their sister today as she moved her playthings and clothing. They were stunned. Then suddenly William left his playmates, and going to his grandmother, put his head in her lap and cried.

A dozen families along the north shore have sent to the invalid grandmother offers to adopt the twins.

POLICEMAN WOUNDED BY MURDER SUSPECT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 4.—John Hart, charged with murder of George Stefanpoulos, was taken into custody today after he had shot and slightly wounded Policeman William McHugh.

Hart escaped yesterday from a private hospital where he was undergoing treatment for the drug habit. He proceeded to his home and shot Stefanpoulos whom, he told the police today, he had seen leaving the Hart residence.

TAFT REPLIES TO LEAGUE FOES.

Shows Misrepresentations and Fallacies in Charges Made in Reed and Sherman Attacks on Covenant.

BY WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT.

One objection to the League of Nations sometimes heard is that we could be called in to help Great Britain suppress an Irish rebellion. Why?

Under Article X it is provided that all members shall preserve against external aggression the territorial integrity and existing political independence of the members of the league. That means aggression by foreign countries. Therefore, the suppression of a rebellion does not come within Article X, nor within any other article of the league. If a country has a revolution it can attend to it itself. If the party which institutes the revolution succeeds it will be recognized, as other nations who were created thus (who have succeeded) have been recognized by other countries, and then it will be admitted into the league.

That objection is made not out of careful and kind consideration for the Irish, but with a view to arousing their votes against the league.

DERIDES NEGRO UPRISING.

The second objection is the one that there are more brown, black and yellow people in the world than there are whites, and that, as this is a convention of all the nations, a league of all nations, there will be more variegated colored constituents than there are whites; and that in some way or another, which is not made clear, we are going to have negro domination; that the negroes of South Africa will unite with the negroes of Panama, and then the yellows, the four hundred million of China, and the three hundred million of India, will all unite, and then we are going to be made brown, black or yellow, or come under that domination. It is not explained how. It is not suggested how that conspiracy is to be formed, nor, when formed, how it is to work out under the provisions of the league.

The assembly can elect new members. It can recommend a settlement, and it can advise as to the inconsistency between treaties and the obligations of the league. Now how, under that machinery, are those colored gentlemen going to obtain the tyranny that the objector has shown? What is the object of such a speech? It is to stir up the southern constituencies who are sensitive on the subject of negro domination, and have them write their Senators who have indicated a purpose to support the league, so they may be induced to vote against it.

ANSWER TO SECTARIANISM.

Then the third objection is the dreadful disclosure that the league is a Catholic conspiracy for the purpose of giving the Pope temporal power over us all. This diligent gentleman in hunting objections has counted the nations and found that there are more Catholic nations than Protestant, and they are going to give the Pope world power. Just how it is to be worked out, he does not explain. The Pope is not a member of the league, cannot be elected a member of the league. And even if he could be, it is a little difficult to see how he could gain any temporal power thereby.

The recommendations of settlement of disputes under the league have to be made by the unanimous judgment of the council, and, if you appeal to the assembly, both by the unanimous judgment of the countries whose representatives constitute the council, and a majority of the other members of the league. Suppose the Pope were in a dispute seeking temporal power. Consider the council on this issue. There is the United States. How much danger is there that the United States will insist on the temporal power of the Pope?

UNSUPPORTED BY FACTS.

Then take France. France has been at odds with the church for twenty-five years, and does not admit the church in any way into its government.

Then take England. England's King loses his throne if he becomes Roman Catholic.

Then take Japan. She is Shintoist and Buddhist. She is very likely to vote for the temporal power of the Pope!

And Italy. Italy has been for half a century—ever since it was a united nation—keeping the Pope out of temporal power.

TREATY-MAKING POWER.

There you have the unanimous vote of the council against such moonshine—for that is all it amounts to.

TREATY-MAKING POWER.

What is the treaty-making power? It seems to me that there is a great misconception of its scope. There are many who argue that the treaty-making power may not extend to promises of what Congress is to do. That is the argument. Now, the treaty-making power is not a performing power. It is a promising power. When the government promises to another nation by contract, it is the treaty-making power that acts for the government, and is the government. The promises to be performed are generally promises that can only be performed by Congress.

It is possible that the treaty-making power may not make a contract for the government to do a thing which it is for Congress to do under the Constitution? If that is true, then we cannot make treaties at all. There is no use having the treaty-making power, if that be true. Then the United States cannot promise, as it has promised time after time, to pay money, because Congress has to appropriate it when the payment is due.

WASHINGTON'S VICTORY.

That question was raised with respect to the Jay treaty. After the Jay treaty had been made, Congress demanded the letters between Washington and Jay as to the treaty in order that it might investigate the Jay treaty. Washington said no, the treaty-making power has bound you to make certain payments; that is your obligation; you are not part of the treaty-making power; therefore, you are not entitled to go to the foundations of that treaty. And Congress passed a resolution called the "Blunt resolution," in which it "resoluted" that it was entitled to consider the treaty—but she paid the money without getting the letters.

I maintain, because this is a fundamental distinction, that the treaty-making power is the promising power so far as other nations are concerned. Congress may join that promise, but it does not add any constitutional validity or strength to the promise because one Congress cannot bind another Congress to a policy unless it has the promising power. Under the Constitution, the President and the Senate—two-thirds—have the promising power. Now that means the promising power for this government, and that means that when this government is bound by that promise, then it must be performed by Congress.

MORAL OBLIGATIONS.

It may be said that limits the constitutional discretion of Congress. It does in this sense, that Congress is under a moral and legal obligation to do the thing that honor and legal obligation require, but Congress represents the government and has the sovereignty of the government placed in it, and one of the evidences of that sovereignty is the power to do the wrong thing, is the power to dishonor its obligation legally made. That choice of right or wrong is what constitutes freedom and sovereignty, but it does not render invalid the original obligation entered into as the Constitution directs, by the power given in the Constitution to the Constitution to promise and contract for the government with foreign nations.

SOLEMN PROMISE.

Therefore, what we do here is to enter into this covenant and promise and contract that under certain conditions, we will do certain things; and Congress is in honor and legally bound to do them. But there is no power to compel Congress to do anything; it may do what it chooses and it may dishonor that obligation. That does not render the original promise or treaty that we propose to make invalid, any more than when a man lets his note go to protest, he can plead that the note was invalid because he could let it go to protest. And when you get that fundamental conception, then you see how erroneous is the view that a treaty like this is invalid because honor and law—international law—limits the power of Congress to what it may do, although it cannot be prevented from doing as it chooses within its constitutional discretion.

Unless you follow that course of reasoning there was no need to create a treaty-making power, because the treaty-making power could contract for nothing, Congress being with few exceptions the only performing power under the Constitution.

VETERANS OF SPANISH WAR ELECT OFFICERS.

CONVENTION RESOLUTION URGES CONGRESS TO BAR JAP IMMIGRATION.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 4.—William Jones of New York was re-elected commander-in-chief of the United Spanish War Veterans at today's session of the order here and St. Louis was chosen as the 1920 convention city over Washington, D. C.

Jones defeated Thomas P. Boutwell of Denver. Milton A. Nathan, another candidate for commander-in-chief, withdrew.

Other officers elected include: Senior vice-commander-in-chief, J. K. Witherspoon, of Seattle; junior vice-commander, L. M. Lafferty of Council Bluffs, Iowa; chaplain-in-chief, Charles S. Vail of Ocean Park, Cal., and surgeon-general, Leon Hyde of Portland, Or.

The convention adopted a resolution urging Congress to prohibit the immigration of Japanese into this country. Another resolution adopted protested against discrimination by the Railroad Administration in granting a convention rate of 1 1 cent a mile to members of the Grand Army of the Republic and United Confederate Veterans and affiliated organizations and refusing it to the Spanish-American War veterans.

The women's auxiliary elected the following: Mrs. Minnie R. Lenhart, Philadelphia, president - general; Mrs. Louise Williams, New York, senior vice-president-general; Mrs. Alice Stewart, San Francisco, junior vice-president-general; Mrs. Cora Thompson, Portland, Or., chaplain-general; Mrs. Violet B. King, Rockford, Ill., judge-advocate-general.

STEEL UNION RENEWS CONFERENCE REQUEST.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—The special committee of the steel workers' union appointed to organize the employees of the United States Steel Corporation met today with a view to renewing their efforts to obtain a conference with officials of the corporation for discussion of wages, hours, working conditions and the right of collective bargaining.

Spokesmen for the committee said there was grave danger of a strike if the steel corporation officials continue to refuse to meet the committee.

TAILORS ON STRIKE.

Employers Meet Demands, But Men Refuse to Sign Contract.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 4.—More than 100 union tailors in this city went on strike this morning and many of the shops are idle. The men demand they be paid a wage of $36 a week, eight hours a day and six days a week.

Heretofore the men have been doing piece work and, in order to earn $36 a week claim to have been forced to work more than eight hours a day.

According to C. H. Lane, president of the Merchant Tailors' Exchange, the demand of the union tailors will be granted, providing they sign a contract stating they will abide by the conditions granted at this time for one year. This is the salient point of objection put forward by the union tailors and for that reason they refused to report for work.

March Assures Committee Expressions Desired.

Chief of Staff Explains Army Reorganization Bill.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—Army officers will be permitted to express their personal opinions regarding army reorganization legislation, Gen. March has assured the House Military Affairs Committee.

Representative Kahn of California, chairman of the committee, told Gen. March he had had a letter from an army officer stating that he was opposed to some features of the bill sponsored by the War Department but was reluctant to state his views publicly for fear he would be disciplined.

Gen. March assured the committee that there was no disposition to prevent a full expression of opinion and that he believed the best results would be obtained by seeking views from as many individual officers as possible.

MARCH EXPLAINS BILL.

The committee took up the reorganization measures for the first time, Gen. March explaining the chief features of the War Department bill.

"This plan provides for universal military training beginning with youths 19 years of age," said Gen. March. "It provides for three months of intensive training. The General Staff at first considered eleven months but abandoned it as too long a separation of young men from their various pursuits. Care has been taken to interfere as little as possible with work and education. For instance the classes in summer would be for college boys. The farmer boys, the cotton planter boys, the mill workers would be called during the dull seasons in their particular lines.

"The seventeen National Army cantonments would be used. These can care for 650,000 youths a year, divided into classes of three months each."

PROMOTION BY SELECTION.

Gen. March also dwelt on the recommendation for promotion by selection instead of seniority.

"The General Staff has come to the conclusion that promotion by selection is a better plan than seniority," said Gen. March. "This has been urged in previous years but it has always been defeated by the army itself. Recently there has come a change in sentiment in the army and it is now believed the promotion by selection is the better plan. It worked well in France.

"Promotion by selection would obviate the injustice of a long delay in promotion in a single arm of the service. It would enable those in authority to advance officers for merit over officers who are not qualified for promotion."

YELLOWSTONE CARS ON WAY TO LOS ANGELES.

SPECTACULAR MOTOR TOUR WILL ADVERTISE NATION'S GREAT PLAYGROUND.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—Two of the big, bright yellow cars of the Yellowstone Park Transportation Company are now attempting to break all records from the Yellowstone playground to Los Angeles. According to the information given by the Interior Department this trip will cover 1900 miles and before it ends the spectacular motor cars will have attracted wide attention to the park. The trip will be made via Pocatello, Idaho, Salt Lake City, and Barstow. The car started at noon last Saturday and seeks to lower all time records and to encourage people in California and elsewhere to motor into the government parks.

At 1 o'clock on the same day another of the yellow park cars started from Yellowstone National Park for New York by way of Minneapolis, St. Paul, Chicago and Cleveland for the purpose of stimulating interest in motor touring between the East and the national parks. The car carries four drivers who will endeavor to make a record run, covering more than 2700 miles.

Travel for the month of July in Yellowstone National Park broke all previous records, July 16 was the biggest day in the history of the park, almost a thousand people having entered that day. A total of 24,090 tourists visited the park during the month, of which 16,784 persons came in 4457 private automobiles. While the season ends September 15 the roads leading to the park are now excellent and weather conditions are ideal.

Fishermen Would Oust Middlemen.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SANTA CRUZ, Sept. 4.—Sea bass fishermen operating out of this port who are on strike are to open a fish market operated by their union in an effort to eliminate the middleman, representatives of the fishermen announced here last night. The men are paid 4 cents a pound for their catch. They demand 8 cents.

ANGELENO WILL QUIT WAR WORK

Henry M. Robinson Resigns Post in Shipping Board.

Declines to Accept Profered Chairmanship.

Has Served Nation Since the Conflict Started.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—Henry M. Robinson of Los Angeles has resigned as trustee of the Shipping Board to take effect September 15. This is in accordance with his promise to President Wilson when he accepted the place. At that time he said he would finish the work he had undertaken abroad in connection with labor matters, and also the arrangements for the foreign service of the Shipping Board.

When tendered the place as chairman of the Shipping Board, he declined, saying that he wanted to be relieved when the work in hand was finished, and that he would only accept a place on the board under those circumstances.

Mr. Robinson tendered his resignation in writing to the President several days ago, and President Wilson called him to the White House in an effort to change his determination to leave the public service.

Mr. Robinson finally secured the President's promise to release him on account of urgent private business in Los Angeles and Southern California, which he has neglected since the United States entered the war and he first came to Washington in connection with the work of the Council of National Defense.

Mr. and Mrs. Robinson expect to leave the latter part of the month for their home in Pasadena and Mr. Robinson will take up actively his various private business interests.

GREAT NORTHERN BACK IN PACIFIC.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 4.—After more than a year's service in transporting troops through submarine-infested zones and returning them to this country, the transport Great Northern arrived here today from New York for service between this port, Manila and Vladivostok.

With the Northern Pacific, also in the Atlantic transport service, the Great Northern formerly had a run between this port and Flavel, Or. She was chartered by the army from the navy to carry troops on the Atlantic.

MEXICANS KILL TRUCK DRIVER.

on the floor nearly dead. The Mexicans pointed revolvers at her head and told her if she did not tell them where the money was they would kill her. Under threats she told them. When they had found the money the Mexicans demanded that Mrs. Martensen get up and make some coffee. Barely alive, the woman pleaded to be permitted to die in peace. But the Mexicans persisted and the woman made an effort to get up and make the coffee. She fell in a swoon before the stove.

Then the Mexicans shot her several times and killed her.

In another room, hiding in mortal terror, was her 10-year-old girl. When she heard the shots and her mother's expiring screams, the girl overcame her fear and rushed to her mother's prostrate body.

The Mexicans seized the crying girl, tore her clothes from her body and attempted to outrage her. Her screams and those of her mother previously had attracted neighbors, and some of them, also American Mormons, came over to investigate. One of them, a man, was shot and killed and left in front of the Martensen house. The three Mexicans, it is said, were later arrested, but shortly released. One of them even was elected to an office in Mexico and honored for having killed two "gringoes."

This story is being verified as to details, and will be among the many cases submitted in evidence to the Senatorial investigating committee when it comes to El Paso.

Bitter feeling has developed along the border in this district through the shooting down by Carranza soldiers of the American airplane in the Laredo district Tuesday. Precautions have been taken by Maj.-Gen. Howze, commanding the El Paso district, to prevent any outbreaks. Additional patrols have been put on at each outpost, with orders to prevent bodies of raiders crossing from either side.

NOT OVER MEXICAN LAND.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—The American army airplane fired upon by Mexicans Tuesday was "at no time over Mexican territory," the War Department was informed today by Maj.-Gen. Dickman, commanding the Southern Department. Mexican officials claim the machine had crossed the international boundary line before the Mexicans opened fire, wounding Capt. D. W. McNabb.

Regret over the firing at an American army airplane on the border Tuesday has been expressed by the Mexican government, it was announced today at the State Department. Assurances were given that an immediate investigation would be made, with a view to a satisfactory adjustment.

The message was the first received by the department regarding the incident and did not attempt to identify the Mexicans. Officials on the Mexican side of the border have admitted, however, that the shots were fired by Mexican Federal troops, who, it was claimed, were acting without orders.

"Lieut. Johnson, Capt. McNabb, observer, fired on by Mexicans numbering twenty at Leyendecker's ranch, Mexican side of river, twelve miles upstream from Laredo," said the message. "Plane was flying at 500 feet altitude when pilot noticed that the town on Mexican side opposite Leyendecker's ranch contained an unusual number of people. Plane descended to altitude of 100 feet above river to observe the town when plane was fired on, radiator was punctured and pilot made forced landing on American side. Capt. McNabb slightly wounded above right ear. Airplane was at no time over Mexican territory."

PURSUING VILLA.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

EL PASO, Sept. 4.—Carranza cavalry troops have been dispatched from Chihuahua City toward Ojinaga in an effort to intercept Hipolito Villa's command of 100 Villa rebels, reported to be marching southwest from Palomas, southeast of Ojinaga, to join his brother, Francisco Villa, in Northern Durango, Mexican Federal officials announced yesterday. Hipolito Villa has been hiding in the Ojinaga district since the attack on Juarez June 15.

SENATE RISES TO CONFIRM PERSHING.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—Amid applause from Senators and spectators, the Senate today in open executive session unanimously confirmed the nomination of John J. Pershing to the permanent rank of general of the Regular Army as a reward for his services as commander of the American Expeditionary Force. As a mark of special honor a rising vote was taken.

CALIFORNIA FIRES QUENCHED BY RAIN.

HIGH WIND IN MONTANA MAY HAVE CAUSED FRESH OUTBREAKS THERE.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 4.—A steady four-hours' rain quenched forest fires which had covered a wide area in the Klamath National Forest and like fires in other sections were under control, the United States Forest Service announced here today.

The Klamath fire, which swept up Nordheimer Creek and threatened Forks of Salmon, a village, was reported completely under control. Twenty-five men have been added to the forest patrols of Northern California to enforce camp fire permit laws, it was announced.

PACT READY FOR DEBATE.

China for Japan in the Shantung section.

For withdrawal of the United States from representation on the numerous international commissions. (This amendment was by Senator Fall, Republican, New Mexico, and involves about thirty-five textual changes.)

For limitation on the authority of American representatives on the reparations commission to act without direction of their government, except on shipping questions.

For equal voting power in the league council and assembly of the United States and Great Britain.

For a prohibition against British colonies voting in league deliberations on questions between Great Britain and the United States.

Adoption of the reservations today was strenuously contested by Democratic committeemen except Senator Shields. The latter, it was said, declared emphatically for reservations.

HOW THEY VOTED.

The vote on adoption of the reservations was 10 to 7 on the withdrawal provision, 9 to 7, on that affecting territorial guarantees and mandates, and 11 to 6 on those dealing with domestic questions and the Monroe Doctrine. Senators Borah, Republican, Idaho, and Smith, Democrat, Arizona, who were not present, gave proxies.

On the withdrawal reservation, the vote was:

For adoption—Senators Lodge, Borah, Brandegee, Fall, Knox, Harding, Johnson, New and Moses, Republicans, and Shields, Democrat.

Against—Senators McCumber, Republican, and Hitchcock, Williams, Swanson, Pomerene, Smith and Pittman, Democrats.

A clause in the original resolution presented by Senator Lodge, providing the United States may withdraw from the league unconditionally within six months, instead of at the end of two years, as provided in the treaty, was eliminated, 9 to 8, with the Republican majority and Senator Shields voting to strike out the time limitation and Senators McCumber and Johnson joining six Democrats in opposing its elimination.

On the reservation concerning territorial guarantees and mandates, all ten Republicans except Senator McCumber voted for its adoption and Senator Shields withheld his vote. Senator McCumber and the six Democrats voted in the negative.

All ten Republicans, including Mr. McCumber and Senator Shields, voted for the reservations as to domestic affairs and the Monroe doctrine with the six Democrats again in opposition. No vote was taken on the provision requiring acceptance of the reservations by Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan.

Following the committee's action, Democratic leaders reiterated predictions that all of the amendments would be rejected by the Senate, but refrained from predictions of probable disposition of the reservations.

Chairman Lodge of the committee announced that the treaty with the majority report would be presented to the Senate early next week and that the minority would be given three days thereafter in which to file its report. Consideration of the treaty in the Senate probably will not begin until week after next.

CAMPAIGN IS TO BE NATION-WIDE

New Era Movement of Presbyterians Enlarged.

Christianize America, is Mission of Churches.

"Rot" and "Bluff" Trotzky to be Swept Aside.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

LAKE GENEVA (Wis.) Sept. 4.—Delegates to the conference of the Presbyterian New Era movement today considered plans for a nation-wide evangelistic campaign after listening to stirring addresses.

Rev. Joseph H. Vance, D.D., of Detroit, Mich., said that to Christianize America was the mission of the church. He said that all the "rot" of the "Trotsky and Lenine crowd" would soon be swept aside; that their doctrine was all "bluff;" that soon their rule of loot would end and the people would be following the cross of Christ. Even the social agitators, Dr. Vance said, in their inner hearts realized that Christianity alone could rebuild the world as they themselves would like to have it established for their children to grow up in.

Dr. Vance said that Christianity could only conquer the world through a unified church.

Dr. W. H. Foulkes, general secretary, reported that the Presbyterian church would act officially late in September on the project of alliance with other denominations through the Interchurch world movement.

The conference today forwarded to President Wilson the following memorial, adopted by unanimous vote:

"President Wilson, White House: "The New Era Conference of the Presbyterian church, in session at Lake Geneva, is greatly cheered by your sympathetic message, presented by Rev. William Hiram Foulkes. Your assurance that the New Era movement, pledged, in your own apt phrase, to purposes of service and enlightenment, is upon your heart, gives to every one of our 16,000 churches and pastors new enthusiasm for its goals and more determination for their achievements. The conference begs to assure you of its prayers for your divine guidance in meeting, at this time, the complex problems of world peace and industrial unrest in our land. To these ends the conference desires also to co-operate with you in every practical way."

COULD HARDLY WALK UP STAIRS

Mrs. Haley Suffered After Every Meal.

Gains Thirteen Pounds After Taking Tanlac.

All Her Troubles Have Been Overcome.

"I have not only gained thirteen pounds in weight since I commenced taking Tanlac, but the troubles that have been pulling me down for years have been completely overcome," said Mrs Mamie Haley, who lives at 318 Sixteenth street, San Francisco, the other day.

"There is no doubt about Tanlac being a wonderful medicine", continued Mrs Haley, "and during the past four years I have tried nearly every medicine I heard of that was recommended for stomach trouble and indigestion, and Tanlac is the only thing that has done me any good at all. I suffered a great deal on account of gas forming after I ate anything, and would be so short of breath that I could hardly walk upstairs. Sometimes I would get very dizzy and could hardly stand up unless I was holding to something. My nerves were in terrible condition, and I never slept very well. I would get up every morning feeling so tired and worn out that I could hardly get around in the house. I also suffered a lot from headaches. I was under treatment right along, but my condition just seemed to grow worse all the time.

"I didn't believe I would ever be well again, and didn't think I would ever find a medicine that would do me any good, but when Tanlac came along I thought I would just try a bottle of it and see if it would help me. Well, it is simply wonderful the way Tanlac has overcome my troubles. I commenced to improve by the time I had finished my first bottle, and I just kept on getting better until I am now as well and strong as I ever was. I never have a sign of headache any more and my nerves are in such perfect condition that I get from eight to nine hours' good, refreshing sleep every night, and get up every morning free from that tired, worn-out feeling I used to have. My appetite is fine, and I can eat anything I want without suffering afterwards. I have gained a great deal in weight and strength and my housework is no trouble to me at all now. I will always have a good word to say for Tanlac, for it has been a godsend to me."

Tanlac is sold in Los Angeles, Pasadena and San Diego by the Owl Drug Co.—[Advertisement.

SPECIAL NOTICE TO "TIMES" Classified Advertisers.

8 p.m. is the closing hour for the receipt of classified advertisements for both Daily and Sunday Times.

Classified Liners.

CLASSIFIED RATES.

Minimum space, 2 lines, or 12 words. No transaction of less than 25 cents daily or 50 cents Sunday.

Ten cents a line each insertion daily.

Fifteen cents a line each insertion Sunday.

EXCEPTIONS—A rate of 10 cents a line daily and 20 cents a line Sunday applies to advertisements under the following classifications: "Personals," "Special Notices," "Meals and Rooms," "Apartments and Flats," "Money to Loan," "Diamonds and Jewelry," "Medical," "Sanatoriums" and "Baths and Massage."

Minimum charge applies to each single and consecutive insertion. Count five average words for the first line, and three words for each additional line in advertisements not indented, lined up or capitalized.

Count as a word any group possible for more than one incorrect insertion of any advertisement ordered for more than one time. The independent omission of advertising on certain days or the cancellation of the charge made for the service ordered. Adjustment for errors will be made in accordance with the number of insertions. No adjustments for errors will be made for advertising lines affected by slight typographical errors which may occur in other lines in the same advertisement. The Times will not be responsible for errors in any but the first insertion of such advertisements. The right is reserved to classify all advertisements under appropriate headings, and to reject objectionable advertising.

"WANT AD" SUPREMACY.

The Times regularly prints practically all of the "Want Ads" published in all of the other Los Angeles newspapers put together, in addition of exclusive ads not printed in any other newspaper.

In all classifications—Help Wanted, Situations Wanted, To Let, Automobiles, Real Estate, Business Chances—TIMES LEADERSHIP IS UNQUESTIONED.

By using THE TIMES ALONE, classified advertisers can cover Los Angeles and Southern California at one cost.

THE CITY AND ENVIRONS.

Will Serve Dinner.

Dinner will be served in Patriotic Hall at noon today by Stanton W.R.C.

For Wisconsin Folk.

An interesting programme has been announced for the meeting of the Wisconsin Association in Forum Hall, Mercantile place, Monday evening.

Social for Canadians.

A social and dance will be held by the Maple Leaf Club at the Gamut Club, 1044 South Hope street, tomorrow night. The entertainment will include whistling numbers, vocal and instrumental music.

For Siberian Soldiers.

Mothers of soldiers in Siberia and all persons interested in the early return of the men from Russia are invited to attend a public meeting at 7:30 p.m. today in the Y.W.C.A. auditorium, Third and Hill streets. Capt. F. Hamlos, who served in Siberia, will speak.

Want Autos for Old Folks.

The picnic reunion for persons past seventy will be held tomorrow at Sycamore Grove. Registers will be open in the morning and there will be basket dinners at noon. The Old Folks Picnic Association asks auto owners to pick up a load of old people living in their neighborhood and take them to the park.

Invite State Societies.

All State societies have been invited by the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West to attend the Admission Day exercises at the Knights of Columbus Hall, 612 South Flower street, Tuesday evening. Col. Frank H. True, president of the Federation of State Societies, yesterday issued an appeal to the individual members to join in the celebration.

Tuesday School Holiday.

The first legal holiday of the new school term will be observed on Admission Day next Tuesday, September 9, when all the public schools in the city will close their doors for the day. This announcement was made by the school board yesterday at the regular meeting. All the school offices in the Security Building will likewise be closed for the day.

Bangs at Rotary Club.

John Kendrick Bangs, author, humorist and lecturer, will have something to say at the noon luncheon of the Rotary Club at Christopher's hall today. John P. Whitmore will have something to say about "Windowshades," the committee for vocational placement of service men will explain what has been accomplished in their line, and the past president's cup will be awarded.

Scribblers' League Plans.

The Los Angeles Scribblers' League, of which Ruby Vachel Lindsay is president, will begin its winter session on the third Saturday, September 20, making its home on the tenth floor of the Public Library, Metropolitan Building. Mrs. Kathryn M. Ray, M.A., an able critic of the short story, will conduct that section, and J. Tarbotton Armstrong, F.C.S., art connoisseur, and retiring president, will continue his interest in the poetry section.

Entertainment in Park.

Miss Nell Hummell in the musical programme to be given next Sunday afternoon and evening at Hollenbeck Park will sing the latest song hits and some operatic numbers. Prof. Harold Shaw's Jazz Band also will entertain, starting early in the afternoon and continuing until 10:30 o'clock. The following Sunday, Manager Belcher will stage an out-door programme of thrilling stunts, including a leap from the bridge into the lake by a dare-devil from the Vitagraph studio.

On Our Dumb Heroes.

Inaugurating a course of lectures on animals which will be given under the auspices of the Los Angeles S.P.C.A. during the coming year, an illustrated lecture on "How Horses and Dogs Helped Us Win the War" will be given by George Wharton James, explorer, author and naturalist, Monday evening at the Alexandria. Many slides will be shown, exhibiting the dumb heroes of the war in action "over there." Mrs. Anita Baldwin, president of the Los Angeles S.P.C.A. and the other officials of the society are in charge of arrangements for this lecture.

GOVERNMENT IS READY FOR LIVING-COST WAR.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

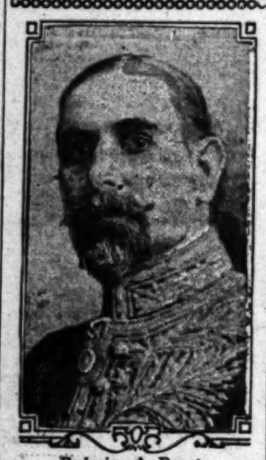
CHICAGO, Sept. 4.—The government is about ready to descend upon the high cost of living through fair-price committees, similar to the wartime Food Administration organizations, according to Dist.-Atty. Clyne.

FORCES OF DENEKINE HAVE OCCUPIED KIEV.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, Sept. 4.—Confirmation of the occupation of Kiev by the forces of Gen. Denekine, the anti-Bolshevik leader in Southwestern Russia, has been received by the War Office. Gen. Denekine's troops took the town after two days of heavy fighting.

PERU SENDS FIRST AMBASSADOR HERE.



Federico A. Pezet.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—Federico Alfonso Pezet, first Peruvian Ambassador to the United States, has a long record of service to his country, not only as a diplomat, but also in the army and as a journalist. He was born in the Peruvian Legation in London. His ancestry is French, Spanish and English, his mother having been born in Norfolkshire. His diplomatic and consular career began thirty years ago, when he was Consul for Peru in Panama. He saw active military service as a lieutenant in the war against Chile, and won a medal for bravery. He has had many important diplomatic posts. He is the author of several books in English and Spanish. He speaks and writes four languages fluently.

ONE IS NOW TWO.

Man Held on Uniform Charge is Now Said to be Embezzler.

Ernest Freeman, charged with illegally wearing the uniform of a Canadian officer, pleaded guilty in United States District Judge Trippet's court, yesterday, and was about to be sentenced when the statement was made that he was wanted in Boston for embezzling $500 of the local funds of the Red Cross.

Freeman denies the crime, and said he would be willing to go back immediately and face the charge. It was established that Freeman was in the English army, had been gassed once and wounded twice. While in Boston he was engaged in providing entertainment for the convalescent men from overseas.

The disposition of the case went over until September 15, and in the meantime the officials of Boston will be communicated with.

OLD MAN TO PRISON.

Convict Half His Life; Must Serve for Embezzlement.

Harrison Oliver, 62 years old, will go back to San Quentin prison, it was decided yesterday by Judge Craig. The defendant, convicted of embezzlement in obtaining $275 for insurance on a motor car he declared was stolen, has spent more than half his life in Folsom or San Quentin State prisons.

The car he said was stolen, but that was really in his possession, was identified by a slender bit of evidence, a hairpin wrapped about a rod on the windshield.

Oliver was first sentenced to San Quentin at the age of 18 years and was pardoned June 24, 1879. From time to time he was again sent to prison and was released the last time in 1913.

TRIAL DATE IS SET.

Music Teacher and Pupil on Bail for Statutory Crime.

Gray T. Sampson, Pasadena music teacher, and Mrs. Elena Tuthill, formerly one of his pupils, entered pleas of not guilty to statutory charges yesterday in Judge Craig's court. They were arrested July 3, following an alleged sensational attempt on the part of Sampson to escape by jumping from a third-story window into a tree and sliding to the pavement.

They are out on bail, pending their trials, which the court set for November 19.

MERCHANT IS ROBBED AS HE SELLS GOODS.

Three hundred dollars in money and jewelry valued at $250 were secured late yesterday afternoon when burglars gained entrance to the home of Joe K. Mayada of 1017 East First street, according to a report made to Detective Sergeant Glenn last night. Mayada informed Glenn that the theft was committed while he was attending some customers in the front store. The valuables were hidden in a trunk and according to Mayada $50 in small change was left untouched by the intruders. Several negotiable checks on the Yokohama Specie Bank were also taken.

WILL AUCTION FLOUR TO PAY HOARDER'S FINE.

United States District Judge Trippet yesterday ordered the fifty sacks of flour hoarded by Jose Bermejo during the war, in defiance of the Food Conservation Act, to be advertised and sold at public auction. The Mexican pleaded guilty in the local Federal court and was fined $250. The flour will now be sold to pay the fine, and if there is anything left after the payment of the costs, Bermejo will get it.

REMOVED HIS CORNS AT HOME

Vancouver Man Tries Simple Home Recipe for Corns With Wonderful Success

Mr. D. Morris of Vancouver, B. C., suffered from painful corns for years until he tried a simple home remedy. He states:

"I had tried various remedies since I came here, but none of them were ever so successful as Cactus Corn Compound."

Go to any drug store and get a small bottle of Cactus Corn Compound. Paint your corns with it, and shortly the corn drops off—no pain, no danger or loss of time. This bottle is sufficient to remove dozens of corns. Any druggist will refund your money if you are not satisfied.—[Advertisement.

CITRUS MEN HAVE THEIR MOST PROSPEROUS YEAR.

Financial Returns Smash All Previous Records, Exchange Report Shows; Predict Bright Future.

Announcing the largest financial return to members of the California Fruit Growers' Exchange in the history of the organization, C. Harold Powell, general manager of the exchange, issued his annual report for the year ending August 31, yesterday. It shows a total of $75,600,000 received from 45,692 carloads of citrus fruits. The State produced 35,778 carloads of oranges and grapefruit and 9914 carloads of lemons, the report states. Of this total the exchange handled 33,082 carloads, or 72.2 per cent. of the crop. The crops of lemons and Valencia oranges were the largest ever shipped from the State.

"The annual yield of California lemons will exceed the present combined domestic and foreign supply by at least 50 per cent. within the next decade," says the report.

Referring to marketing costs, Mr. Powell adds:

"The operating expenses of the exchange, in the face of rising costs, are less than they were ten years ago. This year the organization marketed 14,816,737 boxes of oranges, lemons and grapefruit, at a cost of 5.2 cents a box, or 1.04 per cent of the delivered value. There was also spent for advertising 2.50 cents a box for oranges and 4 cents for lemons, making the combined advertising and selling cost 1.62 per cent. of the fruits' delivered value. The operations are conducted at cost and everything above actual expenses is returned to the grower. The cost of marketing oranges and lemons through the exchange is lower than the cost of marketing any other perishable food product in America.

"Although somewhat reduced by cold weather in January, this year's lemon crop was 70.2 per cent. more than that of last year and 41 per cent. larger than the biggest year on record. This year's shipments of lemons were 17.6 per cent. more than the total supply of both foreign and California lemons in 1917-18, and only 3 per cent. less than the average supply of foreign and domestic lemons during the last five years.

"During the last sixteen years the exchange has returned to California $75,000,000, and the losses from bad debts, uncollected bills and in the transmission of funds have only been about $8000, or about 1-400 of 1 per cent. of the f.o.b. returns.

"The Mr. Powell adds that "the public must not be mislead as to the actual value of the high prices. The rise in prices on all citrus fruits at the beginning of the war has not kept pace with the rise in prices of commodities in general, particularly those purchased by the producer.

"Referring to the growth of the organization in the last seven years," he says, "the exchange membership has increased from approximately 6000 to more than 10,000 growers, while the combined number of shippers, associations and district exchanges in the organization has increased from 135 to 216."

SELL YEAR 'ROUND.

After predicting a greater expansion of the citrus industry and an increasingly important future for the Valencia orange, Mr. Powell adds:

"The rise of the Valencia to commercial importance has also had a beneficial effect upon the citrus fruit market. In a normal year there is now no 'season' for California oranges, for shipments are continuous. The wholesale and retail trade are never without oranges and the consumer need never abandon the habit of eating oranges regularly. The citrus industry will expand rapidly in the next decade. The Valencia, however, will increase for several years, while the lemon production, which has now reached the previous total domestic and imported supply, will probably increase 50 per cent. in the next few years.

During the year, the exchange has insured the lives of its employees, both men and women, who have been in the service sixty days or more, without cost to them. It also took out a uniform policy of $3000 for each employee, which is paid to the beneficiary selected by the employee at death. It also adopted the policy of re-employing its employees who served in the military or naval service during the war, and to each of them the report expresses "its deep gratitude for the part they played in the maintenance of American ideals and in the preservation of the freedom of the people throughout the world."

Make up your mind to enjoy the style you have envied in the other fellow.

SHOW MATTESON INSUBORDINATE.

Ex-Teacher an Agitator, His Superiors Testify.

Wrote Gompers Criticising Our Public Schools.

Unions' Side of Hot Hearing to be Heard Today.

Backed up by C. F. ("Curly") Grow, business agent of the Machinists' Union and former head of the Metal Trades Council, Seth Brown, president, and C. L. Myers, secretary of the Central Labor Council and other labor union leaders, A. G. Matteson yesterday appeared with a number of witnesses at the rooms of the Board of Education and listened to Principal Theodore Fulton of the Jefferson High School, Principal Vierling Kersey of the Polytechnic Evening High School and teachers at both schools give testimony to corroborate and justify the recommendation that resulted in Mr. Matteson's not being re-employed as a teacher this year.

Despite the efforts of Mr. Matteson, Grow, Mrs. Della M. Corwin, who referred to herself as a "Vesuvius who cannot be put out," and others of his friends to turn the hearing into a Trotzky-like gathering with every one talking at once, Melville Dozier, who presided, was able to keep the meeting from being stampeded, so that an orderly presentation of the facts in the case could proceed. At one time during the hearing, Mr. Dozier did threaten that unless Mr. Matteson's women witnesses refrained from disorder, he would ask them to leave the room.

The hearing room was packed to overflowing, with principals, teachers and patrons of the Jefferson and Polytechnic Evening High schools, where Mr. Matteson taught electrical and automobile machine work in the vocational training departments. It was soon seen that both sides would consume the entire day, and after hearing the testimony against Mr. Matteson from 10 a.m. until 12:30 p.m. adjournment was taken until 10 o'clock this morning, at which time Mr. Matteson will begin his defense of the charges that he was insubordinate as a teacher and that he failed to co-operate with other teachers at the school. In opening the hearing, Mr. Dozier said:

WITHOUT PREJUDICE.

"No prejudice exists against Mr. Matteson because he belongs to a union. There are doubtless many employees of the Board of Education who likewise belong to unions. We do not know how many, nor do we care. This is free America and the schools belong to the people. The school is not on trial. Its principal is not on trial.

"Attorney Fred J. Spring asked if he could represent Mr. Matteson and was told by Chairman Dozier that Mr. Matteson needed no attorney to cross-examine witnesses, and Mr. Spring was heard no more, though "Curly" Grow and Mr. Matteson interrupted the proceedings many times with questions and statements, only to be told that when Mr. Matteson's time came he would have every opportunity to answer all charges and question all witnesses.

The testimony yesterday included the statement by Principal Kersey and not denied by Mr. Matteson that the latter had written a letter to President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor "criticising severely the system of hiring and promoting teachers in the Los Angeles schools." "Curly" Grow protested against the introduction of testimony concerning this report to Mr. Gompers on the ground that it was "private correspondence," but Chairman Dozier ruled that testimony concerning the letter was proper as it concerned public school officials and the public school system.

THE EVIDENCE.

The principal witnesses yesterday and a summary of the testimony they gave is as follows:

Principal Fulton of Jefferson High School stated that Mr. Matteson had purchased material without instructions, so that the orders had to be countermanded; that he made no report of repairs he was making on his own automobile in the school shops; that he failed to answer inquiries of the principal concerning school work; that he tried to influence pupils against the principal and teachers; and that he (Mr. Fulton) had been warned by R. W. Johnson, Dr. E. R. Snyder and other State vocational department officials that Matteson was "a troublemaker and an agitator," and that despite warnings from the principal, Mr. Matteson had continued in his defiant and insubordinate attitude, and failed to co-operate with the other teachers at the school.

George H. McDermott, a teacher testified that Mr. Matteson was threatening in his attitude; C. E. Yerge, a teacher testified that Mr. Matteson had said to him in a threatening manner, "I've got your number," and that he (Matteson) had made sneering remarks to the effect that to secure supplies that it would be necessary to "get the O. K. of Woodrow Wilson;" Irvin Hague, a teacher, testified that despite his efforts to co-operate with Mr. Matteson the latter had said to him on one occasion, "You are trying to make my department the 'goat.'" Principal Kersey, former Vice-principal Thomas E. Hughes, and Vice-principal Maud H. Hammond of Polytechnic Evening High School testified to Mr. Matteson's repeated tardiness and absence without notice, leading to his being dropped as a teacher there on September 13, 1918.

Figuring in Great Projected Church Merger Here.

The Pastors, Their Churches and Where New Church May Locate.

FRANCIS WIRES HE'S READY TO RESIGN.

BAPTIST PASTOR WILL ELIMINATE SELF WITH BROUGHER TO AID BIG MERGER.

Another important preliminary to the proposed consolidation of the Temple and First Baptist churches in this city, to form the largest congregation of the denomination in America, was cleared up yesterday, when Dr. James Allen Francis, pastor of the First Baptist Church, telegraphed from Sagamore Beach, Mass., that he stands ready to resign his pastorate in case the consolidation plan is adopted. Similar announcement was made last Sunday by Dr. J. Whitcomb Brougher, pastor of the Temple Baptist Church.

"In case of consolidation, my resignation will be presented with Dr. Brougher's," Dr. Francis wired.

The purpose, in the case of each pastor, is to remove any possible obstacle to joining the two churches should the congregations decide in favor of such a step. It is desired to leave the new, joint church, if it is formed, free to choose either of the present pastors or another minister, if it so elects.

The consolidation matter will be placed before the two congregations immediately after Dr. Francis returns to this city from a trip to various places in the East. He has been at Chautauqua, N. Y., and at several towns in Massachusetts, and is expected back in Los Angeles to occupy his pulpit the 21st inst.

Pending his return, members of the official boards of the churches and of committees working on consolidation plans have refused to make any statements. It is declared that nothing can be said with propriety until the will of the congregations has been officially learned and recorded. Moreover, no definite action of any kind is expected to be taken before the 21st inst., when it is probable the Temple and First Baptist members will be asked to formally consider the plans to merge interests, focus the work of the Baptist denomination downtown in one great institution, and form a joint congregation numbering perhaps 3600. Trinity Church has been prominently mentioned as a probable choice for the new house of worship if the merger is effected.

ACTIVE LIFE ENDED.

Pasadenan who was Large Coal Operator Dies in East.

Francis E. Weston, a member of the California Club, the Annandale Golf Club and the Philadelphia Art Club, and for ten years a resident of Pasadena, died suddenly yesterday at the Mayo Bros. Hospital, Rochester, Minn. He underwent an operation ten days ago and seemed to be doing well until yesterday, when he died of heart failure.

His brother, Dr. John Weston, is Mayor of Hemet, and was with him at the time of his death.

Mr. Weston was about 70 years old and before coming here was prominent in business circles in Philadelphia, where he was connected with large coal companies. For years he was secretary of the Pocahontas Coal Company. He made his home at the Solano, Pasadena.

PRAISE FOR LOYAL MEN.

M. and M. Extols Railway Employees and Officials Who Upheld Open Shop.

High praise was given yesterday to officials of the Pacific Electric and Los Angeles Railway and the loyal men who assisted the companies during the recent strike, by the board of directors of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association. The company officials and men were complimented for their courage in upholding the great American principle of the open shop, and for their loyalty to the public under the most trying circumstances.

The resolution which was adopted by the directors of the association is as follows:

"Resolved by the board of directors of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association, representing within its membership the commercial, industrial and financial interests of this community, that we hereby extend our congratulations to the officers and managers of the Pacific Electric Company and of the Los Angeles Railway Company for their courageous attitude in the recent strike of some of their employees, thereby upholding the great American principales of open shop that has been an important factor in the development, prosperity and advancement of our city, and that has been the cause of bringing many industries within our boundaries; and,

LOYAL MEN PRAISED.

"Be it further resolved that we extend the sincere thanks of this community to the loyal men who have manfully performed their duties to their employers and to the public in the face of danger, personal violence and insults, and we especially commend these men for the true American spirit they displayed in remaining loyal to their employers and the public under most trying circumstances."

ASSOCIATION TO MOVE.

The Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association decided yesterday to move its offices from room 224 Wilcox Building, to a suite on the tenth floor of the Van Nuys Building at Seventh and Spring streets the first of October. There it will have a general office, a private office and a directors' room forty feet long. This will be the association's first office move, as it has been in its present location for more than twenty-five years, having taken the offices shortly after the organization was formed.

Edward F. Zacher, until recently a member of the legal department of the Southern California Telephone Company, has been employed as assistant to F. J. Zeehandelaar, secretary of the association.

NEW UNIVERSITY PLANNED.

The erection of a university building to ultimately cost $500,000 is understood to be the purpose of leaders of the local Christian Church organization (Disciples of Christ) in obtaining options on an entire block of property at Vermont avenue and Fourth street. The fact that negotiations for purchase of the site were under way came to light yesterday through the recording of options to purchase seven pieces of property in the tract fronting Vermont avenue and known as Conner's subdivision. The property owners are Wulfred N. Wallenius, Michael Rieder, R. Fred Vogel, Joseph Stoehr, W. A. McIntosh, Frank C. Hoyt and John J. Jones.

W. B. Merwin & Company, local brokers, handled the real estate negotiations, acting for the heads of the Christian Church, who are desirous of locating the proposed university in that section of Los Angeles because of its proximity to the State University.

It is understood the plan for erecting the building, and through it the extension of the educational side of the Christian Church work, is backed largely by W. H. Holt, known as "the father of the Imperial Valley," and C. C. Chapman of Fullerton, millionaire orange grower. At the last convention of the Christian Church Mr. Chapman pledged $200,000 and Mr. Holt, $100,000, to be used in the proposed university plan. Since then, it is understood, two donations of $50,000 each have been received by the church heads. This gives them a fund of $400,000 available for building purposes.

The Christian Church was founded by Alexander Campbell. In its educational work the Bible is used as a text-book.

SEES NO CHANGE.

Immigration Agent Doesn't Anticipate Passport Modification.

A. E. Burnett, immigration agent in charge here, stated yesterday that he had received no information from the State Department indicating that there was to be any radical modification of the present rules and regulations respecting the crossing of the Mexican border anywhere. On the contrary, he declared that the request of the President for $750,000 to continue the enforcement of the present passport rules, does not indicate that there is to be any change in the present manner of dealing with the situation.

The status of the passport proposition would seem to argue that there is nothing worth mentioning in the scheme to establish an alleged Monte Carlo at Tia Juana.

CARS TONIGHT TO MIDNIGHT.

Nearly Normal Service by Both Companies.

Rush of Applications from Former Employees.

Scheme for City to Buy the Lines Ridiculed.

Service as late as midnight on many important city lines was announced for tonight by the Los Angeles Railway late yesterday, following the successful extension of service to 10 o'clock last night.

Large numbers of former employees who are returning to work after a period of idleness are making it possible for the company to rapidly build up the service which was impaired by the strike three weeks ago, company officials say.

Last night the Pacific Electric Railway lengthened its night service as follows: To 10 o'clock on the Pasadena Short Line, Long Beach, San Pedro, Venice Short Line, San Gabriel, Glendale, Watts, South Pasadena, and Hollywood-Colegrove runs; and to 9:45 on the Santa Ana and Lankershim-Van Nuys runs.

The Pacific Electric expects to still further extend its night service this evening, perhaps to as late as midnight, O. A. Smith, the general passenger agent, thinks. Conditions on the interurban lines are running close to normal and improving every day.

During the past forty-eight hours the Los Angeles Railway has increased day service at the rush hours to the extent of 120 extra cars. The gain in day service has been at the rate of forty cars a day, and yesterday afternoon service was 75 per cent. of normal, with a still further increase in traffic scheduled for today.

The Pacific Electric line is now operating normal service on its city lines in Riverside, Redlands and Pomona, and is running Pasadena and Long Beach cars as late as 11 o'clock at night.

MANY SEEK JOBS.

Employment bureaus of both lines have been submerged with applications from former employees who are anxious to re-enter the service, and such of these men as are acceptable, together with the new graduates who are being turned out of the train schools, are making it possible for the companies to rapidly restore their business to normal conditions.

The city lines upon which cars ran last night as late as 10 o'clock and will run tonight till 12 o'clock are: The Stephenson avenue, Boyle Heights and West Seventh street, University and Central avenue, San Pedro street and Temple via Main and Fifth street south, Pico west from Second and Spring, Moneta and Carvanza, West Ninth from Third and Main west, Grand avenue and

TO CENTER ALL AVIATION HERE.

Company Would Create World Air Transport Capital.

Huge Programme Unfolded to Leading Business Men.

Million-Dollar Corporation Backs Novel Enterprise.

A complete organization, the first of its kind, to promote and control aircraft transportation and with a new airship factory to make Los Angeles the home port of all airships was announced yesterday by R. J. Daum to fifty leading business men of the city, gathered at the Athletic Club. The new corporation will be known as the California Greatwestern and Interstate Air Route. If the plans are developed, Los Angeles will be to the air what New York or Liverpool is to the sea or what Chicago is to the rail transportation, it was stated.

The plan of the company, which is incorporated here for $1,000,000, is to become the central organization to "encourage land plane, hydroplane and airship transportation of mail, passengers, commerce and pleasure craft between all accessible points of interest and commerce in the great West of the United States and the great trans-Pacific territory." The company plans further to promote, establish, maintain and operate chains of various types of aircraft and landing stations and will lend every effort to stabilize the air industry.

FIELDS SELECTED.

Branches or subsidiary organizations are to be fostered and financed by cities that can furnish sufficient business to establish regular service. Fields have been selected and plans drawn for complete landing stations at Los Angeles, San Francisco, Oakland, Santa Barbara, Sacramento, San Luis Obispo, Monterey, San Jose, Fairfield, Marysville, Stockton, Merced, Fresno, Visalia, Tulare, Bakersfield, Tucson, Phoenix, Yuma, El Centro, Niland, Beaumont, Riverside, San Diego, Oceanside and Santa Ana. All fields and landing stations are to be standardized. There are five types at present, including regular fields and emergency landings. Offices and hangars costing from $2,000,000 to $3,000,000 will be erected on each field, according to the plans. The home company is to sell the transportation and act as the central administration.

It was stated at the offices of the company last night that the experience of all the railroads has shown that central organization is needed. The air company will act in the same capacity as the present Railroad Administration, it is said. All routes are to be charted and marked by lights and other devices. Any individual or company can enter into

The People and Their Troubles

DOROTHY DIX TALKS

Helping a Husband.

BY DOROTHY DIX.

"I suppose," said a woman at a tea the other day, "that every woman who is a real woman and not a sawdust-stuffed doll desires, above everything else, to be a good wife and to help her husband, but the trouble is, one never knows when one is pulling off a good job in either line.

"To be a good wife and to really help her husband requires that a woman shall be a seeress and a prophetess and have some sort of a supernatural hunch. Or else it is just plain luck. It's nothing that a wife can figure out for herself, for about nine times out of ten after a woman has broken her neck trying to do her sacred duty as a wife and worked her fingers to the bone trying to help her husband, she finds out that her methods were all wrong and that instead of being a blessing to him she has been a curse, and in place of boosting him up the ladder of success she has kept him from rising.

"Of course, the old theory is that if a woman is gentle, and loving, and faithful, and devoted to a man she is a good wife, and that if she is thrifty, and industrious, and economical, and trims her own hats and washes the potato parings, she is a help to him, but any observation of real life shows us that this simple recipe for becoming a headline wife fails oftener than it works.

"We see that chief among those ladies who are real helpmates to their husbands are those who do not help at all. They let George do it, and doing it appears to make a man of George. Also we take notice that it is the shrews and vixens who are adored and considered by their husbands, while Patient Griselda is no more valued than the doormat.

"I am moved to these reflections on the difficulties of being a good wife and helping your husband by the fact that I have seen a good woman, who was doing her conscientious best to be a perfect wife and a help to her husband, utterly ruin him, and I have seen a selfish brute of a woman make a man.

"I have a friend who is everything that a woman should be—intelligent, cultured, refined, capable, self-controlled, and with the highest ideals of duty. She married a man, he turned out to be selfish, high tempered and lazy.

"My friend is not a weak woman, but because family rows and scenes were vulgar and degrading in her sight, she encouraged her husband in his tempers by avoiding every subject of dispute, and giving in to him rather than see him go into one of his shameful rages. When she found that he was oftener out of a job than in one, and that they had not the money to pay their bills, she went to work rather than be dependent on her relatives for help. And when husband discovered that she could support the family, he stepped aside and let her do it.

"Now my friend has one child—a son, who under the same method of treatment she had applied to his father grew up to be as no account and disagreeable as his slacker father.

"This precious youth got married a couple of years ago, but he didn't pick out a woman like his mother. He married a little red-headed girl with snapping pale blue eyes, who had worked her way up from cash girl to head saleslady in a department of a big store, and she wasn't overburdened with refinement of delicate sensibilities, or any morbid fear of hurting anyone's finer feelings. And she had a temper like a train of fireworks.

"The first time her pampered husband got peeved about something, instead of soothing him down about it, as his mother would have done, and apologizing all over the place and telling him it should never happen again, she flew into a rage that made his little ebullition of temper seem like the sputtering of a candle beside a volcano. She raved and broke up things, and made a rough house that scared him into good behavior. Why, he is so afraid of riling her and getting her started that he's as meek as Moses—he who never even tried to control his temper before.

"And she has made him work. She resigned her job when she got married, and told him frankly her candid opinion of a man who didn't support his family. Also she informed him that she wasn't the kind of fool that mother was, and that she didn't propose to support any able-bodied loafer, as his mother had done.

"And when he threw up his situation, as he had been in the habit of doing when some little thing went wrong in the office, she promptly packed her trunk and went to her mother's and told him that he needn't follow, and she wouldn't come back until he was able to take care of her.

"And she isn't any model of economy either. She tells him that she has to have things and he has got to get them for her, and he does. And because this necessity of making money is driving him all the time he has bent his back to his work, and is making good.

"And this woman who is selfish, and greedy, and shrewish is making a fine successful man out of her husband, whereas his mother, who was gentle, and fine, and noble, ruined her husband. All of which shows how hard it is to tell when you are really being a good wife and doing your duty by your husband."

QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

Q.: How many men were registered in the draft? S. T.

A.: In all 24,000,000 men were registered in the draft out of a male population of 54,000,000. This shows that less than half the males were of fighting age. Of those of fighting age about one-half were fit to fight. So the fighting strength of the United States was shown to be about 13,000,000.

Q.: Would readjustment have been easier if the Germans had quit in the spring rather than fall? L. V. W.

A.: November was probably the most inconvenient month in the year for the war to have been terminated. The great problem was the readjustment of labor and industry. In November winter was just coming on. This meant that new building enterprises might not be started because of the frozen ground. Such undertakings as road work were not possible. It was the idle period on the farms. There is more suffering from unemployment in the winter than in the summer.

Q.: At what time of the year is the earth nearest the sun? O. H.

A.: The earth is nearest the sun late in December and early in January. This nearness to the sun has little or no effect on temperature. It is the directness with which the rays of the sun strike the earth in the summer that makes it hot.

Q.: Where does Morocco leather come from? C. W.

A.: Morocco leather, formerly an article of export from the Barbary Coast, is now prepared in the United States from goatskins and sheepskins.

Q.: From what callings are Congressmen chiefly recruited? T. H. C.

A.: A study of the last Congress shows that 60 per cent. of the members were lawyers, 10 per cent. business man, 8 per cent. journalists, 5 per cent. bankers, 3 per cent. real estate operators, and 9 per cent. miscellaneous.

Q.: What is the origin of the part the rabbit plays in the observance of Easter? W. J. H.

A.: Norsemen are credited with first celebrating the festival of the divinity known as Easter. "Ostava" was the word they used. It means the season of reproduction. The rabbit and the egg were used as examples of the possibility of prolific reproduction.

Q.: Who is George E. Roberts? T. F. C.

A.: George E. Roberts is statistician for the National City Bank, of New York. He at one time was director of the mint, for the Treasury Department. Before that he was publisher of a newspaper in Iowa. He is an extensive writer on financial problems and has a reputation for making them clear to the man on the street.

Q.: How much would $10,000 in gold weigh? W. A. D.

A.: This amount of gold coin would weigh about thirty-eight pounds. It is obvious that a thief could not carry a fortune in gold very far.

A REAL REMEDY.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 26.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The labor organizations of this country, unless checked by Congress, will drive the whole nation out of business and people with money will refuse to invest (look at Australia today, labor unions have driven all capital from the land.)

Business is today becoming paralyzed; capital is idle; it will be worse; while there is no chance to lower the cost of living as long as organized labor demands higher wages. The government will have to act, and quickly, before the organization wrecks the country. Politics should be forgotten; they will have to be, or we will go from bad to worse.

The railroad employees are overpaid now, and are far in advance over the other lines of employment. They have no limit; if granted one thing they will ask another; they are in the minority, why should they rule anything or any people?

One clever way to curtail them is for the government in the present railroad situation is to buy a small system of railroads, operate them as a school, give the students on the roads all the educational advantages possible in every line and branch of the railroad work, that every student is a reserve government employee, the same as naval reserve men, and that they shall serve when called upon to take care of just such a situation as now faces us.

Let them take the oath the same as the army, and it shall be unlawful for anyone to interfere with them in operating railroads for the government. Let this school go on, never let up on it, and the railroaders will soon learn what they are up against, and this serious condition of affairs will not be repeated.

If it is unlawful for combinations of capital to organize and co-operate it certainly should be for labor to do the same. Every form of an association or organization pertaining to business means higher prices and profits for the organization.

Why not stop all of them?

We know this will be hard for the politician, to go against, and be re-elected, but it's the only solution of the whole affair, and lower the cost of living.

LETTERS TO "THE TIMES."

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 25.—[To the Editor of The Times:] In re the doctor from Texas, who is endeavoring to start a "Union of M.D.s and D.D.s" for the purpose of bringing about the millennium and curing baldheaded men; I suppose his conclusions about "spirituality" are all right, not being familiar with that portion of the anatomy, but when he comes to history, and says that John Calvin, the founder of the M.D.'s church, was burned at the stake, and then writes a meaningless sentence in reference to Servetus, isn't it a joke?

According to history, Servetus was taken out of church where he was attending divine worship on a Sunday afternoon, charged with being an heretic, was found guilty, by the church founded by the said John Calvin, now called Presbyterian, and buried alive, for conscience sake—John Calvin, one of the main persecutors, being more humane than the others, he preferred to have Servetus beheaded instead, and then to go to hell and burn through all eternity—think of it; yes, think of the good, sanctimonious people in heaven, looking down, ever since that godly, (not Godly) act, looking over the battlements, on poor Servetus writhing in hell, fire and brimstone ever since and to remain there for all eternity. My! Where oh, where is the Kaiser? When we think of all of the millions and millions of humanity whom we have been taught by this same church have been, and consequently must now be, burning to satisfy the damnable doctrinaire, and then not satisfied, but the other sequel to it that nine out of ten people brought into the world are "predestined" to such eternal punishment—think of it and shudder, at what such people would do on this earth if they only had the power. If one extreme begets another, is it not possible, that the present world upheaval is not a direct result of such teaching after about sixteen centuries of it?

As to the death of Calvin, we read that he died peacefully, in the arms of his friend Theodore Beza, on the evening of the 27th of May, in the fifty-fifth year of his age; that was the death scene of the man who was not satisfied with the penal punishment for being an "heretic," but Servetus's body was afterward disinterred and burned to ashes, presumably to make sure of the burning.

A gentleman, writing in The Times this morning, takes exception to the M. D.s interpretation of the Bible, in relation to eunuchs, says that you publish both sides of all questions, or words to that effect, and for the benefit of all those who may doubt the above statements of fact (which every D.D. in the world knows are true) I refer them to any encyclopaedia, (if short on other history references,) which can be found in any public library, and read under the captions of Calvin, John and Servetus, Michael.

As the same church is right now trying to handle the "spiritual" as well as the political horizon," and for the benefit of real seekers after true facts in history, and are tired of mythology and paganism, will you kindly insert the above reply to Dr. Mills from Texas?

We should believe in the fraternity of respect which we alike the fatigued brain-worker, heart-teiler whose labor is love, as well as the honry son of toil, must join in hearty co-operation render their proportionate share service to society. He who [illegible] from lack of manhood deserves stern hand of rebuke to point the way to righteous duty.

Let us all keep in mind the [illegible] of others. This is a social [illegible] all should be continually [illegible] of. While we may have grievances the remedy is not in multiplying them for others. Two wrongs never made a right and you can never get any sympathy by creating wrongs for others to bear. Instead we create new problems for ourselves through our lack of consideration of our duty we lose society's respect. Such an injustice [illegible] through our narrowness of vision toward the sphere of duty. Let us should forget ourselves and [illegible] be aware of others. It is the thoughtfulness for others and the happiness that develops a harmonious union, wherein we [illegible] usurper of our rights.

DAM NOT DELAYED.

Fine Progress on Arroyo Seco Job Despite Car Strike.

Supervisor Cogswell, in a signed statement yesterday, stated that while many lines of activity were interrupted by the recent transportation strike, work on the Devil's Gate dam, in the Arroyo Seco, proceeded without interruption, "owing to the promptness with which the Board of Supervisors of the Los Angeles County Flood Control district acted in procuring a number of trucks to bring cement direct from Colton to work at the dam. Forty cars a day were delivered in this way.

For more than two weeks the mixing of cement has been proceeding rapidly, and the dam will be ready for service before any flood enters the Arroyo Seco.

DAY HAD BLACKJACK.

Evidence That He Hit Guard Before Shot Was Fired.

What is said to be new evidence regarding the riot at Sixth and Alameda streets on August 31, when I. R. Day, a striking switchman, was shot and killed, may be presented to the grand jury when that body again takes up the inquiry, it was learned yesterday. The evidence is to the effect that Day carried a blackjack and that Slayer Smuckler, a guard, who was arrested in connection with the shooting, was struck in the head and severely wounded before he fired his revolver. Fourteen stitches were required for the wound, it was said. Smuckler denies that Day hit by a shot from his revolver.

The Civil Service Commission will meet today and set a date for a hearing on charges of union men against Constable Charles Thomas in connection with an unwarranted number of deputy badges for watchmen to guard railway property.

TO DISSOLVE COMPANY.

The Leighton Hotel Company yesterday filed a petition for the dissolution of the company. The petition states that it was incorporated October 5, 1903 and that all debts have been satisfied. The directors are Margaret Rom, A. R. Smith and George H. Crane.

HIT AUDITOR'S PLEA.

Wants Some More Room and an Appropriation; Council Says "No."

City Auditor Myers asked the Council yesterday for the use of rooms on the second floor the City Hall and for an appropriation for refitting these quarters for use of a portion of his force. The proposal received four negative votes, those of Councilmen Farmer, Mallard, Sanborn and Workman.

"The City Auditor's office has four times as much room as it had a year ago," declared Councilman Mallard, "yet it continues to make requests for more room, and always there is a demand for an appropriation of money therewith."

It was pointed out that this was to take care of some employees who are now working in the attic of the City Hall. "Seems to me they are loafing up there," was the Mallard rejoinder. "If they come downstairs their loafing will become more apparent." Then followed the four negative votes.

ADMITS HIS GUILT.

In United States District Judge Trippet's court yesterday Edwin G. Bryant, charged with forging the signature of Miss Ruth Van Arsdale to a money order for $65, upon which he secured the money, pleaded guilty. Bryant was former room clerk at the Wagner Hotel, and stated he used the money to pay the hospital bill of his sick 10-year-old daughter. The matter of sentence will come up this morning.

MARRIAGE :: A :: REAL :: "SECRET."

Wife Reveals Triangle That's Different.

WHILE visiting her nephew, Lieut. Ted Shawn, at Camp Kearny last September, Mrs. Kathryne Sheppard was introduced to Lieut. Glen C. Sheppard, whose tent adjoined that of the dancer. Lieut. Sheppard became very devoted to the young woman and proposed. She accepted the dashing young officer, and they were married September 21. The honeymoon was passed at Denishawn, this city, and when the groom returned to camp it was quarantined owing to the influenza.

Less than two months after they were separated, it seems, and yesterday Mrs. Sheppard was in Judge Crail's court seeking a divorce on the ground of cruelty. She told the court that he could not support her, so she decided to go to work, but demurred to living in San Diego.

According to Mrs. Sheppard, she was very much surprised to have him tell her, immediately following the wedding, that he would not notify his parents that they were married, and was indignant when he gave the excuse that his parents expected him to marry a girl living in Denver. In fact, she says he confessed that the parents of this Denver girl furnished the money with which he bought the uniform and equipment, and this was the reason he did not care to have their marriage made public.

Judge Crail denied the decree, but stated that a complaint might be filed when the legal period elapsed, charging desertion.

Grandparents Try to Get Girl They Say was Stolen.

Chauncey Gardner, an attorney, obtained a writ of habeas corpus before Judge Woods, yesterday, in the case of Mrs. Noemeh Nicholson, who is charged with kidnaping her daughter, Ruth, 5 years old, in Fresno, and bringing her to Los Angeles. The writ is returnable in Department 17 at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon.

The facts leading up to the alleged kidnaping, according to Mr. Gardner, are that about the time Ralph Nicholson, the husband of Noemeh Nicholson, was overseas and living apart from his wife, he signed a waiver by which his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Nicholson of the State of Washington, were to have custody of Ruth.

His father and mother, who had adopted Ruth, brought the child to Fresno. The mother of Ruth heard the child was in that city and went to pay her a visit. It is said that she took the child, placed her in an automobile and brought her to Los Angeles.

Ruth's grandparents immediately charged the mother with a felony and she was arrested and placed in the City Jail here. Fresno officers came here to take her back to that city.

Meantime, the grandparents sued out a writ of habeas corpus, to get the child out of the possession of the juvenile court authorities. Mrs. Noemeh Nicholson, the mother of Ruth, sued for the custody of the child, asserting that the adoption of Ruth was not legal. This phase of the case will come before Judge Reeve today.

ON SMUGGLING CHARGE.

There was a collection of Hindus in United States District Judge Trippet's court, yesterday, as witnesses in the hearing of their fellow-countryman, Lala Singh, charged with smuggling Kartur Singh and Barium Singh into California from Mexico. The indictment alleges that he charged Kartur and Barium Singh $60 each for bringing them across the Mexican line.

JUSTICE FACES DEATH CHARGE

Taft Magistrate Arraigned Here for Manslaughter.

Result of Motor Wreck that was Fatal to Youth.

Failure to Aid Injured Boy Second Allegation.

George M. Cook, a justice of the peace of Taft, walked into the court of Justice Brown yesterday and informed the court that he was ready to be arraigned on two charges, one of manslaughter and one of failure to stop and render aid after causing injury to a person in an automobile accident. Justice Cook said he was ready with bail, which was fixed at $10,000 and furnished by the defendant. His hearing was set for September 15.

The Taft justice was notified by mail that the Los Angeles county authorities held a warrant for his arrest and he came to this city to give himself up.

He is charged with causing the death of Raymond Thompson, a youth, and with failing to give aid to Ray Newman. These two boys, according to Justice Cook, who is also a stage driver, and two other lads were riding motorcycles along the Lankershim road when his car collided with the smaller machines. He asked Deputy District-Attorney Randall to issue complaints against the youths for riding without lights. The Tompson youth died from his injuries but Justice Cook says a Coroner's jury exonerated him.

CARS TONIGHT TO MIDNIGHT.

North Broadway, West Jefferson from Jefferson and Main west to Ninth avenue.

Yesterday the Pacific Electric railway employment bureau received an application for admission to the train school for a young man who has for several years been paying teller in a Pasadena bank. He said he was desirous of getting a job as conductor on the interurban, where he could make more money, because he had only been getting $100 per month in the bank.

At the meeting of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen in Eagle's Hall, Wednesday evening several steam line men took occasion to criticise the brotherhood, it is said, for having taken Pacific Electric trainmen into the organization.

The strikers were branded as a bunch of trouble-makers "who should never have been admitted to the organization." Some of the brotherhood men are said to be anxious to get the Pacific Electric strikers out, but do not know how to do it.

Vice-President A. F. Whitney of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, who came here a week ago to straighten out the trouble on the steam lines, left yesterday for the home offices of the brotherhood in Cleveland, O., but M. E. Montgomery, the brotherhood official who organized the Pacific Electric platform men a year ago is still in the city.

SCHEME RIDICULED.

The scheme jointly evolved by the Council's Finance Committee, labor unions and Los Angeles Railway strikers that the city shall immediately buy and take over the operation of the yellow-car lines evoked ridicule yesterday from all familiar with the city's finances. Even Mayor Snyder, who is an advocate of municipal ownership of public utilities, waved the plan aside as unworthy of consideration. He declared it impossible for the city to raise $40,000,000 for the purpose by any other means than a bond issue which he said the people would not vote. "Let's take something our size first," said the Mayor, in effect. "An ice plant, for example."

The Times acknowledges receipt of $1 from a Los Angeles woman to be added to the fund for the Southern Pacific men who rescued the live stock abandoned by the strikers. The donor asks that her name be withheld.

NEW PROPOSALS.

The Los Angeles Railway Company will reply this morning to the newest proposals of the Mayor's board of mediation seeking to get the men who quit their jobs back to work. These proposals are not essentionally different, in the view of the railroad men, from those previously submitted by the ex-employees themselves. They provide that the company shall take back all the men who apply individually and shall restore his seniority to each striker, that the company may suspend without pay any man, who shall then have the right of arbitration for his case and pay from the time he applied for work if he is sustained by the arbitration board. This board is to consist of five men, two named by the company, two by the strikers and one by the first four.

The strikers promptly accepted the proposal, as it includes practically everything they themselves proposed. The railway officials point out that the individual application clause means nothing if they are required to take back every man who applies. Their purpose in insisting on individual applications is to weed out the agitators, with whom they wish to have no dealings by arbitration or otherwise.

General Manager G. J. Kuhrts, of the railway company, said last night he had not yet been supplied with a copy of the proposals but that he will call upon the Mayor this morning. The mediation board will meet at 10 o'clock.

MATTESON CASE HEARING IS ON.

which was one of the most heated sessions in its history, stated that the law requires that teachers be employed for one year and that if a teacher were notified before June 10, that he was not to be re-employed the following school year, as was done in Mr. Matteson's case, there was no legal invasion of his rights, as the board is not required to re-employ him.

Though Chairman Dozier carefully informed those present that the testimony must be confined solely to the issue of whether or not Mr. Matteson was insubordinate, and therefore his non-re-employment was justified, it is expectd that the former teacher will have a large number of witnesses on hand today, and that efforts will be made by Grow and others from the Central Labor Council to show that the failure to re-employ Mr. Matteson, who is a member of machinists union, will be considered an affront by union labor, regardless of the merits of the charges.

WAR HERO DIES HERE.

Survives Battle Only to Succumb to Surgical Operation.

Felix Tamietta, aged 30 years, one of the five men of his detachment to have escaped death in the last fight in the Argonne Forest just an hour before the signing of the armistice, died at the California Hospital, yesterday, as a result of shrapnel wounds. Tamietta was a member of Co. F, Three Hundred and Fifty-fourth Regiment, Eighty-ninth Division, and in the Argonne conflict thirty of his comrades were killed, while five others, including himself, were severely wounded.

Since returning to America Tamietta had been operated upon five times and it was thought that he would finally recover, but the sixth operation proved too much for his weakened system. He was on his way from the Letterman General Hospital, in San Francisco, to his home in Jerome, Ariz., three weeks ago, when he became very ill and his condition compelled him to stop in Los Angeles for treatment.

Funeral services will be conducted today at the Godeau & Martinoni undertaking establishment, only the immediate members of the family being present. The body will be taken to Jerome for burial. The young hero leaves a widow and two children, and his mother, Mrs. Frank Dezolt, all of Jerome.

A letter received from Supervisor McClellan, who was sent into Alaska for big game as specimens for the Museum of History, Art and Science, under date of August 17 last from Lower Scalia Basin, Alaska, states that the party has just returned from the goat country and obtained all the material for a fine group. He mentions that "Dr. Jones is with us and seems to be standing the trip fairly well." The latter is a local physician.

TO SELL MERCANTILE PLACE

By an unanimous vote of the Board of Education, yesterday, the Finance Committee was instructed to arrange for the sale of the school property known as Mercantile place. A resolution instructing the committee to arrange the details will later be referred to the board for authority to advertise for bids.

The motion adopted yesterday provides that the financial committee shall arrange for the sale of the property with the understanding that the minimum price which would be acceptable is $925,000; and if the property is bought on terms, the cash payment shall be $225,000, and the balance secured by a mortgage to run not more than five years and to bear interest at the rate of 5 per cent.

Another paragraph of the resolution provides that if the property is sold on terms that 15 per cent. of the unpaid balance must be paid before the present buildings are demolished.

It is reported that the financial committee will consider this matter at its next meeting and Monday night recommend to the Board of Education that the property be advertised for sale. The bids will probably be opened within six weeks, it was announced.

THANK YOU, GENTLEMEN.

In behalf of the Los Angeles public, The Times thanks the street car companies for restoring night service. It is much appreciated.

The yellow cars will begin running till midnight tonight. Fine, fine! The Times was sure this service would be granted without delay—and it was.

And so the last inconvenience produced by the strike ends. It might be called a "strikeless strike," it was such a dismal failure.

Failure largely because the strikers did not have public sympathy, so unreasonable were their demands. Never was there an instance in which the public gave such hearty support to the car lines when a strike was on. The people patronized them handsomely, stood by them strongly, put up with inconveniences patiently and helped Right win.

Now the companies are doing their utmost to accommodate and please the public. They are not found lacking in regard for the people's welfare. They show the right spirit.

There will be no trouble at night. The sluggers are cowed. Too many eyes are on them; too many against them.

SHOD AND SHODDY.

New England journals of the leather trade say that the people simply will not buy cheap shoes. Simply cannot buy them in the way it looks to the aforesaid people.

A BROKEN REED.

Among the tasks before organized labor is the one to find jobs for members of the Bartenders' Union. How many men are given jobs because they belong to some union?

ONE-DAY STRIKES.

The Tom Mooney agitators are ordering a general union strike for October 8—a one-day affair. Better call it a holiday instead of a strike. An agitator would have to work overtime to make much of a disturbance on one day, and overtime is not to be thought of without extra pay.

HOT STUFF.

It takes nearly 100 glasses of 2.75 beer to equal the souse capacities of 10 ordinary drinks of 'skee. Likewise it takes some tank to hold 100 glasses. Small wonder that the average jag devotes his time to experiments with Jamaica ginger and capsicum. The next inebriate will have a fireproof tummy.

YEARS AND THE CAMERA.

When will some of our venerable stage stars learn that they cannot play kid and kittenish parts in the movies? They used to be able to get away with it to a considerable extent in the spoken drama, but the films are not so amiable and tolerant. You can fool the people easier than you can the camera.

LEAVE IT TO UNCLE SAM.

The coal miners are demanding that the government take over the mining interests of the nation. Looks as if everybody wanted a government job, but where is the money to come from? Will the Greeks be wanting the administration to take over the shoe-shining parlors? Not on your life.

SENATORIAL THRIFT.

Some of the Senators have odd ideas in making personal warfare against the high cost of living. Senator McCormick, who has a few millions to play with, had last season's overcoat and an old suit turned wrong side out and made into practically new garments. Senator Knox has cut out beef and pork and is living on fish and vegetables. Senator Wolcott is giving away baskets of Delaware peaches to his fellow-members. Senator Phelan is saving his shoes by cutting out his daily walks to the Capitol and using his limousine instead. It is hard for a barefooted man to drive a Ford, else this idea of using an auto to save shoe leather would become popular. As Senator Phelan has his own chauffeur he doesn't mind; but a chauffeur will usually cost more than the shoes. But these examples of Senatorial thrift and economy are at least illuminating.

THE REGULATORS.

There's no rest for the wicked. To the terrors of a bone-dry land the thirsty are informed that the Prohibition party is going ahead with its organization and campaigning just as if nothing had happened last July. This may seem like a matter of lost motion, but your dyed-in-the-wool prohibitionist has been faithful to his mate for so long that he will not even flirt with another party. What he is going to do with the Prohibition organization in the future doth not appear; but he is going ahead and nominate a candidate for President. Maybe it will be necessary to have a Prohibition party to help enforce a prohibition law, or perhaps they will find other things that should be prohibited besides Scotch highballs and 2.75 beer. The word prohibition is a stimulant to some crusader and there still remain such things as tobacco, cards and the dance to be disposed of.

STRUGGLING WITH OUR RAILROAD PROBLEM.

The railroad situation undoubtedly presents one of the most serious problems now before the American people; a problem into which must go our best thought and the most carefully-balanced justice if an equitable result is to be achieved.

Many solvents have been proposed, and out of these it is fair to assume salvation will come. The latest and the most interesting and far-reaching is the proposition which has been made to the Senate of the United States by Senator Cummins on behalf of the Interstate Commerce Subcommittee.

It is proposed by this measure to return the roads to private ownership, while at the same time the government retains a large measure of control. To the Interstate Commerce Commission is given greatly-increased powers, and a new railway transportation board of five members, to be appointed by the President, is provided. This board will supervise railway development and operations, subject to final action of the commission.

Another committee will have under its jurisdiction wages and working conditions and be invested with wide authority in the settlement of labor questions. Strikes and lock-outs are prohibited and made criminal offenses, and regional systems are authorized.

To recapitulate, the salient provisions of the Cummins bill include:

Termination of government control and return of the railroads to private ownership on last day of the month of enactment.

Establishing the Interstate Commerce Commission with greatly increased powers, as the supreme body over railroad affairs. Supervision and control of virtually all railroad affairs, including rates, wages, operation and financing, by the government.

Creation of a new railway transportation board of five members appointed by the President to supervise railway development and operations, subject to final action of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Creation of a new committee on wages and working conditions, composed equally of representative employees and employers, with wide authority in settling labor questions, subject to decision of the Transportation Board and Interstate Commerce Commission.

Prohibiting strikes and lock-outs of railroad employees under fine and imprisonment penalties.

Defining a new policy for concentration in ownership and operation of railroads, with Federal incorporation into not less than twenty nor more than thirty-five regional systems.

No guarantee by the government of future railroad income, but limitations made upon revenue to "fair" dividends.

It is probable that the public will agree with Chairman Cummins that the plan for regional systems really strikes the keynote of the bill, although labor will bend an interested ear to that clause which creates a committee on wages and working conditions to be composed of eight members, four representing labor and four representing the railway companies, as well as to another provision which requires that railroad corporations must have among their directors two representatives of their "classified employees" and also two directors representing the government. Huh! What shall the stockholders say about it, one might ask.

It would be a hardy individual and a venturesome newspaper that undertook to say, at this stage of the game, that the so-called Cummins bill is the panacea for all our railroad ills or that it will prove to be the documentary Moses which will lead us from the path defying bulrushes into the broad light of a saner day.

The Cummins bill represents the best thought of many men who have been studying this great problem for months, but the child of their brain has not yet even been wrapped in swaddling clothes. The best that can be said for the infant is that he is apparently well formed, lusty and looks healthy. It is too soon to take him to our bosom and adopt him into the family as a full-fledged member.

The thought that is uppermost in the minds of Los Angeles men of affairs who have studied the bill is that it may be found to contain at least the germ of the Great Idea.

It seems to The Times that the retention of the regional system is highly significant and with important bearing upon the subject at large. Regional railways mean a continuation of competition and should do away with one of the worst phases of government control: the removal of all incentive for the development of the territory and its tributaries through which the railroad passes.

Let us suppose, for example, that a government railroad agent had succeeded, largely through his own effort, in bringing to Los Angeles the great Goodyear Tire and Rubber factories and then let us imagine, if we can, the reception this agent would get when he made his next stop in San Francisco.

On the other hand, under the regional system, each road will be free to develop to the fullest extent its own territory. It will use its utmost endeavor to establish new outlets to increase its income and to secure all the business possible in every legitimate way, under the watchful eye and rate-making authority of the Interstate Commerce Commission, while its relationship towards its employees will be regulated by the co-operative participation of the workers in the affairs of the company as exemplified through their representation upon the directorate, and the wage return they receive, which will be, presumably, based upon a scientifically-established balance of profit and loss.

Competition has always been the life of trade. Upon it our great railway systems have been developed, and if competition may be perpetuated and if, at the same time, the elements of unrest, dissatisfaction, the fear of exploitation and all the other bogeys of the man who works are laid away there is no reason why the prestige of the rail should not return; not for the excessive enrichment of individuals, but for the financial betterment of all concerned and for the development and prosperity of the whole country.

If, perchance, the coming of the happy day may be hastened by the adoption of the Cummins bill, or any other bill, we will throw our hat high in the air and give three cheers. It may be that this measure really does contain the genesis of the Great Idea. We do not know. No one knows, but it is at least a starting point; a beginning. We believe it is a start along the track that legislation must take in order to safeguard the interests of the public, protect property rights and defeat demagogy. The one conspicuous flaw in the bill is the lack of due consideration and of due representation on boards and committees given to the stockholders of the roads. With conditions as they are now, the greatest menace to the country's industrial interests in connection with the railroads is that they may be forced into bankruptcy or giving one-horse service.

While They Split Hairs—

A MENACE TO WALKING DELEGATES.

Because Los Angeles declined to be wiped off the map by the union-labor organizations of the country the city is now denounced by certain of their leaders as "A NATIONAL MENACE." See?

H. L. Sweeney, business agent of the Oakland Machinists' Union, district representative of the Pacific Coast Metal Trades Council, etc., etc., is out with a statement in the San Francisco Bulletin that industry in Los Angeles must be unionized or the whole country is going to succumb to a new disease that is much more deadly to unions than Bolshevism.

Sweeney came down here himself, seeking to organize industrial strikes, and he was appalled at the conditions he encountered. He found a whole community of workmen, nonunion and unashamed, workmen who openly boasted that they had paid the last dollar of dues they would ever contribute to the support of a labor union. To find employers who favored an open shop was bad enough; but for the workmen themselves to openly glory in it—that was the most unkindest cut of all.

So Sweeney is appealing to the country as a whole to put a trade boycott on Los Angeles. The spirit of industrial freedom cannot be broken from within; outside pressure is the only hope. "The recent railroad strike would not have occurred if the town had even been sympathetic with the ideals and aims of union labor," he asserts in his article in the Bulletin. That lack of sympathy smote him to the heart. The free spirit of Los Angeles was, to him, more deadly than the plague. Mr. Sweeney claims Oakland as his place of abode. He was reared in an atmosphere of industrial servitude and he is horrified at the idea that his associates in the north should pay regularly labor-union dues for the privilege of earning a living while those of Los Angeles go scot free.

It hasn't occurred to his naive intellect that the workers of the north could rid themselves of their voluntary servitude, that he and his associate walking delegates are only industrial parasites. He only sees a spirit manifested in Los Angeles that is deadly to labor-unionism; and he wants it crushed quickly, lest the whole country should become infected.

"Organized labor, with the assistance of the United States government and its various commissions, should see to it that Los Angeles is eliminated as a NATIONAL MENACE by making it a union town."

Such is Sweeney's advice. Sweeney has been here on the ground and knows it is going to be a big job; so he wants plenty of help. He thinks perhaps the Federal government "and its various commissions" can do something about it. Someone probably "told it to Sweeney;" and Sweeney is passing the word along the line.

He is deeply alarmed over the shipbuilding situation here. Listen to his wail in the Bulletin: "The attitude of the Los Angeles shipbuilders is such that the prosperity of the entire Coast is endangered by their refusal to recognize the union men working there." So there are union men working here, Mr. Sweeney, notwithstanding the anathemas of yourself and the other walking delegates? And why do you suppose they are working here, "unrecognized" and unrepentant, when there is a shortage of union help in the shipyards all over the country? Perhaps there are still things in heaven and earth, Mr. Sweeney, undreamed of in your petty philosophy.

The tribe of Sweeney has always been noted for its credulity. "Tell it to Sweeney" is as proverbial as "Tell it to the marines." Perhaps it is by reason of the atavism of the present Mr. Sweeney that he has been selected as the spokesman for the defeated and discomfited walking delegates.

Someone has certainly been giving Sweeney an earful. Just listen to this: "There is a movement on foot among all workingmen to see that the nonunion ships produced in the Los Angeles shipyards (so they are really producing them, Mr. Sweeney, despite the repeated denials of yourself and associates?) will never sail the seas. They may be built, but they will never carry the flag of the United States if they have to be relegated to the scrap heap, as far as union labor is concerned. The case of Los Angeles is one which should commend itself to the United States government."

Is it really as bad as that, Mr. Sweeney? Perhaps someone has been telling you that the government ought to collect dues from every workman as an excise tax—although you hold that labor isn't a commodity—and turn it over to the unions. Doubtless you have come to regard a free workman as a tax dodger. It is regrettable that you haven't made clear just what the Federal government is to do about it. A tale half told is little better than no tale at all.

It is doubtless true that, from Mr. Sweeney's point of view, "the prosperity of the entire Coast is endangered by their refusal to recognize the union men working here." For the only coast he knows is that bounded by the four walls of the union-labor temple; and The Times agrees with him that the prosperity of the labor-union bosses—but not of such members as are honest and efficient workmen—is endangered by the open-shop conditions prevailing in Los Angeles. When men can receive equal or better pay, equal or better hours and equal or better working conditions outside the unions, what reason remains for the union's existence? That is the rub which Mr. Sweeney and his associate parasites are beginning to feel. There the "menace" comes in.

But the case is not as hopeless as it now appears to Mr. Sweeney. He was probably a working machinist, maybe a good one—for the tribe of Sweeney were formerly good workers—before he became a walking delegate. Communities industrially free do not hold spite. Scores of workmen who once were walking delegates are now employed in the shipyards and machine shops of Los Angeles. After his dream of labor-union domination has ended there may still be a place in a local shop for Mr. Sweeney; and the dues he once paid to the union may go towards paying for a bungalow, buying ribbons for a colleen and, who knows? providing the first pair of jumpers for the latest addition to the tribe of Sweeney.

"A MENACE." Just so. It makes us laff. We are it.

Coming to a Climax in Mexico.

Surely something should be done about Mexico. Events appear to be moving rapidly towards the precipitation of a climax. The testimony of Mr. Polk before the House Foreign Affairs Committee is a step in that direction. The Juarez battle is another step along the same lines. If we entered that fight as an ally of the irresponsible brigand Carranza against the irresponsible brigand Villa we should know the fact.

Along the whole length of the Mexican border American troops are on guard day and night. The actual monetary cost to the American people has been estimated at $1,000,000 per week. Our troops are there to protect the border from raids, murders and robberies, and that the world may not be shocked and horrified by the repetition of the Columbus raid.—[Topeka State Journal.

"BACK FROM IOWAY."

I've wandered to the old State, John, where you and I were young;
The State of which the corny, oatsy, hoggy songs are sung;
The State where you and I, John, once pushed the festive pen
(Though not the famous hog pen, John,) but I wandered back again.

I'd heard that people back there were lousy with the kale;
That editors and print shops made money by the bale;
That farmers all drove limousines
to haul their folks around;
And county printing grew so thick it cumbered up the ground.

All that and more I'd heard, John, through my wife's folks and my own,
Until I thought I'd go and chase the gay simoleon
Into its lair, and then pursue the pensive dividend
Across the Hawkeye prairies to its rosy rainbow's end.

So I went, John, and I chased 'em, and I'll say I caught a few,
But, even so, I don't believe it's the place for me and you.
For we've lived out here so long,
John, we're like the fabled loons
Who'd got so used to strawberries they didn't care for prunes.

I tell you I'd forgot, John, what that climate really was.
In summer time I nearly fried and in winter nearly fruz.
I shoveled ninety tons of coal worth a half a ton of cash,
And all I ever got from it was two hundred tons of ash.

I fanned my face in August and fanned my grate in March;
My collars and my backbone both sagged for lack of starch;
While colds and heaves and chilblains were our regulation store,
Till we ran up doctor bills so high we couldn't run no more.

My print shop was a bake shop from early June till fall,
And from autumn on my rollers wouldn't take no ink at all.
All winter long my presses had to take hot irons to bed,
While the cylinder pulled blankets over every bloomin' head.

And all through our sojourning, in a melting, minor strain,
Was the wish that we were back in sunny South Cal. again.
We missed the balmy winds, to temper cold and heat,
Where ocean waves, as Neptune's slaves, could wash the mountain's feet.

Not to mention varied victuals and scenery and sich,
And schools and sports and highways through the towns and valleys rich.
It may not pay to live here, John,
from a monetary view,
But I can't see why money is the only thing. Can you?

So we quietly pulled our stakes,
John, and like the cat, came back
And now if but our folks were here our joy would know no lack.
But, like most other folks back there, they're dreaming of the day
When they can come out here on coin they made in Ioway.

So, as I say, we wandered, John,
where you and I were kids.
We wandered and we wondered why we wandered as we did.
But all the folks who leave here—
I'll rise to take my pen
And tell the world—it never fails, will wander back again.

SAM GREENE.

HE WAS FORTUNATE.

He recently returned from France and one of his arms is missing. He is very sensitive about any mention of that loss, particularly so since it doesn't interfere with his work. But two young men, not nearly so efficient as he, who are employed in the same office, insist on talking about his loss. The other day one of them began, "I'll tell you it is tough to lose an arm in a war for millionaires. Now——"

"Now," interrupted the young hero testily, "I want to tell you it's a lot better to be crippled in war than by nature."

And there was absolute silence in that office.—[Indianapolis News.

RIPPLING RHYMES.

GOLD BRICKS.

Some busy fellows in our town are always hustling up and down, intent on boosting things; they want to raise a bunch of kale to put a flagpole on the jail or build new courthouse wings. They want to paint the Country Club or hire some highly-gifted dub to beautify the grounds; and so they come to me and say, "We need a lot of coin today, so cough up seven pounds."
But always I have other use for every cent I can produce, some junk
I have to buy; I line up with the easy hicks who blow themselves for gilded bricks or strips of azure sky.
I have a gold mine up in Maine, where any man would be insane who dug around for gold; I have an ice plant on a shore where arctic billows always roar and it is beastly cold. I have a ranch that ought to grow all kinds of grain that moderns know, if it had any soil; I have an oil well on a hill, where high-priced workmen drill and drill and never reach the oil. I'm always buying costly shares that ought to make men millionaires, but never, never do; I'm buying shares in mills and mines and grizzly bears and pumpkin vines and remedies for flu. And so I cannot spare a red to help our village forge ahead, to aid the boosters' fads; assessments always coming due, it seems to me I'm never through with shelling out the scads.

WALT MASON.

PAN-AMERICANISM FROM BUSINESS MAN'S VIEW.

BY DR. NORMAN BRIDGE.

Pan-Americanism means a sweep of thought that takes in a great body of Latin-American and native people, of many nations in many climes—all to the south of our southern boundary; and on the hither side of it, swarming millions of Anglo-Saxon stock largely, but with numerous and curious mixtures of many kinds, a few aborigines and a large class of African descent.

The Rio Grande divides the continent into two different civilizations—each the result of the forces back of it from the distant past; each with traits that are peculiar to it; and each, unfortunately, with some suspicions of the other.

All nations have differing habits and customs that are the product of the ages. And we all have the burden of two great needs—one to avoid a persistent tendency to overmuch conceit in our own ways; the other to cultivate some charity and sympathy toward the ways of others. Thereby we may learn to give and take—to adopt the best that others have and to proffer but not force upon others the best of our own.

American business is ready to forego certain faults in facilities and otherwise in order to trade and live in amity with our Latin-American neighbors. But there are some essential conditions of amicable commerce. Among these are stable governments and safety for persons and property. Business does not readily go where its people are likely to be killed or where debts and obligations of men and governments are likely to be forgotten or repudiated. There must be such protection and good faith as are the long-time custom of the most enlightened countries. It will not do to contend that a nation is surely doing its full duty when it protects its foreign guests as well as it does its own citizens—it must treat foreigners well by the standards of international usage. If a nation should decree that one in fifty of its citizens should be put to death it cannot apply that rule to its foreign residents.

The nations to the south of us are debtor nations; and their true interest for their industries and people is in having the help of the creditor nations; help both by money investments and operating industries. These always strengthen the debtor nation and always must. From such influences come the greatest profit to all classes and especially to the poor people. This is substantially a universal rule.

We have been to some degree a creditor nation to the countries to the south of us; we have entered many of them with investments and enterprises that, while profitable to us, have been of greater benefit to them. Especially is this true of Mexico, where all classes of people have been the gainers.

The great war has changed our financial relations with Europe. From being a debtor nation we have become the great creditor nation and are loaning money and extending credit in enormous volume to most of the governments and peoples of Europe. Such credits are the indispensable force that shall lift those nations out of the exhaustion of war.

In many lands the medical arm of missionary work has opened the eyes of groping people to the joy of better health, less suffering and longer life. And young and old alike have quickly related the new health and cleanliness of body to spiritual betterment and a desirable religion.

In the Latin-American countries the missionary efforts are bestowed especially on the poor, uneducated and unfortunate classes. In many of these countries, notably Mexico, which I am most familiar with, these people are numerically the greatly predominating class. Foreign interests and industries have encouraged them by better wages, better health and living conditions, intelligent instruction and by sympathy and faith. To this sort of treatment their response has always been prompt and surprising. If any business man doubts this (as some do) he has not become really and sympathetically acquainted with them.

Many influences have attached us to these people. We have learned something of their beautiful language; we have learned of the gentleness of their natures, their capacity for friendship and loyalty, their teachableness and their avidity for knowledge. We have seen them rise in the social scale by more material prosperity—from peons they have become mechanics, machinists and overseers. By a little practical instruction they can become farmers and horticulturists; and such instruction they should soon begin to have. Their development under such influences is remarkable, considering the fact that for some centuries they have until lately had very little encouragement. With the coming of peace and stable government—if happily it shall become permanent—the illiteracy of this 85 per cent. of the Mexican population will steadily decrease and with this will come an increase in their importance as a factor in the community.

Too long have we in mass neglected those lands of romance to the south of us, as regions for travel and study. We have wandered to Europe, Africa and the Orient; we have circumnavigated the globe for scenery and novelty and for a little casual study—when between us and the Panama Canal (our own newer land) is a field of interest and study of surpassing richness. We ought to cultivate that field.

I know it will be said that lack of safe travel and residence there and creature comforts on the road make such a thing impossible. Also that we shall find scant welcome by reason of the fixed fear of us in those lands, if not by our own lack of tact and charity. But I refuse to join such a league of gloom. The time will come when we shall better appreciate the essential [illegible] of those people, and when they know that our desire for their betterment is unselfish. Shortly after a special train from Clara Barton Council No. 14, Daughters of Veterans, left the same station occupying two special coaches.

The big encampment opens at Columbus next Monday and will be in session for five days. Russell C. Allen of No. 423 College street, Hollywood, the Department Commander, was in charge of the delegation that left on the special train. Mr. Allen said that the question of allowing the League of Nations [illegible] to come up before the encampment. He asserted that the measure was strongly favored by the members of the department of California and Nevada and that it was expected to be indorsed at the national encampment by a large majority.

Mrs. Amalia Daugherty, president of Clara Barton Council, was in charge of the delegation from the Daughters of Veterans. She is also a national delegate.

While the convention, Mrs. Daugherty will go East for a visit to several of the large cities. She expects to be gone two months. Mr. Allen and Mrs. Martin also will visit New York after the encampment and later will visit Mr. Martin's old home in Vermont. He left when fifteen years old in 1864 and fought through the war.

The headquarters of the delegates from this part of the country will be at the Hotel Deshler, Columbus. Besides Mr. Martin other officers of the department making the trip include Assistant-General R. Heffelfinger, Senior Aide G. M. Aubrey, Department Chaplain T. W. Lincoln of Long Beach, Past Department Commander C. E. Haskins, Medical Director Dr. D. W. Hasson of Buena Park, Division Commander H. W. Hall of the Sons of Veterans, and Department Secretary A. B. Medler of the same organization.

Peter.

"PETER" TO BE FIGURE AT STREET CARNIVAL.

MANY NOTABLES TO ASSIST BIG SISTERS' LEAGUE IN RAISING FUNDS.

Preparations have been completed for the carnival to be held tomorrow evening on Olive street, between Sixth and Seventh streets, the features including a street dance, country store, booths at which there will be home-made cake and other goodies, vaudeville entertainment, white elephant department, and many "surprise" shows. The Mayor and City Council, and members of the park and playground departments are assisting in the work of arranging for the carnival, which is directly in charge of Mrs. E. B. Weirick, president of the Big Sisters' League; Mrs. R. W. Richardson, Mrs. Fred Hickok, Mrs. Robert Brain, Mrs. John L. Butler, Mrs. Rose P. Bryant, Mrs. Lewis R. Works, Mrs. Berthold Baruch, Mrs. Mary Holman, Mrs. William Frederickson, Mrs. L. H. Hamilton, Miss Myra Mfiler and many others.

Among the special features will be the first public appearance in Los Angeles of Peter, the famous Boston terrier, who at Victoria, B. C., raised $9000 during the war. The dog is 6 years old and is owned by Mrs. R. H. Duce of Hollywood. During the war Peter would sit all day on a downtown street at Victoria with a pipe in his mouth and a "stove-pipe" hat on his head, and look appealingly at passersby so that they would drop their coins for war relief work in boxes on his collar. In one day he raised $526. He took part in all "drives" for all war work, and is a life member of the Canadian Red Cross. He raised money to endow a bed at the Ramsgate (Eng.) hospital, and for two years and a half raised $5 a month to care for an Allied soldier who was a prisoner among the Germans.

Peter carried about proudly the first American flag display at Victoria on April 6, 1917, the day the United States entered the world war. The dog will have a brand new repertoire of costumes and stunts to display at the carnival tomorrow evening, the proceeds of which go toward maintenance of the Big Sisters' League Woman's Training Home at 3118 Trinity street. Women who have been adrift are taught in this school to fit themselves to earn their livelihood by self-respecting work, thus redeeming them from the life they had previously led.

BUERGER CASE AGAIN BEFORE SCHOOL BOARD

COMMITTEE DENIES DISMISSED TEACHER NEW HEARING; TO DECIDE MONDAY.

Whether or not the several committees of the Board of Education have power to act on the questions brought before them will be discussed at a meeting of the committee of the whole next Monday night, when the board considers the case of Mary B. Buerger, a teacher who was dismissed from the Los Angeles city schools. Miss Buerger was dismissed last spring on recommendation of the old Board of Education, by its Teachers' and Schools' Committee.

This case was considered by the present Teachers' and Schools Committee on Wednesday and yesterday the committee made a report to the board holding that the case should not be reopened because of the evidence that has been submitted.

Miss Bessie Stoddart made a motion that the report of the committee be passed. The motion was seconded, but Melville Dozier asked that the letter of the teacher be reconsidered. He said he was not familiar with the matter and suggested that it be referred to the Committee of the Whole. Mrs. C. C. Ashley asked Mr. Dozier if he expected all of the matters disposed of by the old Board of Education to be submitted to the Committee of the Whole.

Mrs. Ashley and Mr. Dozier were engaging in a lively argument regarding the case when President Helm said that action on the letter would be postponed until next Monday night.

It was suggested that this motion to reconsider the letter should come from the Teachers' and Schools' Committee, but Mrs. Ashley insisted that the committee had made an investigation and was through with the matter and would not recommend that it be reconsidered. Consideration of the rehearing will probably be argued next Monday night in the Committee of the Whole, and the case finally disposed of at that time.

SURETY COMPANY IS LOSER IN HIGH COURT.

The State Supreme Court has confirmed the judgment for the payment of $3591.66 by the Southwestern Surety Insurance Company to Fred W. Siegel, on account of a sub-contract made by G. A. Hackler, for the excavation and cement work in the erection of the Mariborough School for Girls in 1915, for which Siegel had the principal contract to construct, the corporation furnishing a surety bond in behalf of Hackler, who abandoned the work.

WOULD SHIELD DRUG ADDICTS.

Profiteering in Narcotics Causes Action Here.

Revenue Head to Confer with Doctors and Druggists.

Plan System so They will Get Needed "Sleepy Stuff."

Though recognizing that the enforcement of the Harrison narcotic law has done much to rescue many individuals from a fate that is worse than death, Internal Revenue Collector Carter will hold a meeting tonight with a number of prominent pharmacists and physicians to reach an understanding that is intended to relieve a situation that has become so acute as to require some action of those in authority.

Stripped of all subterfuge, it is hoped that a programme may be mapped out and honestly adhered to by the contracting parties, by means of which persons of both sexes, whose physical condition is such that the use of drugs is positively a necessity to sustain life itself, may secure the relief required without running the risk of arrest and punishment.

Collector Carter is of the opinion that while the law is intended to entirely prevent the use of any drugs, that the situation is such that some arrangement should be made looking to the end indicated. Similar action has been taken elsewhere, and the conditions here have long demanded a programme by which, in cases of absolute necessity, where the life or at least the health is threatened by the withdrawal of all stimulant, assistance can be rendered without running afoul of the law.

ONLY GENTLEMAN PACT.

Of course, it can only be a gentleman's agreement, in which the honesty nd high-mindedness of pharmacists and physicians will be the only standard to be set, where an appeal must be made to the uprightness and ethical correctness of the dealers and dispensers, to the end that no drug shall be prescribed or sold except in cases where the need is urgent, and where it is apparent, from a knowledge of the case, that intense physical suffering, if not death, will ensue if succor is not afforded the unfortunate.

It is hoped that a mutual understanding will be reached this evening, by the terms of which unfortunates and derelicts, who are slaves to the morphine, cocaine or heroin habits, and whose physical condition actually demands the administration from time to time of an artificial stimulant, can be accommodated, provided the circumstances in the case warrant the sale and delivery of any of these drugs to sick men and women.

In his efforts to secure some concert of action to the end indicated, Collector Carter is having the co-operation nd assistance of scores of the dealers and others in a position to furnish these drugs. They recognize that in some cases it would be little less than murder to withhold a small supply from the unfortunates, who, in many instances, would sell their souls for something to ease their inward craving.

Any arrangement made would, of course, have nothing to do with contraband dealers, who have been taking advantage of the users by charging prices that would make the average profiteer green with envy. It is to place physically-broken addicts in a position where, by making the proper showing to a reputable physician, they can secure small quantities of drugs, so that they may be protected from the ravages of the ghouls, who, taking advantage of their unfortunate position, proceed to rob them in return for small samples of narcotics.

FIND MORPHINE?

Yesterday afternoon, Internal Revenue Inspectors Bright, Brooks and Austin made a descent upon the home of Arthur L. Lehman, 662 Gladys avenue, reported the capture of two ounces of morphine in the original packages, just as it had been shipped from San Francisco. The accused was lodged in the County Jail.

The capture of the morphine was accomplished by Inspector Brooks pretending to be a delivery clerk of the American Express Company, wearing the cap of the guild, and the suspicion of Lehman was completely disarmed. When the shipment was handed to him he was placed under arrest.

The high cost of narcotics, as a result of the enforcement of the Harrison law, linked with a bit of profiteering, was shown by the testimony of Detective Tom Zeigler, before United States Commissioner Long, yesterday, in the preliminary examination of Mrs. Louella Martin, charged with sending several letters from San Francisco to her husband, F. Martin, who is in the County Jail facing a trial on the charge of robbery.

Ziegler testified that Mrs. Martin had confessed to him that she had sent the narcotic from the Bay City, because her husband was ill and required it. When asked why she did not buy it in Los Angeles, he testified that she said she was afraid of being robbed by the dealers. The woman said that she had made a call on a Chinese herbalist, and he wanted $12.50 for a quarter ounce of morphine. She said she got the same amount in San Francisco for $3.50.

The Federal grand jury returned an indictment yesterday against Harry Day, alias Harry Dean, for having in his possession a quantity of cocoaine. He was arrested at Figueroa street and Sunset boulevard.

HE WANTS A FORD.

To give better service on the municipal motor bus line from Fountain avenue to the municipal golf links in Griffith Park, Motor Bus Commissioner Van Griffith yesterday asked the Council to provide a Ford touring car for his department. The request went to the Finance Committee.

FOR STREET WORK.

Approval of the assessment district map for the lighting of Ogden drive, between Sunset boulevard and Fountain avenue, was given by the Council, yesterday. It also adopted ordinances abandoning proceedings for the improvement of Foster street, from the easterly terminus to the easterly line of Santa Fe avenue, and abandoning similar proceedings for improvement of Oxford avenue, from Melrose avenue to Temple street.

CLEAR DECK FOR ACTION.

Long Beach Chief of Police to Stand Trial by Present Commission.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONG BEACH, Sept. 4.—Without comment and by a unanimous vote, the Long Beach City Commissioners denied the request of C. C. Cole, suspended Chief of Police, that two members of the Civil Service Commission, Thomas W. Williams and Dr. A. F. Hamman, who are to sit at a hearing of the police head, be removed on the grounds of prejudice and bias.

Alexander Beck, leading member of the Civil Service Commission, who is out of the city on a combined business and pleasure trip, was dismissed by a unanimous vote of the legislative body for the reason that he is not here to hear the important charges to be brought before the civil service board.

Chief Cole had requested the removal of Beck for the reason named.

To fill the unexpired term of Commissioner Beck, the legislative body unanimously elected Charles F. Vandewater, real estate dealer and former president of the Chamber of Commerce. The action by the City Commissioners in dismissing Beck and refusing to discharge Hamman and Williams on the charges preferred consumed but about five minutes, time.

Immediately following the announcement by Mayor Lisenby that he was ready to entertain a motion in regard to action taken by the legislative body in regard to the civil service situation, Commissioner Seerie made a motion to the affect that Alexander Beck be removed from the board for the reason already set forth and not because he failed to qualify in any other respect. The motion was seconded by Commissioner E. E. Tincher and carried unanimously. C. F. Vandewater was then nominated by Commissioner Seerie to fill the unexpired term of Beck and that motion prevailed without a dissenting voice.

Commissioner W. M. Beck then offered a resolution to the effect that the request of Chief of Police C. C. Cole that the other two members of the board, Thomas W. Williams and Dr. A. F. Hamman, be removed on the grounds of bias and prejudice, be denied. This motion was seconded by Commissioner Seele and carried unanimously.

There was no discussion, the legislative body having rehearsed the procedure in executive session. The members of the City Commission individually, when interviewed, declined to comment on the decision.

Dr. A. F. Hamman and Thomas W. Williams, the two Civil Service Commissioners charged with bias and prejudice by the suspended police head, each declared today that there was no truth in the reports circulated to the effect that now that they were cleared of the charges lodged against them they would resign for the sake of harmony.

President T. W. Williams, of the Civil Service Commission, declared he would call a meeting, probably Friday, to discuss the setting of a date for the trial of the Chief on the charges filed against him with the commission.

Attorney Roland G. Swafield, counsel for Chief Cole, stated today that he had not determined what his next move would be in the situation.

ORGANIZE TO BOOST BIG BEAR VALLEY.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BIG BEAR VALLEY, Sept. 4.—A Chamber of Commerce, to bring about the co-operation of all the business men of the valley to advertise and put before the people the desirability of the valley for summer camps, was organized at an enthusiastic meeting held here last night. J. Lowe was elected president with B. G. Holmes, vice-president, and W. D. McKnight, secretary. Ten teams are now at work among the hotelkeepers and business men of the great summer resort getting a membership that will represent the whole valley.

The Chamber of Commerce will take an active interest in the work done by the game commission for the benefit of the sportsmen, in the county road work so that all roads and one for winter use can be kept in good shape, and in publicity work of the right sort. There is a board of fifteen members. A. E. Isham, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce of Redlands, assisted in perfecting the new organization.

DEDICATE NEW LANDING FIELD.

Fliers and Filmites Attend Ceremony at Pasadena.

City Commission Continues Quiz of Firemen.

Father of Crown City Banker Dies at Family Home.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PASADENA, Sept. 4.—With many of the celebrants arriving by air, Pasadena's municipal air landing field in the northern section of the city, near the Altadena Country Club, was dedicated this afternoon. Pasadena city officials, famous film actresses, air line magnates, fliers of the Mercury Aviation Company and the Zenith Aviation Company, their passengers and Pasadena townspeople in great numbers made up the large assemblage at the dedication.

The first aircraft to arrive was that of the Zenith Aviation Company with Frank D. Croxford as pilot and Sherman A. Paddock of the Linnard hotels as a passenger. They flew from the grounds of the Hotel Belvedere in Santa Barbara and landed on the Hotel Maryland's leased landing tract on the municipal field, marking the first passenger flight from one Linnard hotel to another. Mr. Paddock carried a typewriter with him, but it may be doubted that he wrote much on the trip which the Zenith aircraft made in one hour and forty-five minutes. A string of the Mercury Aviation Company's planes arrived at the field shortly afterward, from Hollywood. The passengers included Cecil B. De Mille, the film director, Gloria Swanson, film star, and Leroy Linnard, son of D. M. Linnard, who is to have charge of the development of passenger air lines between the various Linnard hotls on the Coast.

The fliers included Lieut. Al Makepeace, David E. Thompson and L. V. Pickup. Chairman A. L. Hamilton of the Pasadena City Commission and A. G. Flebbe, vice-president of the Mercury Aviation Company, the first air line to lease landing space in the city field, greeted the arrivals as they stepped from their planes.

Mr. De Mille, Miss Swanson and the Mercury airmen brought greetings and congratulations on the opening of the field from Los Angeles. From Santa Barbara Mr. Paddock brought congratulations to Pasadena from Mayor Neilson of Santa Barbara which he presented to Chairman Hamilton and from James A. Parme, president of the Santa Barbara Chamber of Commerce to the Pasadena Board of Trade.

Pasadena was congratulated on being the first city to establish a public air landing field.

The head of the Santa Barbara Chamber of Commerce in his greetings, made the prediction that from now on flying between the different cities of the California coast will become a great sport to the winter tourists.

All the flying ships made the trip to the field and landings without any trouble of any kind. The ship from Santa Barbara followed the coast highway, sailed over the Canejo grade past Casbesas and thence down the range as far as Elysian Park, sailing thence to the Pasadena field.

There was no programme of speeches at the dedication. An informal reception was held at the Altadena Country Club, adjoining the field, after which several local notables were taken up for brief air rides.

CONTINUE INVESTIGATION.

More than thirty firemen were cross-examined by the City Commission today in an effort to find out who the firemen were who told W. A. Spill, attorney for the firemen, to write a public communication saying that the firemen were offered an additional raise in pay if recall petitions against Commissioners J. J. Hamilton and M. H. Salisbury, were withdrawn. Attorney Howard, who is conducting the examination for the commission, said every fireman in the department would be interrogated and hinted that the commissioners mentioned in the communication might sue the authors for libel. Counting those questioned yesterday, more than forty firemen have been questioned. The investigation will continue tomorrow.

OFF FOR ENCAMPMENT.

Pasadena's delegation to the G. A.R. encampment at Columbus, O., headed by G. M. Adams, delegate from the Department of California and Nevada, left this noon on a special train over the Santa Fe.

PIONEER PASSES.

Many friends of Samuel W. Pyle, a pioneer resident of Pasadena, were grieved to learn of his death last night at his home here. He was 79 years old. He had lived in Pasadena for twenty-six years. He was the father of E. J. Pyle, vice-president of the National Bank of Pasadena, Miss Harriet Pyle and Harry D. Pyle. The funeral will be held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of E. J. Pyle, Hill avenue and Mountain street.

The body will be cremated.

TRUCKS COLLIDE.

Two automobile trucks collided on East Colorado street near Lake today, injuring Millard S. Barter, driver of one of the trucks. He was taken to the Emergency Hospital for treatment and later removed to his home, 39 North Fair Oaks avenue. The trucks were damaged.

HIT BY MOTORCYCLE.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ONTARIO, Sept. 4.—Mrs. Christina Pierson of 133 West G street is in a dangerous condition at the San Antonio Hospital tonight following an accident today at Euclid avenue and G street, in which she was hurled against the cement curbing by a motorcycle ridden by William Manker.

While it is impossible to tell the exact extent of Mrs. Pierson's injuries until an X-ray examination can be made, she is believed to have sustained several broken ribs, and may be injured internally. She is 47 years of age.

Manker declares that the woman ran directly in front of his machine after having first stopped apparently to let him pass.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

OXNARD, Sept. 5.—Saturday saw the beginning of the lima bean harvest in Ventura county, the sections where the threshing began first being in the Las Posas and Camarillo districts. The crop this year is exceedingly poor, in most instances the returns not being half of what was realized last year.

Dr. J. A. DeSerpa, Camarillo rancher, was the first to get his beans threshed and into the Camarillo warehouse. His crop, in this best bean land section, averaged about seven sacks to the acre on half his acreage, the same land last year yielding more than seventeen sacks to the acre, and in other years it averaged more than twenty sacks.

ENRAGED HUSBAND ATTEMPTS MURDER.

WIFE'S REFUSAL TO RETURN TO HIM CAUSE OF TRIPLE CRIME.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Sept. 4.—With their lives hanging in the balance, Mrs. Harry W. McGary and her mother, Mrs. H. T. Mallery, lie in a local hospital, as the result of an attack made by Harry W. McGary last night in which he stabbed and slashed his wife, daughter and mother-in-law.

Mrs. McGary and two children, Raymond and Thelma, the latter a 16-year-old girl, came here from San Jose recently to the home of Mrs. McGary's mother, Mrs. H. T. Mallery, with the intention of obtaining a divorce from McGary.

Last week McGary came from San Jose, and since arriving here has attempted to effect a reconciliation. Last night he again called at the Mallery house and pleaded with Mrs. McGary to go back to him. Angered by her continued refusals, he drew a hunting knife and attempted to kill her. Her 16-year-old daughter, Thelma, and her mother, ran to her assistance and he attacked them also, severely stabbing Mrs. Mallery, and inflicting a deep wound on his daughter. He then fled from the house to his room, changed his blood-soaked clothing and disappeared.

Mrs. McGary was stabbed in the back twice, the blade entering the lungs to a depth of six or seven inches, her right arm from shoulder to elbow was badly lacerated and portions of her body were literally slashed to ribbons. Her mother, Mrs. Mallery, was also stabbed in the lung, as well as receiving six other deep gashes.

VETERANS TO ATTEND NATIONAL REUNION.

LARGE REPRESENTATION GOES BY SPECIAL TRAIN TO COLUMBUS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SOLDIERS' HOME, Sept. 4.—The annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, which is to convene at Columbus, O., during the coming week, will be more largely represented by Civil War veterans from the Pacific branche than has been known for years past.

Many Home veterans having obtained "absence with leave," left this morning on the 11 o'clock Santa Fe twelve-car train provided for G.A.R. representatives. The two local posts, together with a number of delegates of the women's auxiliaries, have listed fifty-five representatives from this branch. It is known that many of the Home's members now on furlough have intimated their intentions to swell the number in attendance at the convention.

Among the more prominent delegates attending the encampment are Lieut. E. W. Tenbrook, surgeon of Uncle Sam Post, No. 117; H. A. Arnold, chaplain; George Kirsch and R. F. Lindsey, John A. Martin Post, No. 153, will have for special delegates John H. Collier, commander of the post; H. A. Waldron and C. E. Clark, besides a number of other members of the post. In addition to the fifty-five or more members of these posts, will be a score or more from Sawtelle members living at the Home, but sleeping outside.

COUNTY TAX HIGHER, CITY RATE LOWER.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VISALIA, Sept. 4.—The Visalia City Council has set $1.61 per $100 of valuation as the tax rate for the coming year, 4 cents below that of 1918, and 14 cents lower than the rate of 1917.

The county's rate for the year will establish a new high record of $3.35 per $100 inside incorporated cities and towns and $1.95 outside such divisions. The county general fund rate will be $1.97 this year, as compared with 40 cents last year. The rate for the coming fiscal year, however, will include an item of $1.25 for completion of fifty miles of permanent highways, needed to round out the county programme of road building. The budget includes an increase to 33 cents for the County Board of Trade, as compared with 1¼ cents last year.

EARLY SHIPMENT.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

DINUBA, Sept. 4.—What is said to establish a new record in early grape consignments was the shipment of a carload of Thompsons which left plant No. 3 of the California Associated Raisin Company yesterday for Reed, Murdock & Co., at Chicago. The consignment consisted of 2200 cases of raisins of a very high quality, according to G. C. Comer, superintendent of the plant.

WOMAN SUFFERED 12 YEARS

Finally Made Well by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Emmitsburg, Md.—"I suffered for twelve or fifteen years, and was treated by a physician, but got little relief. I saw an advertisement of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in a newspaper, and thought I would try it, and it helped me more than all the doctor's medicine. I am a farmer's wife and do my housework all the time, and I am well now than I have been for years. I am never without Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the house and have recommended it to several of my friends. You are perfectly welcome to publish my letter for what good it may do other women."—Mrs. IRVIN WARNER, Emmitsburg, Md.

BOY WONDER TO TWIRL TODAY.

Lundberg, the sensational boy heaver, will be on the mound for the Seals this afternoon at Washington Park in the fourth game of the present series with the Tigers. The kid won the only game he pitched for the San Franciscos and is said to be a comer. He will be opposed by Bill Essick's handsome twirler, Joe Finneran, whom many regard as the best moundman in the Tiger squad. Of the three games already played this week the Tigers have won two and the Seals one. The latter will try their best this afternoon to even the series. The game will begin at 2:45 p.m.

BARBARA D. WINS THE BIG GOVERNOR'S STAKE

AFTER RUNNING THIRD IN FIRST HEAT COMES BACK, COPS NEXT TWO.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 4.—Barbara D. won the feature event of the Governor's day races, when she captured the Governor's stake. After running third in the first heat, she came back and won the next two heats in a thrilling manner. In the free-for-all pacing race Budd Hale carried off the big money by winning three straight heats. The second was made in 2:07 1-4, the fastest heat paced so far at the State fair races.

The third race was put on by the Rotary Club of Sacramento, four of their most prominent members doing the driving. Adjt.-Gen. J. J. Borres, driving Rastus, was the winner in two straight heats.

The main running race, Golden Gate Breeders' Association handicap, for one and one-sixteenth miles, was annexed by the H. W. Barnes entry, Dickey W. and Afternight, taking both first and second. Summaries:

First race, the Governor's stake, 2:12 class trotting; purse, $1000:

DOUGLAS GRANT LEADS GOLFERS.

In Front in Qualifying Round for Championship.

Armstrong and Spinks Each Bring in a 73.

Octuple Tie Proves to be the Day's Sensation.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DEL MONTE, Sept. 4.—Douglas Grant, immune to too much golf in the shape of six medal rounds in four days, led the field in the qualifying round for the amateur championship of California, by four strokes, finishing with another 74 and demonstrating that he is not only a great, but an enduring golfer. He was again paired with Robert Hunter, the author and sociologist, who plays golf at Garden City and lectures at the University of California. A keen gallery of spectators accompanied them throughout the journey. Hunter found sufficient lead in his putter today and the result was a 76, which showed the brand of golf he can play.

Sam Conlan, the star of San Francisco's municipal links, tied with Frank O'Keefe, the inextinguishable San Josean, and Scotty Armstrong, for second place. Armstrong had only just stepped off the train from Los Angeles onto the first tee at 8 o'clock and in his afternoon round played fine golf. Conlan had every chance to get the best score of the day, but ruined it with an 8 on the last green. Loquacious ladies, while he was addressing a critical putt, apparently rattled the auburn-haired youth.

THE TWO BEST.

The two best rounds registered today were those of Armstrong and Dr. Spinks, who each brought home a 73, while Frank Kales redeemed himself with a 74 and finished in sixth place, tied with Dr. Walter. Jack Neville was fifth.

The sensational incident of the day was the octuple tie for place in the championship flight and Paul Lion, Gus Schwarz, O. E. Foley, Milton Curry, Vernon Hardy, W. W. Campbell, A. H. Vincent and Warren Salisbury started off from the first tee with a crowd of witnesses and Percy Selby in authoritative command. There were seven places left for the elite of golfdom and one of the eight must descend to the Del Monte cup competition. After the first hole, at which "Bunker" Vincent and Vernon Hardy were guilty of silly sixes, these two fought it out over the second hole and Vincent, after two fine shots from tee and fairway, captured the honor, leaving the Claremonter to make his presence felt in the second class.

MET LAST YEAR.

Another unusual feature of the tournament was the stiff struggle between Mrs. L. A. Cheney of Los Angeles Country Club and Mrs. Pierre Moore of Burlingame, who found themselves tied for the special handicap prize in the Del Monte women's competition. These two had met last year and had not entirely settled their difficulties on the links. But Nemesis had linked them again. A judge refereed the first nine holes of the journey and a parson was called in to officiate during the latter end. There was considerable rivalry between north and south in the encounter and Mrs. Cheney succeeded in winning with four strokes to spare.

With the stress of the struggle of the contest against Mr. Pencil over, the men begin the more enjoyable feature of the meeting tomorrow with match play, not only in the championship and Del Monte flights, but in a number of other divisions in which all sorts of golfers meet their peers.

Tomorrow, also, the women play their qualifying round for the women's championship of the State and the links will be more lively than ever with some 250 golfers of both sexes struggling for tee room.

Today's scores follow:

BENNY LEONARD BESTS SOLDIER.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 4.—Benny Leonard, world's lightweight champion, won a newspaper decision over Soldier Bartfield in a six-round bout at the Philadelphia National League baseball park tonight.

JUNIOR DOUBLES ARE PLAYED OFF NEATLY.

SOME EXCELLENT TENNIS IS SCHEDULED FOR BILD THIS AFTERNOON.

The first round of junior doubles was played off yesterday at the Y.M.C.A. courts, where the younger set are playing in connection with the open city tennis tournament. Some very pretty tennis was evinced, and the second round found Ferrandini and Hinckley victors over Primm and Mannocir, 6-2, 7-5.

Saturday semi-final events of the the semi-finals in the men's singles. It is believed Cliff Herd will be the man who will capture the tournament, and then play "Pep" Jones, the 1918 title holder, for the championship.

Results of play:

Junior doubles, first round—Primm and Mannocir won from McCall and Peacock by default; Bryant and Wolf defeated Stillwell and Hodgson, 6-2, 4-6, 6-0; Ferrandini and Hinckley beat Irma Rubilla and Tryner by default; Mertz and Tussing defeated Peacock and Ragland, 6-0, 6-0.

Second round—Ferrandini and Hinckley defeated Primm and Mannocir, 6-2, 7-5.

Drawings for girls' singles—1, Miss Catherine Cattell; 2, Miss Evelyn Griffin; 3, Miss Hilda Stein; 4, Miss Virginia Patton; 5, Miss Margaret Upton; 6, Miss Seam (Santa Monica;) 7, Miss Marion Carnahan; 8, Miss Phoebe Sachs.

Drawings for boys' singles, Robert Shumate and Kirk Ragland; 2, Conrad Bryant and Fred Rubin; 3, Lionel Ogden and Johnnie Doag; 4, Robert Ross and Donald Sanborn.

Schedule of play for Friday, September 5:

3:30—Mertz and Tussing vs. Bryant and Wolf; Hendrick and Eisenbeigh vs. Crisp and Bedell.

Miss Catherine Cattell vs. Miss Evelyn Griffin; Miss Margaret Upton vs. Miss Seam of Santa Monica; Miss Hilda Stein vs. Miss Virginia Patton.

4:30—Bundy vs. Ketchum; Mack vs. Warren; Miss Marion Carnahan vs. Miss Phoebe Sachs; Lionel Ogden and Johnnie Doag vs. Robert Ross and Donald Sanborn.

5:30—Robert Shumate and Kirk Ragland vs. Conrad Bryant and Fred Rubin; winner Miss Cattell vs. winner Miss Griffin; winner Miss Stein vs. Miss Patton; Mrs. Leonard vs. Miss Bird, winner Miss Upton vs. Miss Seam vs. winner Miss Carnahan vs. Miss Sachs.

FEW ITEMS ON DOVES, DUCKS, DEER AND FISH.

Paul Schenck and his wife went out and got a limit of doves apiece, and did it with a 20 gauge shot-gun.

Nutt Drown and party shot a six point buck in the Santa Monica Mountains recently.

A limit of doves was obtained near Murrietta by a party consisting of Clyde C. Johnston, Judge Chesebro, Frank Richard, Sam Pardue, and Dr. Franklin.

E. W. Anderson and Jack Gettes returned from Big Bear with a sixteen inch fish. They say that there is lots of water and plenty of fish in the Big Bear Lake.

Lloyd Hamilton, movie comedian, reports exceptionally good duck hunting in the Calabasas region. The comedian drove out Wednesday morning and obtained a limit in just forty minutes, without stirring more than twenty feet from his car. Soft and easy!

POLYTECHNIC HIGH IS ON THE WAY STRONG.

Voyle Brennan of Polytechnic football fortunes, or more familiarly known by the fellows as "Coach Vic," started out by gaining the enthusiastic support of all the boys in school, last Wednesday when he addressed them on getting out for football.

After a good common-sense talk a large number of the youths ran out to the gymnasium and jumped into football suits. So many were out that all were not supplied with suits. That will be remedied soon.

Mr. Brennan is a graduate of Pomona College, where for three years he played quarter-back, being on the championship team. Before coming to Poly, Voyle Brennan was at Santa Monica High as athletic mentor.

REDLANDS UNIVERSITY TO BEGIN PRACTICE.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, Sept. 4.—Football practice at the University of Redlands will start without one of the star back-field men on hand. Bill Yeunt, who, in his first year of football last season, developed into a real plunger and back-field man, has departed for the East to try his hand at grabbing off a few of the track plums there. He is aided by Colon Kliby, the star quarter-mile runner of the varsity. Bill expects to waltz through ten events in a meet at Philadelphia and has plans of taking the all-around championship of the country at that time. His friends who saw him before he left believe that he is husky enough to get away with it. Bill expects to get back into football togs the second week of practice.

TURF EVENTS DRAW BIG NOMINATIONS.

The great turf events of Australia have drawn big nominations for 1920. There are 279 entries for the Melbourne Cup race which will have $35,000 added money and will be run November 4 and a total of 264 have entered for the $25,000 Caulfield Cup to be decided October 18. Both turf classics are annually run at Melbourne, Victoria, the Melbourne Cup at the Flemington course and the Caulfield Cup at the Caulfield course.

A Very Nifty Bird in the Shortstop Line.

Roy Corhan has been the brains of the Seals' infield for a number of years. He is still a wonderful player and that peg of his is sure death to anything moving toward first base. He is playing here this week.

LOS ANGELES WORLD'S SERIES.

Hurrah—Los Angeles is to have a real world's series and it should be some series. It is a moot question among baseball fans through the Far West and Middle West as to which organization is the stronger, the American Association or the Pacific Coast League. All doubts in this line will be swept away in the early part of next month. It has been definitely settled between the officials of both organizations that the pennant winners of each league will meet in Los Angeles on October 9 to decide the supremacy.

Whether the series will be four out of seven or a five-out-of-nine schedule has not yet been decided upon, but the chances favor the longer series. It looks very much at present as if the St. Paul team will carry off the gonfalon in the American Association. The season, however, runs until September 28 and a different winner may bob up in that time. It has been agreed between the two leagues to deduct 10 per cent. from the gross receipts to pay for all the traveling expenses of the visitors.

These games should test the seating capacity of Washington Park and the result of the contests should about give fans a fair idea as to the true merits of the rival leagues.

DISPLAY CRICKET LIFE AT PASADENA.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA MONICA, Sept. 4.—An exhibition game to show the people of Pasadena some live and expert cricket playing will be staged on the baseball grounds of Tournament Park between the Santa Monica Club and the Alexandra Cricket team Sunday, September 7.

Among Santa Monica's cricket wonders who will startle the patrons of Tournament Park are Pat Higgins, Sydney Dean whose famous "googlies" carried him into the class of record makers last Monday, when he took ten wickets in one inning, an American record, H. P. Bingham, and J. B. Patterson one of Santa Monica's best fielders and most promising batsmen.

BAN JOHNSON WINS IN NEW YORK HEARING

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—Efforts to ascertain whether Ban Johnson, president of the American League, knew that Pitcher Carl Mays had been traded by the Boston club to New York when he ordered his suspension as "disciplinary action" failed at today's hearing before trial of the New York club's suit against Johnson for damages alleged to have been suffered because of the Mays order.

Control of the American League is said to depend upon the result of Johnson's trial and the hearing today was regarded as the opening gun in the battle for supremacy between club owners and Johnson.

REPORT CONVICT LAKE BEST FOR MANY YEARS.

Fred Raymer has just returned from his camp at Convict Lake, where he has been spending the summer. He reports that more people have gone to Convict Lake this summer than ever before in the history of the country. The fish are abundant and the deer plentiful.

He is now on his way to his duck club in the Imperial Valley near Calipatria, the Alamo Gun Club. It is an open club and many men make it their headquarters while in the Imperial Valley.

ALL-AROUND CHAMP GETS CHANCE NOW.

The Amateur Athletic Union all-round athletic championship will be run off at the new Pershing Field, Jersey City, September 20. It is usually a portion of the annual championship meet. The events which make up the annual test are: hurdles; 880 yards walk; running broad jump; running high jump; pole vault; putting 16-pound shot; throwing 16-pound hammer; putting 56-pound weight and one mile run.

MARTIN LINED UP WITH FEY KEISER.

Bob Martin of Terra Alta, W. Va., the heavyweight boxing champion of the American Expeditionary Forces, and Fey Keiser of Cumberland, Md., have agreed to box on Thanksgiving Day, either at Newark, N. J. for eight rounds or Akron in a ten-round contest.

SACRAMENTO TAKES GAME FROM PORTLAND

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 4.—Sacramento took the second game of the series from Portland, 3 to 4. The contest was marked by brilliant fielding by both teams. Pieroy was on the mound for the locals and allowed but seven hits. The score:

JOHNSTON BEATS TILDEN.

California Tennis Expert Wins from Easterner in Straight Sets.

BY FRED HAWTHORNE.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

FOREST HILLS (N. Y.) Sept. 4.—William M. Johnston of California won the national singles lawn tennis championship by crushing William T. Tilden II of Philadelphia by a score of 6-4, 6-4, 6-2 this afternoon on the championship turf court of the West Side Tennis Club of Forest Hills. This makes the second time that the highest honors of the courts of the country have fallen to the wonderful little Californian, for he was champion in 1915, but he never played a more perfect game than he did today.

It might be said for Tilden that he never approached the heights of brilliancy that marked his work in the semi-final round when he defeated Richard Norris Williams II, but that would not be entirely fair to Johnston, for it was the little Californian's fierce aggressiveness from the time the first point was played until the last that served to rob Tilden's game of its strength.

GREAT TRIUMPH.

Johnston's defeat of Tilden today was his crowning achievement. The Californian's victory must be set down as a great triumph for sound tennis, for Johnston has always been noted as having the soundest game, the most evenly developed, of any player in the world. You could not lay your finger today on any single weakness in the Californian's playing.

To begin with, Johnston played Tilden just right; that is, he forced the battle from the beginning, rushing the net with wonderful speed as he raced in squarely behind his splendid forcing drives, and once entrenched at the net, the Californian's volleying was superb. It was almost impossible for the tall Philadelphian to avoid the deadly sweep of Johnston's racquet, and there was a snap and crispness to the new champion's volleying that amazed the great gallery of 9000 persons.

BALL ON TIP.

The first point was an augury of how the match was going for the Californian shot over a service ace. Tilden just catching the ball on the tip of his racket as it sped by, but Johnston lost the next two points by driving into the net twice on his return of Tilden's low drives.

The Californian made it 30-all on points with a dazzling placement ace as he volleyed Tilden's return of service with a beautiful overhand shot across the court. Tilden won the next point with a stinging drive down the side line, but it was "deuce" when the Philadelphian met Johnston's drive on the full volley and sent the ball out. Johnston winning the game with two cross court placements.

ONLY ONE POINT.

Johnston broke through his opponent's service in the second game with Tilden getting only one point. The latter made a double fault on his first service and then Johnston sent his return of service into the net on the next point. A net by Tilden and a sharp overhand volley across court by Johnston made the points 40-15, and then Tilden dropped the game when Johnston sent up a crafty little lob almost to the base line, just as Tilden, having raced to the net, was prepared to meet a drive or a volley.

It was a significant point even this early in the struggle, for it showed that Johnston was alive to every opportunity and that Tilden could not settle into his game. The third game went to the Californian on service, Tilden experiencing trouble in handling his opponent's severe delivery. The games stood at 3-0 and the East was completely eclipsed by the West.

AFTER "DEUCE."

Tilden won the fourth game after "deuce" had been called twice, but largely on Johnston's errors. The Californian could not handle his opponent's "cannonball" service in this game. Tilden showed a flash of brilliance in this game, once making a great "get" of a placed shot and following it with a wonderful back-hand drive across Johnston's left. The latter, plunging for it, sent his volley into the net.

But Johnston took the fifth game at "love," scoring a service ace for one point, two more when Tilden sent one return into the net and another out of court, both from his back hand, and a fourth with a tremendous smash of Tilden's deep lob. The Californian was forced to take this ball as he was running backward toward his base line, but he handled it perfectly.

Tilden took the sixth game and then Johnston came back with a rush, winning the seventh with two

Salt Lake Wakes up from Seattle Bush Ball.

Trounce Angels with Ease and Win in Sixth.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SALT LAKE, Sept. 4.—The Bees drew first blood in the crucial series with Los Angeles, winning the opening contest of the six-game series, 5 to 3. It was a snappy game of baseball in which every player on each side made everything count and the fans received numerous examples of what can be expected for the remainder of the week—the tightest kind of playing with rival managers actually crabbing for every little advantage.

Ralph Stroud outpitched Bill Pertica about as the score indicates. Stroud cracked but once, while Pertica hopped onto thin ice twice. The visiting heaver, in fact, was just a little bit lucky that the score against him was not larger.

The Bees scored twice in the fourth with one down. Pertica walked Sheely, and Rumler almost knocked Ray Bates loose from his moorings when he crossed him and roused one toward third after making a bluff to sacrifice. Sheely went to third. Johnson singled down the third-base line, scoring Sheely, Rumler taking third. Johnson and Rumler then pulled a double steal, the latter scoring.

Los Angeles acted as if intent upon driving Stroud to the showers in the sixth. Pertica started by rolling a grounder between Sheely and Krug and Killefer tore one down the the third base line for a pair of sacks. Fabrique was an out, but Fournier laid another two-sacker against the left-field wall, scoring the two ahead and Sam Crawford followed suit with still another double, sending Fournier over. Stroud pulled himself together at this stage and fanned Bates and Crandall. Stroud held himself together in every inning except the sixth and was supported almost faultlessly.

The Bees turned around in their half and put the game away. Krug singled and Sheely followed suit. Sheely was nabbed at second and Krug scored on Sheely's out at second when Rumler got to first on a fielder's choice. Johnson doubled to right, scoring Rumler and then took third on the throw to the plate from where he, too, romped in when Spencer beat out an infield grounder to short.

The clubs will play one game Friday, two Saturday and two Sunday. The latter four will come in the shape of double-headers. The score:

KEEL CLUB TEAM IS AFTER MORE DATES.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONG BEACH, Sept. 4.—Although contests have been scheduled with the University of Southern California and Redlands University by the Keel Club football team of this city, W. J. Wilson, manager of the local eleven, is still after more games and is anxious to communicate with the managers of Southland elevens having open dates this fall.

The Keel Club is an organization composed of Long Beach shipyard workers, and among the men are many former college and high school bright lights of the gridiron. Tom Merrell, former University of Pennsylvania star, is quarterback and coach of the team. The squad will start practice Wednesday of next week. Manager Wilson can be reached at the Long Beach shipyards.

REWARD EMPLOYEES.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

FULLERTON, Sept. 4.—In recognition of their services in bringing in the new Standard Oil well, known as 2-3, on the Kraemer lease, Samuel Kraemer presented each man of the crew of fifteen with a $50 check. The well started gushing at 2000 barrels, but has gradually increased until now it is flowing 3000, with indications that it is getting stronger.

PIRATES FIGHT HARD.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 4.—Pittsburgh won from Chicago today, 4 to 3, in ten innings, in a hard-fought contest. In the last half of the tenth with one out, Whitted tripled over Robertson's head and scored the winning run on the squeeze play as Barbare bunted toward third base. Score:

FROMME SLAPS LOWLY SEALS.

ter, sending Edington to second and the little, pudgy outfielder cantered home on Bobby Fisher's screaming single to left.

Now for a little breathing spell and a commendable word for Bobby Fisher. Is Bobby the best pinch-hitter in the league? Now all together boys, "Yes, yes, yes, yes." Well, that's something like it. Then Brooks spat on his pie clutchers and tilted one forninst the right-field foul line and the pole went for a triple. High and Fisher tallying. At this juncture Tom was jarred out of his trance by Charley Graham and sent to an intelligence office to ascertain the whereabouts of his control. A callow-faced youth with a very much subdued, rebuked air named Couch, then braved the terrors of Tom's hoodoo.

MITCH BIFFED IT.

Fromme struck at three vicious balls in McKee's mitts and then sloshed his way to the dugout. Johnny Mitchell, who is as uncertain in his hits as is the weather on an April day, beat out an infield hit, sending Brooksy over the platter. Chadbourne heel and toed to first. Hey—look a here boys—are you paying attention to me? Meusel busted the old persimmon to left, where Hunter wasn't and Mitch flitted home. Babe Borton feeling that it was about time for him to get into tingling action, smashed a beauty bright to center sending Chad home. Edington then called a halt, bleating "Say, boys, this is enough of this" and suiting the action to the word sent a high foul present to Herbie Hunter. Six runs and the lord knows how many duck fits for Seaton and Charley Graham.

Art Fromme was on the crag for Bill Essick. With a six-run lead staring him in the face after the second inning he had things all his own way. Art, however, took no chance and heaved at his best. He cut the corners a great deal and his slow curve worked to perfection. It was laughable to see a young fellow named Kamm, who vegetates at third base for the Seals, trying to fathom Art's offerings. We feel justified in saying that if Kamm were constantly at the plate and Fromme heaving from now until doomsday the youngster would hit in nothing but the single O and double O column.

The visitors made their first run in the fifth inning. Caveney started her off with a single to center. Shick then doubled to right putting Caveney on third. Kamm hit a Punch and Judy home run to Meusel who easily threw him out to Borton. McKee was out, Borton, unassisted, Caveney scoring after the catch. Couch whiffed. Then came the second and last run of the Seals during a little flurry in the sixth. Fitz walked. Zamlock went out, Meusel to Borton. Hunter hit one to Borton, who threw to Fromme to get Herbie at first but Artie gumsquidled the ball, allowing Fitz to score. Koerner then tilted a high one to Chadbourne and Caveney ended the agony by popping to Borton. Well—that will be about all for today, so right this way to the cafe to meet the overflow, and here's how the score follows:

AL GETS A BIG FISH; CEPH SALISBURY B

According to Max Green, manager of the San Bernardino Captain Stagis, the Big Bear Lake fishing is picking up considerably. Al caught a big fellow two inches long and weighing one-half pounds. This speaks well for his apprenticeship to Izaak Walton, and he presented to Alphonse Isaac, the B. H. Dyas bureau of information.

Now Al is looking fat and healthy and fed for once in his life. Also Ceph Salisbury of the same place, who is a kick of Al Reed's and all, is back from a vacation cruising around the channel islands, where he got a husky coat of sunburn, or tan.

Joe Capelli vs. Johnny McManus.

Matchmaker Willie Hunefeld, has gotten together a classy card of six events for the big fistic doings at the Long Beach Silver Spray arena tonight. The feature event will find Tommy O'Brien facing Leo Houck. This should be a corking good set-to as both boys have dandy rights. O'Brien has a more dangerous wallop than has Houck, but Leo should offset this by his cleverness and quickness.

In the semi-windup Al Grunan goes against Eddie James. The latter has appeared here several times before and in his last exhibition gave a goodly account of himself. He is fast, and shifty, and should make a battle at all times. Grunan has promised not to resort to holding tactics and this should insure a lively scrap.

WELL BALANCED.

The other four bouts are evenly matched, and as Hunefeld is a clever boxer as at his business, boxing fans who wander to the beach tonight should be regaled to the top of their bent. Frank Holborrow the clever referee will be on the job. The Long Beach Boxing Club has now been staging bouts for the last month, and its efforts have met with unqualified success. At least 2000 people witnessed last Friday night's set-to, and a house just as big if not bigger is expected tonight. The first bout will start at 8:30 o'clock sharp.

FIRE DESTROYS HOME.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Sept. 4.—Because Mrs. C. J. Babcock believed in economy, she and her husband are homeless today. Mrs. Babcock was doing her family washing yesterday and thought to use gasoline as a cleaning agent in boiling the clothes. Accordingly, she poured a considerable quantity of the liquid in the boiler and set the utensil on the kitchen stove. While she was getting the clothes the boiler exploded, setting fire to the kitchen. The house and its contents were destroyed. Mrs. Babcock was quite severely burned.

ASKS FOR GIRL'S HAND DURING COURT SESSION

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

AVALON (Santa Catalina Island) Sept. 4.—Deliberations of the City Court were stopped Wednesday morning long enough for an ardent suitor to make a formal request of an irate parent for the hand of his daughter in marriage.

The suitor, a young Mexican with red hair, known to his friends as Jose Avarcia, had attempted to elope with Duluce Espinosa, and had been prevented by her father Martin Espinosa. As a sequel to their trouble the younger man caused the arrest of his sweetheart's father on a charge of disturbing the peace. It was while the father was on the witness stand testifying in his own behalf that the young man approached him with the formal request. "No," replied the old man, "I'll go to jail first. My daughter is only 16 years old, and you can't have her."

The charge against the father was dismissed but the younger man refused to give up possession of some of the girl's clothing which had been taken from her home preparatory to the elopement.

During the hearing of the case the young woman declared she was 22 years of age, loved her Jose and was determined to marry him. Her mother indicated her approval of the match.

Attempts later in the day to board an outgoing boat for the mainland were stopped by the watchful father, but the records in the County Clerk's office in Los Angeles, which show that a marriage license was granted the couple late Wednesday afternoon proves that real "love laughs at locksmiths."

State Instructs Gas Company to Meet Requirements of the Law.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

TULARE, Sept. 4.—According to information gained by independent investigations, the product of the Central Counties Gas Company, which serves several Tulare county towns, including Tulare, is 20 per cent. below the standard required by the State Railroad Commission. The State's requirement is for gas of 570 British thermal unit heating capacity, and recent samples taken of the gas here show a heating value of from 436 to 460 B.T.U.

As a result of the investigations, the corporation has been instructed to install proper apparatus in the central plant at Visalia, to make tests as frequent as necessary to bring the gas up to the State requirements.

FEATURE EVENT TO MARIONDALE

Captures the Charter Oak Stake of $10,000.

Mignola, Cox's Noted Stallion, Develops Lameness.

Dudette Defeat of Natalie Great Surprise.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

HARTFORD (Conn.) Sept. 4.—Mariondale, Tommy Murphy's trotter, captured the Charter Oak stake of $10,000 in the feature event of a five race card at Charter Oak Park today. Mignola, Cox's noted stallion, came lame from his stable this afternoon and the hitherto unbeaten trotter was unable to cope with the speed of Mariondale.

Mignola broke badly in the first heat and finished seventh. In the second heat Cox was sent away in the pole position and was never headed, Mignola registering the best time of the race, 2:07. The rush of Mariondale was too great in the third heat, Mignola finishing fifth.

One other upset occurred in the day's programme when Natalie the Great was defeated by Dudette in the two-year-old trot. Direct C. Burnett won the 2:06 pace, purse $3000. The best time was 2:08 3-4. The 2:08 trot, value $3000, was captured by Hollywood Kate in straight heats, best time, 2:08 1-4. Prince Lorree took the 2:06 trot after four heats. UPSET MINNOW CAN IS BAD FOR CONDITIONS.

FISHERMEN USE ALIBI IN ACCOUNTING FOR NO FISH WHICH IS NOVEL.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

POMONA, Sept. 4.—How a big can of minnows taken to Big Bear Lake four years ago and spilled into the lake by accident by some fisherman has had a serious effect upon the fishing at that resort this summer is the story which is being told by several Pomona fishermen who have not met with much success this season, at the angling game.

When experienced fishermen have had more bad luck than good luck this year at the lake it is time that some such stories as this should be circulated to account for the empty fish baskets. During the past four years the children of the original minnows which were tipped into the lake have become so numerous that the trout are having no trouble this year in having a feast at any desired time.

For this reason they are not hungry enough to bite on any minnow that happens along, and particularly if that minnow happens to have a line attached to it. For it has become necessary for Bear Valley fishermen to use minnows, commonly know as "chubs," exclusively as the trout have voted to eat nothing else this summer. The "chubs" have to be caught in traps, kept alive in cans by careful treatment, and then suspended on a hook in the water in the hope that some unsuspecting trout will open his mouth and swallow the "chub" at the proper time.

TOUGH ON TROUT.

If the dry season continues much longer, the trout in Bear Lake will soon be climbing out onto the banks for the lake is growing smaller daily and the number of trout is not diminishing very rapidly, according to the stories which the anglers tell. Two years ago 500,000 trout were planted in the lake. Last year the number of new inhabitants was in excess of 700,000 and this year a million young fish were turned loose in the lake to make a living for themselves. The water from Bear Lake is being turned down into Santa Ana Canyon to be used later for irrigation purposes at the rate of about 2000 inches a day. The decrease in the size of the lake is noticeable.

Persons who have motorboats on the lake are having increased difficulty in getting their boats to the landings which were entirely sufficient a few weeks ago. Springs about the lake are drying up and only a heavy rainfall during the coming winter will bring the lake back to its former size and make the springs flow.

HELD FOR TRIAL.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VISALIA, Sept. 4.—Two Orosi youths, Fred Harrell and Ben Clark, were arrested in Orosi, near here, on charges of stealing two barrels of wine from a Japanese vineyardist of that section. Harrell was brought to the County Jail to await trial, while Clark was released on bail of $2500 pending his hearing.

JOHNSTON PUTS IT ON TILDEN.

terrific smashes. Tilden did not get a point here, Johnston constantly storming the net and smothering everything that came over with superb overhand volleying. A bitterly-fought game followed in the eighth session on Tilden's service when the Philadelphian finally won, making the most of his service and taking the final point with a reverberating smash of Johnston's weak lob.

This made the games read 5-3 in Johnston's favor, and when the Philadelphian took the ninth game after a session of furious driving and volleying it seemed that Tilden was on the verge of turning the scales. His work in this game was dazzling as he scored five sizzling placement drives squarely down the side lines. The final point brought the great crowd to its feet in the stands, with everybody cheering as the men engaged in a desperate volley, starting from back court and ending with both close to the net.

JUST OVER LINE.

Johnston, making a daring attempt to intercept Tilden's lightning drive with a back hand volley, sent his return just over the side line and now the games were 5-4, and Tilden appeared on the verage of starting a winning rally, especially as this marked the first time in the match that he had broken through Johnston's service.

But the little man from California was ruffled not a bit by his opponent's show of fight, even when Tilden held the lead at 40-30 on points in the next game and with the advantage of the service. It was "deuce" when Tilden sent his back-hand drive into the net, then the latter gained the vantage point with a wonderful back-hand volley across the court as he took Johnston's terrific drive from close to the net.

THREE IN ROW.

But Johnston won the next three points in a row, twice smashing with impressive power as he raced into the net to catch the ball squarely on his racquet.

Thus Tilden lost his chance of squaring the match in the first set and Johnston had won the opener at 6-4, giving him a lead that he was to hold to the end. This really marked the crushing of Tilden's hopes for he never again was within striking distance of victory.

VALLEY TAX RATE.

Increased Valuation Lowers Amount Per $100.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

EL CENTRO, Sept. 4.—The general tax rate for Imperial county for the present fiscal year was fixed this week by the Board of Supervisors at $1.13 per $100 assessed valuation, recently doubled over last year, when the tax rate was $2.15. The new rate would be $2.33 on last year's valuation, and therefore is an increase of 11½ cents per $100.

The grand total property values of the county as shown by the roll of property taxable for county purposes is $69,676,927, as contrasted with $30,190,585 last year, an approximate increase of 130 per cent. The grand total of all property, including railroad operative property, subject only to State taxation, and personal property, such as bonds and the like held by the banks and exempt from taxation, is approximately $79,000,000.

The increase in the rate was necessary to meet the interest of the $1,500,000 highway bonds, voted July 1. The interest amounts to $75,000 a year and it was found that a 12-cent tax-rate would be necessary to cover it. Hence, the tax rate covering the county budget is in reality ½ cent less than last year.

Bids for the highway bonds will be opened at the next meeting of the board, which will be held Monday.

SENATE ADVOCATES LIGHT WINES, CIDER.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—The House bill for enforcement of national prohibition was on the Senate programme as unfinished business. One change proposed by the Senate committee, would be the elimination of the provision, making it illegal for a person to make light wines and cider in their own homes.

Others are of a minor nature, and it is believed would be accepted by the House.

STRIVE HARD FOR POSITIONS.

Blue and Gold Tennis Team to be a Corker.

Prospects Bright for Another Trip in East.

Ed Levy is Most Likely Man for First Pace.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BERKELEY, Sept. 4.—With the prospect of another eastern tour of the University of California tennis team this year, the Blue and Gold racket wielders are beginning to make a strong bid for varsity positions already.

Despite the loss of Axel Gravem, the lad who captained the court players last year and who has created such a sensation in the eastern tournaments during the last few months, the varsity squad is expected to make a very formidable showing this season.

This season the Bear "courtiers," under the captaincy of Henry Stevens, are out to shatter the enviable record hung up by the team last year. They are preparing for the Pacific Coast conference tournament which will be held in the near future, and are also making plans for an eastern tour if their local season is successful.

Undoubtedly there will be one continual fight for positions on the varsity, and especially for first position. There are a number of high-class players fighting for the vacancy created by the departure of Axel Gravem, but the gap will most likely be filled by either Ed Levy or Jimmie Rothschild. Present indications point to the lanky Ed Levy for first place, by virtue of his sensational playing in the Southern California tournament this summer. Levy, along with Howard Kinsey, holds the Southern California doubles championship and also the mixed doubles title. Rothschild will probably pair with Levy in the doubles.

Other high-class racket wielders who will fight it out for positions on the varsity are Capt. Henry Stevens and Tevis Martin of last year's varsity; Ray Casey, Ray Greenburg and Carrol Jensen.

Wallace Bates, former Lowell High School champion of San Francisco, is the pride of the freshman class. Bates was classed as one of the best high school players in the West last year, and is able to make the best of the varsity players sit up and take notice. He is practically certain of first place on the freshman team, and will also play in the doubles.

SWEAR FEALTY.

Dave Bricker, who won fame for himself and Los Angeles High in 1917 when he and his partner, Eddie Simmons, copped the Southern California interscholastic doubles, has sworn allegiance to the Blue and Gold and will be out soon, fighting for a place on the freshman team. Bricker has been playing considerable tennis lately and expects to make a much better showing on the court than when in high school.

Before anchoring himself on the frosh squad, Bricker will have to fight it out with Mortimer Coombs, former Lowell High player, who has just completed a three-year enlistment in the navy; George McLaren, former Oakland High champion; White of Colorado, and Schweitzer and Mitchell of Lowell High of San Francisco.

MINERS AT WORK.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PORTERVILLE, Sept. 4.—Following the announcement that work is to be resumed on the Blue Mountain mines by a Grass Valley corporation, placer in paying quantities has been panned from the upper waters of Deer Creek, near Hot Springs, according to Steve Andrews, a trapper and miner of that section.

As a result of Andrews's find and resumption of work in the Blue Mountain district, a large number of prospectors have been attracted to the White River-Hot Springs districts.

STATE "LAST AID" MEN PROMOTE OFFICERS.

UNDERTAKERS' 19TH MEET HERE ENDED WITH A THEATER PARTY.

The fifteen annual convention of the California State Funeral Directors came to a close last night when the delegates attended a theater party in a body. The business session was held in the morning and officers for the ensuing year were chosen.

The usual custom of promoting the officers of the association was as follows, those being elected: F. W. Welti, of Santa Rosa, president; Frank Bevan, Marysville, first vice-president; C. S. McDermott, Santa Barbara, second vice-president; Henry F. Maas, San Francisco, secretary; S. A. White, San Francisco, treasurer, and L. F. Utter, Los Angeles, sergeant-at-arms.

Many important questions were decided at the convention, according to C. C. Pierce, but the association arrived at no definite decision regarding the unionization of funerals. These matters will have to be decided by the individual members, it was reported.

Prof. W. F. Hohenschuh completed his series of three lectures on embalming at the afternoon session. The next convention city will be decided on later, it was announced last night.

BIND, GAG AND ROB THEIR BENEFACTOR.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

FULLERTON, Sept. 4.—Three men, to whom he had given a ride last night, bound, gagged and robbed Rudolph Wetzel of this place and left him lying in an orchard at La Habra, while they sped away in Wetzel's car.

Wetzel took the men, two of whom were in sailor uniforms, into his machine at La Habra and a short distance south of that place they commanded him to stop the car and robbed him of $10 in cash, a check for $65 and a watch. It is believed the men headed the stolen car back towards Los Angeles after the robbery.

AGED RESIDENT DIES.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VENTURA, Sept. 4.—Mrs. Eliza C. Shaw, a resident of Ventura since 1869, has passed away at her home here at the age of 93. She was the last surviving charter member of the Congregational Church of this city. For a long time she and the late Jacob Nidaffer were the only two living members, and he preceded her in death by just five days.

Mrs. Shaw was a native of Vermont, where she was born in 1826. With her late husband, she came to California in 1847. She is survived by two sons, Selwyn and Floyd Shaw, both residents of Ventura, and by several grandchildren and great grandchildren.

ASK MORE PAY.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA MONICA, Sept. 4.—The Executive Committee of the Santa Monica Police Commission has presented a letter to the City Commission requesting that attention be given the matter of increased compensation for the police department. The letter points out that the rate of pay in the police department is lower than average.

A resume of a policeman's equipment and its cost for the past and present is included in the letter showing that in the past the expense was $62.75 and is now $123.30.

TO HONOR LAFAYETTE AND MARNE VICTORY.

SOCIETY TO OBSERVE FRENCH HERO'S NATAL DAY WITH EXERCISES TOMORROW.

Lafayette Day will be celebrated tomorrow at Lafayette Park, Wilshire boulevard and Commonwealth avenue, with a programme of addresses, band music and songs. The celebration is to be under the auspices of the Lafayette Society of California, in commemoration of the birth of the Marquis de Lafayette and the Allied victory at the Battle of the Marne.

Addresses will be delivered by Mayor Snyder, William A. Spalding, president of the society, and Col. George Jules Denis. Miss Klentis Sepulveda, one of California's promising young singers, will sing "La Marseillaise," and the Royal Marine Band, directed by Frank Gregory, will play "The Star Spangled Banner" and other French and American patriotic selections.

One feature of the day will be the raising of the flag by a detachment of the Grand Army of the Republic, under the command of Capt. James S. France. Rev. Hugh Kelso Walker will deliver the invocation.

The committee in charge of the celebration includes Gen. Charles S. Whipple, chairman; Orra E. Monnette, William M. Dixon, Charles R. Fletcher, Frank P. Pallemeter, Charles H. Prisk, Louis Sentous, Jr., John Treanor, Mrs. Sloan-Orcutt and Mrs. Dean Mason.

DESERTS BURNING CAR.

Driver of Orange Truck Leaves Vehicle in Flames.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

POMONA, Sept. 4.—A wave of excitement swept through the downtown district here today when it was reported that a large truck had overturned on the Valley boulevard, just west of this city and that the driver was pinned beneath the wreckage and was being slowly roasted to death.

The fire department followed by many machines rushed to the scene. Grappling hooks from the fire wagons were attached to the blazing truck and the machine was lifted from the ditch and placed in an upright position. Efforts to locate the driver have been to no avail. He has completely dropped from sight and the fire destroyed marks of identification on the machine.

People passing at the time the fire started stated that they thought they saw a Japanese driver leave the car as it plunged into the ditch. Whether he lost control or fell asleep is not known. No sooner had the car hit the ditch than it burst into flames. The truck was being used in hauling oranges and the police will continue their search to locate the owner.

PREPARES EVIDENCE IN BANKER'S TRIAL.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 4.—W. F. Palmer, assistant United States District Attorney, arrived here from Los Angeles today to prepare evidence in the case of Charles L. Williams, formerly vice-president of the First National Bank, charged with embezzling more than $100,000 of the funds of the old American National Bank. The case will be heard in the Federal court, Monday, September 15. It will probably continue six or eight weeks. Williams is indicted for forty separate offenses against the Federal laws.

SOCIETY.

BY VIRGINIA WOODS.

For Distinguished Visitor.

Mrs. John Kendrick Bangs is the inspiration for a luncheon at which Mrs. William Rhodes Hervey is entertaining a company of twelve at the California Club today. Mr. and Mrs. Bangs, who are just back from France, are speaking all over the country on "America Abroad." They were members of the American Committee for Devastated France.

While here Mr. and Mrs. Bangs are house guests of Judge and Mrs. Hervey. Last evening they were honored at a dinner given at the Hotel Maryland, Pasadena, by Mrs. James Seager. They will be here until Saturday or Sunday.

Weds Aviator.

Miss Marjory Doubleday of Los Angeles, niece of Frank Doubleday of Doubleday & Page, Publishers, was married to Lieut. Devereaux Maitland Myers of Fort Bliss, Tex. at noon Wednesday, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Doubleday of 301 South Vendome street. Dr. Glenn McWilliams performed the ceremony. The bride is a young sculptor of note. The couple left for El Paso so that he can report for duty, having been on a ten-days' furlough. He has been flying over Mexico.

The bride wore a white silk frock heavily braided and a trig little white hat. The house was adorned in pink asters and white carnations. A breakfast followed the ceremony. The groom comes from an old Petersburg (Va.) family while the bride is a member of one of the old Knickerbocker families of New York.

Told in Coronado.

Announcement at Coronado of the engagement of Miss Margaret Ward, daughter of the late Montgomery Ward, millionaire merchant of Chicago, to Commander Norman M. Smith in command of the San Diego Public Works office of the Twelfth Naval District, has set all society talking.

Miss Ward has been at Coronado about seven weeks and has been the center of a lively set. Commander Smith has constantly been seen with her. They have been friends for a number of years and this meeting at Coronado resulted in a romance and engagement. Commander Smith is an Annapolis graduate and a southerner. He came to California about two years ago from Washington, D. C., and has been in charge of the construction of the large marine base at Dutch Flats and other big government improvements in San Diego. He is very popular, especially in the navy set.

By Mr. and Mrs. Seaver.

At Del Monte, where they are attending the golf tournament, Mr. and Mrs. Everett H. Seaver gave a dinner party in the palm room, having among their guests Mrs. A. L. Cheney, Edward Tufts and Prescott Scott.

Others going up for the tournament this week include Mr. and Mrs. Guy Cochran, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ward Law, Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Judge, Mr. and Mrs. Louis F. Monteagle and John Parrott. The women will start the State championship at Del Monte today.

Token From Duchess of Vendome.

After a most interesting visit in the northern part of the State, including a house party given by Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Spreckels at their big stock farm near Napa, Mrs. S. Grant Goucher is back in town.

A beautiful gift from the Duchess of Vendome, sister of King Albert of Belgium, received while at the Spreckels home added much to a happy summer. It is a ring made of French gold and is a design of the head of Joan of Arc. It is set with sixteen small diamonds and is inscribed inside, "In gratitude for aid for Civil and Military France from Her Royal Highness, the Duchess of Vendome." It bears Mrs. Goucher's name and the date. Mrs. Goucher was president of the Los Angeles division for the Commission for Aid Civil and Military France during the war. Mrs. Spreckels was the Pacific Coast head and also received a ring from the Duchess. Mrs. Goucher was gone two months.

Engagement Announced.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin William Sargent announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Gladys May Sargent of Los Angeles, to Emile Benjamin Yoakum, also of this city. He is the son of J. B. Yoakum of Arizona and is a graduate of the University at Ann Arbor, Mich. He is a member of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon Fraternity. Miss Sargent is a graduate of Briar Cliff School for Girls in New York. No date is set for the wedding.

At Church of Angels.

The Church of the Angels was the scene of the marriage of Miss Mary Selene Bohannan of this city and Mr. Arthur Wellesley Olcott, Jr., of Tucson, Ariz. The bride wore a gown of silver cloth and her tulle veil was arranged nun's fashion and was caught at the sides with sprays of orange blossoms. She carried a sheaf of bride roses. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stuart M. Street. They will reside in Tucson.

For Mrs. Bernard.

Mrs. Katheryn Bernard of New York was the honor guest at at attractively-appointed musical tea at which Mrs. Guy Bush of 310 South Vendome street assembled sixteen guests. The rooms and tea table were adorned in purple asters and yellow marigolds.

In the party were Mrs. B. C. Davies, Mrs. Gail Dimmett, Miss Margaret Messer, Mrs. Harry Osborne, Mrs. Spenser Kelly, Mrs. Walter Wessels, Miss Adelaide Cannon, Mrs. Howard Boone, Mrs. A. R. Gates, Mrs. Carl Earl, Miss Hilda Nolte, Miss Marjorie Pickell and Mrs. F. E. Geiger.

Back from Motor Trip.

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Vient, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Granger and Mr. and Mrs. Maury Bliven are just back from a motor and camping party which took them to Huntington Lake and other beauty spots in Northern California.

Supper-Dance.

Miss Lois de Kay of 617 West Seventeenth street gave a supper-dance last evening in honor of boys just home from overseas.

Personals.

Mrs. John Prinsen of Ardmore avenue and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Nicholson motored to Arrowhead Hot Springs, where they are to remain a few days longer. Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Stevenson, who motored there over the week-end, are back in town.

Miss Gloria Mae Powers left last evening for Berkeley, where she will attend Mills College.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Newland and their sons Harvey and Alva, have just returned from a boat trip to Victoria and Vancouver, B. C., and expect to go to their cottage at Arph Beach for the rest of the summer. Harvey Newland will leave October 1 for Stanford University.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Storrow are leaving for a two weeks' motor trip to Lake Tahoe.

Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Judice of Lafayette, La., and their niece, Miss Lucile Nickerson, are guests at the Hotel Maryland, Pasadena, and are spending the summer at the various summer resorts, having just returned from the Hotel Belvedere, Santa Barbara.

Miss Lucile Nickerson,

Who, with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Judice of Lafayette, La., is a guest at the Hotel Maryland, Pasadena.

BRIEFS.

GRIFFITH FEATURE.

"BROKEN BLOSSOMS" IS TO SHOW HERE SOON.

By Edwin Schallert.

News from the Griffith studios is that arrangements are now being made to present "Broken Blossoms" in Los Angeles. It is stated that the Los Angeles premiere was postponed until the arrival of cool weather, and now that the fall season has opened, immediate plans are to be made for an elaborate showing under the personal direction of Mr. Griffith.

"Broken Blossoms" opened two weeks ago in San Francisco, and has surpassed even the box office records of "The Birth of a Nation" and "Intolerance," it is stated. Manager Homer Curran of the Curran Theater where it is playing, declares that his ticket sellers are dizzy on account of the size of the crowd, and that they are turning away practically as many people as they accomodate with seats.

Maurice Tourneur is now working on his production of "Treasure Island," from the Robert Louis Stevenson romance, one of the most widely-read books in the English literature. All the famous characters of the famous story are to be brought to life in exactly the same way they were pictured in the tale of the adventure, according to advance predictions concerning the Tourneur production. The noted French director recently completed the filming of "Victory," adapated from Joseph Conrad's novel, by Stephen Fox.

Musical interest is lent to the programme of Clune's Broadway by the appearance of Beatis Irene Chapin, well-known local violinist. She is playing the "Zigeunerweisen" by Sarasate and a Fritz Kreisler selection.

Carl J. Walker, manager of Pantages Theater, is to spend a vacation shortly at Big Bear Lake, in company with his wife and daughter.

Alexander Pantages is expected in Los Angeles in a few days, according to word received at the local office.

Sedley Brown, who was formerly prominently identified with stock productions in this city, has charge of the stage direction of "The Victims," by David B. Gally and Marie Lambert, which is to have its premiere next week at the Mason.

About thirty players appear in the cast of the play, Mr. Gally himself appearing in the leading male role.

Six dancers from Denishawn are to present a special number under the direction of Ted Shawn, who created a new terpsichorean act especially for the occasion.

Helen Jerome Eddy, who is playing in "A Very Good Young Man," this week at the Victory Theater, has been chosen casting director for the Hollywood Community Theater, which will open its repertoire of classic plays in the near future. Miss Eddy is now busily engaged in getting out her catalogue of "desirables" for coming productions.

Frank Lloyd, Goldwyn director, who has been filming scenes for Rex Beach's story, "The Silver Horde," in the vicinity of Seattle, made a high-speed trip to Los Angeles by automobile to get a glimpse of the Geraldine Farrar picture, "The World and Its Woman," now showing at Clune's Auditorium, which he directed. While in the northern country the film-makers were hampered in their "shooting" by many forest fires, which forbade the getting of any long shots.

Lewis Stone is to double on the Rialto next week. That is, he will appear in the stage production of "The Heart of Wetona" at the Majestic Theater, and will also be seen in his own cinema feature, "Man's Desire," at the Victory.

George Loane Tucker's "Miracle Man," which is showing at the Kinema, was recently presented before 1200 prisoners in the Sing Sing prison. The prisoners in a body, and many with tears in their eyes, thanked the chairman of the Exhibition Committee for the inspiration of the entertainment. Letters from the prison paper's editor to the committee expressed deep gratitude. Wherever it has shown, the "Miracle Man" has achieved a remarkable success. So large was the attendance in New York following the opening that the play was moved from the Cohan to the Rivoli Theater, thus providing an increased capacity of over 1000 seats.

Emily Stevens, who gained fame for her characterization in "The Unchastened Woman" several yearsago, has been signed by the Schomer Producing Corporation to play in "The Sacred Flame," by Mr. Schomer, who wrote also "Today," "The Yellow Passport," "The Inner Man" and "Ruling Passions." Mr. Schomer will direct the picture.

QUINN GOES EAST.

Will Assume Directorship of Film Association.

J. A. Quinn, manager of Quinn's Rialto Theater, in which Sid Grauman purchased a half interest just a few days ago, is now on his way to New York, where he will assume his duties as president of the Motion Picture and Theatrical Co-operative Association. Just before leaving Mr. Quinn said: "I am not shaking the dust of Los Angeles off my shoes, but will take some of it to New York, and scatter it around so some of the fellows who are opposing a house-cleaning of the picture business will have a sneeze coming to them. By this I mean that the ideas of the picture business in this section of the country can be used to the great advantage in the East to further plans for better pictures."

DENIED A HEARING.

Getting Decree, Wife Says Husband Refused to Confer.

After their separation Mrs. Addie L. Vance told Judge Crail yesterday in divorce proceedings that she went to the house where her husband, Raymond D. Vance, was staying, to talk to him.

"He went into another room and I could not see him," she said.

The Vances were married in 1917 and resided in Alhambra. The decree was granted Mrs. Vance.

Husband Told Her Beforehand She Says; Gets Decree.

"He told me he was going out to get drunk and to expect him about 10 o'clock," Mrs. Wilhelmine McQuain told Judge Crail during the trial of her divorce suit yesterday. She also said her husband's treatment of her was so mean that she could not live with him. The couple resided in Gardena. Mrs. McQuain was granted a decree.

HAS TWO MESSAGES.

LIKE A FAIRY TALE.

WAITRESS BECOMES PICTURE PLAYER IN A DAY.

By Grace Kingsley.

From a waitress in a motion picture studio cafeteria to playing a role in a picture, accomplished all in one day, does sound so easy and fairytaleish, doesn't it?—the sort of thing to make all the little Maudie Freshies in town go out to the studios and try for waitresses' jobs. It is the step, however, which will be achieved some day early next week by Helen Erne, when she is given a part in a Fox photoplay being directed by Frank Beal.

But right here is where the little Maudie Freshies must stop and listen. For Miss Erne isn't an ordinary girl at all. In the first place she is a very beautiful girl, in the second place she is a college graduate with an unusual endowment of brains, and in the third place she has had some little experience in playing extras in different studios. She took part a few months in stock, and during two years of the war, she appeared in the dancing numbers of "The Mask of Pandora," which the government produced. But the manner in which she won her way into the films is an unusually interesting story.

The day the beautiful Miss Erne appeared at the Fox studio cafeteria, and modestly inquired, "What is your order, please?" all eyes were turned upon her. Somebody said she looked like Pauline Frederick, and the actors commenced calling her Pauline. She paid no attention to their kidding, but quietly went about her tasks.

One day Director Frank Beal was studying over some French subtitles which had been used in a Fox picture, as he ordered his midday meal. Miss Erne happened to be standing by his side. He was puzzled over one of them, saying he had forgotten his French and laughingly inquired of Miss Erne if she could help him.

"Maybe I can!" said the waitress quietly, and to his surprise, she read the words off as glibly as though they were English. By that time everybody around was interested. One question led to another, and finally somebody asked the girl if she had ever acted. She told them of working her way through college, of her experience as a stenographer in a munitions camp of the South, and of how her great desire to become a motion picture actress had led her to the West.

"But one or two days' work a fortnight would not keep me going," said Miss Erne, "so when I heard a waitress was needed in the Fox cafeteria, I came over and got the job, in order to be near the work I wanted to do. And it seems as if my chance had really come at last!"

Mr. Beal considers Miss Erne a real find, and he has a part in his next picture which just suits her style. He declares he is delighted to give her a chance.

Miss Brockwell's Next.

Gladys Brockwell, Fox star, is shortly to commence work on a story by that rising young screen author, H. H. Van Loan, entitled "The Last Night," in which she will play the part of a Parisian actress.

Kinema Draws Directors.

All the picture directors in town are making pilgrimages to the Kinema, these days, to view that sensational feature, "The Miracle Man," made by George Loane Tucker, and in which Thomas Meighan, Betty Compson, Lon Chaney, Joseph Dowling, W. Alfred Butt, J. M. Dumont, and Elinor Fair are scoring tremendous hits. In fact, many of said directors are making more than one trip to see the picture, which they all consider the finest of its type.

Mr. Tucker at present is at work at the Brunton studio on the filming of a new story, which, while entirely different from "The Miracle Man," promises to be equally as great a sensation. It is a satire on the smart folk of society, founded on a well-known story, and in it Betty Compson again plays the leading feminine role.

Lasky Gets Morosco Plays.

Soon there won't be a single theatrical producer left who hasn't allied himself with some motion picture concern. The latest magnate to do so, is none other than our Oliver Morosco, who has just signed a contract with the Famous Players-Lasky Company, by the terms of which agreement the film organization acquires the rights to all the Morosco plays.

"Cappy Ricks" is to be the first filmed. No plans for cast or director are, yet announced.

Tyrone Power in Canada.

Tyrone Power has gone to Canada to become the star of a new picture company. Dorothy Bernard is also a member of the same organization.

Fox to Shift.

According to Sol Wurtzel, local studio manager of the Fox company, all the companies of that organization, except those working in western pictures, will shortly be removed to New York, where they will film their features in the new Fox studio.

Walthall Has Beater.

That prime favorite among picture stars, Henry M. Walthall, would appear to have made a great getaway in his picture producing enterprise. His first story is Harold McGrath's "Splendid Hazard," which deals in part with the life of Napoleon, and has a descendant of Napoleon as its hero. Art Rossen is directing, and as both Mr. Walthall and Mr. Rossen have made a study of the life and character of Napoleon, they should jointly be able to do justice to that celebrated soldier-statesman on the screen. The story promises to be full of real thrills, as well as of interesting character study. Rosemary Theby has one of the leading feminine roles.

The Rise of Katherine Sohn.

Many of our screen actresses must be possessed of fairy godmothers, so great is their luck. Now it's Katherine Sohn of the Lasky company, who has just made a big connection which is shortly to be announced.

Miss Sohn applied a few weeks ago to Jessie Hallett, casting director, at the Morosco studio, and though she had had no experience, she was so exactly the type for a part in "His Official Fiance," that Miss Hallett at once engaged her for the role. She made extremely good in it, and has since been the recipient of a number of good offers. But her big chance came yesterday, and though plans are not yet fully formulated, it is known they will be shortly, and that another clever girl is started on her way.

Vernall Park,

Who will appear in Bernard Gally's play, "The Victims," next week at the Mason.

Didn't Blow 'Em Out.

A new way to camouflage one's age at one's own birthday party has been discovered by no less a person than Al Ray, Fox star. Not, of course, that Mr. Ray minds in the least if you do know how many candles he has on his birthday cake, he being that young and handsome he doesn't have to worry. Still, looking to the future, Al decided, not long ago, it was just as well not to let folks ever have a chance to count up on you.

It all happened at a joint birthday party which Mrs. Al Ray gave for Mr. Al Ray, and which Scotty Dunlap, Fox director, gave for Mrs. Scotty Dunlap. A joint cake was served, and on it were placed the joint number of candles required for the two birthdays. So nobody found out how old either Mr. Ray or Mrs. Dunlap was, and a good time was had by all.

Nimrod, Note.

Lou Tellegen is not an ordinary Nimrod, but he is slightly disgusted with California game. Mr. Lou Tellegen has hunted the ferocious beasts of Brazil, has tracked the tiger to its lair, and has indulged in all sorts of big-game hunts, and has always been very successful, as he himself admits, but when he went out between scenes in the new Geraldine Farrar production with the intention of bringing home a buck, he was sadly disappointed. All he returned with was a lot of shells and plenty of food in the pack, but he had a good tramp in the mesquite and chaparral, and he claims it was harder work than breaking through the jungles of South America.

Basil King Story.

The third of the Eminent Authors' productions to be done at the Goldwyn studios is Basil King's "The Street Called Straight," which is now under way with Wallace Worsley directing and Mr. King enjoying it all hugely. An especially powerful cast has been chosen to interpret the drama, with Milton Sills and Naomi Childers in the leading roles.

Irene Rich, who has just completed her work as Will Rogers's leading woman, assumed a delightful role in the picture, together with Charles Clary, Alec B. Francis, Jane Sterling and Lydia Yeamans Titus.

Tom Mix Among Us.

Tom Mix, William Fox's cowpuncher star, has just returned to Hollywood from San Francisco, where he was entertained with Gov. Stephens and Mayor Rolph of San Francisco, while they welcomed the sailors of the Pacific Fleet, which officially visited San Francisco September 1.

Morosco will Celebrate.

A celebration of the 100th performance of Thompson Buchanan's comedy hit, "Civilian Clothes," will be held at the Morosco this evening. The company will have an invitational high jinks on the stage after the performance.

Eleanor Woodruff and Clyde Fillmore have rehearsed a little sketch which is to be the piece de resistance of the evening's fun. James Corrigan and Dora Mae Howe are to be seen in a dancing skit, while Roscoe Karns and Eloise Clements have promised that their rendition of the balcony scene from "Romeo and Juliet" will cause a lot of comment. Charlie Buck and Russ Dudley will revive their old soft-shoe dancing act, while Lillian Elliott is to give one of her southern darky character impersonations. Harlan Tucker will demonstrate salesmanship, Alfred Whitman has promised to do a Winchell Smith—reciting one of the impressive scenes from "Turn to the Right," and Joseph Eggenton and Leta Nelson have put the finishing touches on their little act, "Him and Shim."

Undoubtedly when Nick Laria delivers his baton to Fred J. Butler for orchestral direction while Mr. Laria himself will rehearse a scene from "Polly with a Past," there will be a great deal of fun.

A number of stage and screen people are to sit out in front, busily doing the old "thumbs up-thumbs down."

Lew Cody, Author.

Now what do you think of a star that just can't find a story to suit his own plans and specifications? Well, that happened to Lew Cody, you remember, when he started work on his last picture, and dashed if it has happened again! This time, as last time, nobody apparently being able to write a story that suited his unique talents, Mr. Cody, just as darned independent as can be, is sitting down to his desk Ford and writing his own story! Louis Gasnier is assisting, however, and so it's bound to be a good tale. W. Christy Cabanne will direct.

DAILY TRADE TALK.

New Goodyear Issue; Credit Men Coming to Los Angeles; Record Clearings.

BY CHAPIN HALL.

The original plans of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., in relation to the establishment of their Los Angeles plant have undergone so great a revision upward, even in the few months which have elapsed since the organization decided to locate its western terminal in this city, that a new block of stock has been authorized and according to advices from San Francisco was offered yesterday in that city.

The issue is on the same basis as the orginial, seven per cent., cumulative on the preferred, of which $15,000,000 is offered together with $1,000,000 of the common, the latter to be taken up by the parent company. This makes the total stock outstanding to date $8,000,000 preferred and $4,000,000 common.

The new issue which has not been advertised in Los Angeles or the South will be offered exclusively in Northern California and the Northwest, it being the policy of the company to secure as wide a geographical distribution as possible. Los Angeles was so eager to participate in the original offer that there was not much left for other sections, and the company was confronted with what was almost an embarassment of riches.

Then came the decision announced by president Seiberling, of the Goodyear Company, when he was in Los Angeles, that the capacity as originally planned was already too small to meet the business in sight and it was decided to increase the capacity of the plant from 3000 to 7500 tires per day; this before a spadeful of earth had been turned.

A minimum estimate of the cost of construction alone of the enlarged buildings was $6,000,000, and it was apparent that a further issue of stock would be advisable. This gave the opportunity to meet the demands of the North and Northwest for participation, and accounts for the fact that the new stock will not be offered in Los Angeles.

The issue will undoubtedly have the effect of stabilizing and stimulating the local market and will balance the entire financing, at the same time removing cause for any criticism of a top heavy local participation, and provide ample working capital under the revised plans which call for a 150 per cent. greater output than orginially contemplated.

The issue is being handled by Cyrus Peirce & Co., E. H. Rollins, and Bond & Goodwin and preliminary indications are that there will be a quick oversubscription.

Union Oil of Delaware.

Telegraphic advices yesterday to the effect that amended articles of incorporation of the Union Oil Co., had been filed in Delaware increasing the corporation's capitalization to $5,000,000 shares was received with puzzled interest locally where the significance of the move was not immediately apparent. It develops, however, that the Delaware concern is merely a holding company for shares recently purchased in the Union Oil and other companies by the Lockhart-Sabin interests and has no particular bearing upon the control of the Union Oil Co., of California. Formal announcement of what has been understood for some time, to wit, that the interests of Andrew Weir in the company had been acquired by the Commonwealth Petroleum Corporation, was also made yesterday. The Weir interests held 37,500 shares and the price paid is said to have been $160 a share and materially adds to the holdings the Commonwealth was able to acquire during the recent drive. In connection with the financing of Commonwealth information received yesterday over the A. W. Coote wire stated that the Commonwealth will give its stockholders of record September 9 the privilege of purchasing 100,000 shares of its common stock at $40 per share, for each two shares of stock now held. With Commonwealth selling at $56, the present price, these rights are worth $8 per share. Subscriptions must be made on or before 3 p. m., September 24, either in full or with a first payment of $20 per share, the second payment of $20 to be made on or before October 24.

Credit Men are Home.

J. W. Lewis, assistant cashier of the Union Bank and Trust Company; H. H. Rhodes, of the California Commercial Service Company, and H. Victor Wright, of the Retail Jewelers' Association have returned from St. Paul where they represented Los Angeles at the seventh annual convention of the Retail Credit Men's National Association, Mr. Wright being elected to the national board of directors. The delegates from this city spread valuable propaganda and were promised the convention here in 1921. For next year Detroit was selected. One of the results of the convention will be the organization of a central bureau for the detection of bad check artists, to include prompt photographic reproductions of fraudulent paper and active co-operation with banking and police organizations. The new service will be in the nature of a preventive rather than a cure, and through it one of the greatest trials of the merchant is expected to be lessened. Amendment of the national bankruptcy law to guard merchants against dishonest individuals going into bankruptcy to avoid the payment of debts incurred through their own personal extravagances was strongly indorsed, and a nation-wide pay-up campaign was determined upon. This movement is expected to release millions of dollars of capital, and at the same time to increase thrift and reduce the high cost of living. The campaign, which has for its objective the settlement of all outstanding accounts, is patterned somewhat after the Chinese new year custom of wiping the slate clean on the new year, and will be conducted next January.

The Branch Bank.

Shortly after the armistice was signed there was a strong movement in California towards the extension of the branch bank system, and the State superintendent was the storm center about whom dozens of these applications vortexed. A wide extension of business could be seen and the financial institutions of the State were naturally anxious to establish themselves in the path of this progress. A good many such permits were issued but latterly the State Superintendent of Banks has been gradually applying the brake, and granting the permits only where it was shown the requirements of the community to be served were such that the establishment of a branch bank could be accomplished without bringing unnecessary competition upon an already established bank or branch bank. At a meeting of local bankers addressed by Superintendent Stern the official explained his views and the apparent tendency to overdo this phase of bank expansion. His point was quickly seen by the bankers and the result is likely to be a more even and scientific distribution of branches in this city and diminution of the ambition to establish a branch in every community settlement regardless of the existence of another branch serving the same section. The branches will be better distributed and find lodgement in localities where they are really needed. The Los Angeles office of the State Superintendent of Banks, which is now maintained in the Hibernian Building, is proving a great convenience to local bankers, who are no longer required to make journeys to the northern outposts or to depend upon correspondence. Superintendent Stern spends a portion of each month in this city, and is giving considerable attention to the rapidly growing interests of Southern California.

Bank Act of California.

Blyth, Witter & Co. are distributing to banks and others interested the 1919 edition of the Bank Act of California. This volume is of unusual interest and importance this year because of the many changes in the banking laws of the State. The volume is attractively bound and well edited, type and annotations making it easy of reference and convenient in form. The chapter devoted to bonds which are legal investments is so arranged that the requirements are very plainly set forth, and illuminating notes add to the value of the publication.

The Business of Growing.

A statement just issued by the Trust Company of Georgia, which controls the Coca-Cola Company, tells an impressive story in a few figures of the possibilities of a successful American idea starting from zero. In 1886 twenty-six gallons of the syrup was sold. This year a demand of 30,000,000 gallons is indicated by the sales thus far. During the last seven years $21,000,000 have been disbursed in dividends. A practically unlimited export field is said to be awaiting early cultivation.

The Business Outlook.

The business outlook for the week is summed up by Henry Clews as follows: "Business conditions, generally speaking, are hopeful. Should labor settle down to a more normal attitude improvement may be expected for the reason that many enterprises and enlargements are still pigeonholed awaiting more stable conditions. The American harvest is progressing, and while our yield of wheat is below early expectations it is much above the average and will be highly profitable in the aggregate. The corn crop will also be large at very high prices. Cotton is a short crop but a good surplus is left from last year and growers of this staple are also making good money. As a whole the farming classes are exceptionally prosperous. So, too, are the industrial and mercantile classes. The high cost of living question, which is chiefly felt in the cities, seems to be near the apex and a turn downward should not be far distant. The monetary situation is fairly satisfactory. The position of government finances is steadily improving, owing to the

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—The stock market was again dominated by professional interests today, that faction continuing its bullish operations of the previous session, though for the most part in other quarters of the list.

The net result was not very convincing, however, many mixed changes resulting at the irregular close, due to profit taking, despite the drop in call loans to 4½ per cent.

Crucible Steel and Baldwin Locomotive were subjected to severe reactions, which served more than anything else to undermine the list. Crucible suffered an extreme reversal of 17¾, just cancelling its advance of yesterday, and Baldwin lost 10, or about two-thirds of its gain, both issues being weakest in the final hour.

Other speculative issues which were depressed by 3 to 10 points in the course of the highly confusing trading included Sumatra Tobacco, Keystone Tire, General Motors, Mexican Petroleum, Bethlehem Steel and American Woolen.

Motors and oils were at maximum quotations in the last hour, the latter deriving their strength from the favorable annual reports of Mexican and Pan-American Petroleums. Chandler featured the motors at an extreme gain of 23

Sales amounted to 1,557,000 shares.

Liberty Bonds were irregular, but the general list was steady to firm. Total sales par value, $10,850,000.

Old United States bonds unchanged on call.

TRADING IN WRIGLEY STOCK MORE ACTIVE.

SHIP RECOVERS THREE OF ITS FOUR POINTS LOST ON WEDNESDAY.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 4.—Trading in the stock of the William Wrigley, Jr., Co. was more active today, the price touching a high of 80 compared with 78 yesterday and closing at 78 to 77¼. Trading was on a "when issued" basis. It is not likely that much of the 20,000 shares, the sale of which has been announced by F. B. Hitchcock & Co., will find its way into the hands of brokers as most of it was taken up by investors.

On the exchange price movements were conflicting. Ship recovered 3 points of its 4-point loss of yesterday, and Republic Truck was up 3, Sears-Roebuck declined 2 points, Carbide, Western Stone and Ship preferred 1 each. In the packing group there were only fractional changes.

School Board Regrets Resignation of Supt. Shiels.

The resignation of Dr. Albert Shiels, Superintendent of Schools, was read to the Board of Education yesterday afternoon at the adjourned meeting of the board, and action was postponed until the committee of the whole meets Monday night.

Several of the members of the board intimated that an effort will be made to have the superintendent reconsider his action, and it was also stated that the resignation would probably not be unanimously accepted, as some of the board members will leave nothing undone to dissuade the superintendent.

$5—OIL—$5 LEASES

5 Acres, $10.00 Down
$5.00 a Month

Pecos — Oil River Basin — Tularosa

Commercial five-year leases and State leases—in the PECOS field—where great development is now progressing, particularly in the Sunshine Oil Corporation. We control several sections which we can sell in 40-acre State leases as low as $5.00 per acre—the choicest at $10.00 an acre. The value of these leases is shown by the fact that the Standard Oil Company owns adjoining section.

In the TULAROSA BASIN, where great development is now in progress, we have choice State leases at from $5.00 to $10.00 per acre to be sold in 40, 80 and 160-acre tracts. The $5.00 leases in the Tularosa Basin which we offer are adjacent to those which are being sold in New York at this time at from $50 up.

In the OIL RIVER BASIN we offer choice State leases, which have been passed on by geologists, at from $3.00 to $10 per acre.

THE OWNER OF A LEASE IS THE MAN WHO GETS THE FIRST PROFITS FROM THE OIL FIELDS.
NO ONE CAN PLACE THE VALUATION ON AN OIL LEASE. NO ONE CAN SAY THAT YOUR OIL LEASE WON'T BE WORTH THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS PER ACRE.

In the past year millions have been made overnight in the Texas oil fields. Only a few months ago you could have bought Burkburnett acreage at the same price as our oil leases. Today the same acreage is selling at $25,000 an acre. Even sixty days ago acreage across the Red River in Tillman County could have been acquired at $5.00 an acre. With the first gusher in of the Texas Chief, on the Texas side, Tillman County acreage across the river has jumped to a point where it is selling today at from $900 to $2,000 an acre.

OUR LEASES ARE SPECULATIVE—YOU MAY WIN—AND YOU MAY LOSE. IF YOU WIN, YOU WIN BIG—NOT A FEW HUNDRED PER CENT., BUT A FORTY-ACRE LEASE WILL MAKE YOU A FORTUNE.

The Fowler Farm in Burkburnett sold for millions, and there wasn't a sign of oil anywhere for miles around when their well came in. Our leases are in territories that are being developed. At indication of oil—any gas well—will send all our leases skyrocketing. It isn't a long wait. If you win, you win quickly—BUT YOU'LL HAVE TO ACT QUICKLY.

$200 Buys a 40-acre Pecos Lease
$200 Buys a 40-Acre Tularosa Basin Lease
$200 Buys a 40-Acre Oil River Basin Lease

WE DON'T SEE HOW YOU CAN POSSIBLY LOSE IN TAKING ADVANTAGE OF OUR $5.00 STATE LEASES.

We have State leases as low as $2.00, or $80.00 cash for a 40-acre lease, as we do not sell less than 40 acres; and we can recommend these $2.00 leases. But our $5.00 leases are a little better located and are worth, in our estimation, the additional cost.

We offer leases in the RANGER, BURKBURNETT and CROMONA FIELDS at from $5,000 to $25,000 an acre. We have one choice 5-acre tract in Northwest Burkburnett for $5,000. These leases are handled by us on a commission basis. They are in absolutely proven territory. We solicit correspondence with anyone interested in making an investment of this kind.

BUT—we do not consider the high-priced acreage as having speculative possibilities for tremendous profits as the $5.00 leases which we are offering.

The $20,000-acre lease, which we are offering, was, at one time, perhaps, in the $5.00 class.

Write for particulars—but don't delay.

IF YOU'VE GOT THE REAL OIL SPIRIT—THE SPIRIT THAT WINS—YOU WILL SEND US A CHECK FOR $200 for a 40-acre State lease, and let us select for you.

If you want to take a real plunge, send us $600 for a 40-acre lease in the Pecos, Tularosa and Oil River Basin. These are fine leases and the title is perfect.

Send us at least $10.00, the first payment on a 5-acre lease.

SAWTELLE RULED PART OF CITY

City Attorney Hands Down Official Opinion.

Appeal to State will Test the Consolidation.

Attorney-General may Refuse to Act on Matter.

Recently the City Council questioned the matter of making further expenditure of city funds in the Sawtelle district until all uncertainty is removed as to whether Sawtelle is legally a part of Los Angeles. The City Attorney was asked for an opinion on the matter. Yesterday this opinion was sent to the Council, holding that "Sawtelle is legally a part of the city of Los Angeles."

In this statement the City Attorney says:

"All suits relative to this question have now been disposed of, the only remaining case having been decided July 29, which upheld the validity of the consolidation. At this time, therefore, there is no litigation pending, and Sawtelle is legally a part of the city of Los Angeles.

"However, I have been served with notice of application to the Attorney-General to bring an action in quo warranto to test the validity of the consolidation, and briefs are now being prepared to resist the bringing of this action. The filing of such a suit is in the discretion of the Attorney-General, and I am unable to advice you at this time what his decision will be."

The statement of the City Attorney was referred to the Council's Finance Committee, which has in hand the matter of making an appropriation for placing signs for new street names in the Sawtelle district.

ADMITS BRUTAL ACT.

Man Who Smashed Conductor's Ear With Pick Pleads Guilty.

A small sized riot on a Los Angeles Railway street-car at Tenth and Hope streets yesterday resulted in Dan Lane, 21 years of age, an iceman, landing in the City Jail and E. C. Parsons, the conductor being treated at the Receiving Hospital for a broken ear drum and painful injuries to the face.

According to the police, Lane assaulted the conductor when he attempted to move an automobile which had stopped on the car tracks. Using an ice pick the iceman is alleged to have beaten the conductor about the head and face until pulled away by passengers on the street-car. Lane entered a plea of guilty in police court and is being held without bail. He will be sentenced today.

WEALTH AWAITS HIM

John M. McDonald Sought to Share Vancouver Legacies.

Police Detective Chester Lloyd, in command of the police bureau of lost persons, yesterday began a search for John Morrison McDonald, who was last heard from about ten years ago when living in this city. McDonald, according to information received by Detective Lloyd, is heir to a large sum of money from his father's estate. He is being sought by M. D. Campbell of Vancouver, B. C.

According to information received by Detective Lloyd in a letter from Mr. Campbell, McDonald left that city about ten years ago and came to Los Angeles. His family has not heard from him since that time. Several estates, according to Campbell, are now in the courts, and McDonald is named in them. A large amount of money, according to Campbell, is due the missing man if he can be found.

GET SHOW PERMIT.

Council Hears Stock Exhibit Protestants, then Denies Plea.

Considerable time was devoted by the Council yesterday to the hearing of protestants against the issuance of a permit to allow the Sixth District Agricultural Association to hold a stock show on lands adjacent to Exposition Park. The protestants declared that last year's stock show created such a condition through dust and stench that it was unbearable.

After hearing directors of the stock show and the protestants, the Council voted to grant the desired permit. It was stated by members of the directorate that especial efforts are to be made to keep the pens and yards in sanitary condition, and that the show will last only ten days, whereas the stock was kept on the grounds for ten weeks last year because of the influenza epidemic which caused postponements of the Liberty Fair.

REVERSE JUDGMENT IN ORANGE ROAD CASE.

Word that the State Supreme Court has reversed the judgment of the Superior Court of Orange county in sustaining the general demurrer by the county of Orange to the complaint brought by the Anaheim Sugar Company to recover $7407.33 paid by the corporation, under protest, to the Tax Collector of Orange county, under a so-called levy for the improvement of highways, was received here yesterday.

The order of the higher court is that the order of dismissal of the action be reversed, and the cause remanded, with instructions to the lower court to overrule the demurrer of the county, with the usual leave to the defendant to answer.

ISSUES BENCH WARRANT.

United States District Judge Trippet yesterday ordered a bench warrant issued for the arrest of A. J. Butler, who had been ordered to pay a fine of $350 for conspiring with Edith Young of Needles to defraud the United States Railroad Administration by improperly obtaining and using a Santa Fe pass from Needles to San Francisco. Butler, having a wife and child, was not sent to jail by the court, but allowed to pay the fine in monthly installments. He afterward left the jurisdiction of the court.

WIFE'S "CUSS" A LOVE TERM.

Judge Finds She Showed Her Affection by Calling Mate "Darn Fool."

Judge Crail declared yesterday, in the divorce case of Leo and Diana Hofmeister, that a wife may be using an endearing term when she calls her husband a "darn fool."

"It is not the word, but the manner that counts," said the court. "She may say 'darn fool' and mean 'my dear,' or she may say 'my dear' and mean 'darn fool.' It is clear from the evidence that this was Mrs. Hofmeister's manner of expressing endearment."

He denied Mr. Hofmeister a divorce and took under submission Mrs. Hofmeister's cross-complaint, both on the ground of cruelty.

agreement with the air route and become a part of the central organization. The home company is to work on a percentage basis with the subsidiaries. Provisions have been made for accommodation of private planes and for instruction.

BLIMPS AND PLANES.

It is proposed to use three types of machines—lighter-than-air for long-distance and big tonnage work, and hydroplanes and land planes for short-haul and fast-time service. These latter types are to be used for dispatch work and by the feeder lines.

A 280-acre field has been purchased for $640,000 by the Goodyear company in Los Angeles to promote air navigation. On this will be erected buildings to construct lighter-than-air machines. The California Greatwestern and Interstate Air Route will work in conjunction with this field, and with any other company interested in aviation science.

Mr. Daum said last night: "I have associated with me some of the ablest men in air work—George Hockensmith, head of the Goodyear field at Akron, and of the new one at Los Angeles, and W. L. Shaw, formerly of the naval air service. We have, too, John W. Davis, who was a flyer during the war, and has received decorations and citations from several governments."

TO FIGHT RATE INCREASE

City Wants to Examine Books of Pacific Electric Company.

The City Attorney recommended to the City Council yesterday the employment of a special engineer for the purpose of making an investigation, on the city's behalf, of the books of the Pacific Electric Company. The investigation is to be made in connection with the action of this city and other Southern California municipalities in resisting the company's application for an increase in rates. It is proposed to employ Franklin D. Howell, formerly chief engineer of the Board of Public Utilities, to make this survey on behalf of all the cities directly interested. Each is to bear a portion of the expense.

In this regard, the City Attorney in his report of yesterday says: "I consider the services of Mr. Howell are vitally necessary and we do not know of anyone better qualified for the work." The matter was referred to the Council's Finance Committee.

ANGELENO DOCTOR IS A SHOTGUN VICTIM.

Word was received here yesterday by relatives of Dr. W. L. Holt, 5033 Van Ness avenue, who received a shotgun wound in the thigh in a hunting accident near Perris, Tuesday, that it has been necessary to amputate his right leg near the hip. Dr. Holt was preparing to start his auto when a loaded shotgun fell to the floor and exploded. He received the full charge in his thigh. Dr. Holt was immediately rushed to a Riverside hospital and given emergency treatment. The decision to amputate followed.

Dr. Holt was accompanied on the trip by Walter Rowe and William Lang of this city.

BACK FROM SERVICE.

Tom Long, youngest son of United States Commissioner Long, is back from a year's service in the army. His brothers, Walter, aged 19 years, and Stephen G., enlisted in the Naval Reserve, but Tom was within the draft age, so he signed up as a seaman to be a member of the crew that took one of the new ships constructed at the harbor to the Atlantic Coast. Reaching there he went to Philadelphia and enlisted, having been discharged from the naval service at the end of the voyage. He was sent to Camp Joseph E. Johnson in Florida, where he was attached to the Motor Truck Corps, and hoped to be soon sent overseas. But he was disappointed, and was sent to Washington, D. C., where he drove ambulances for the government hospital for a long time.

WILL WYATT BETS IT WILL BE A BOY.

Will Wyatt, manager of the Mason Operahouse, is so happy in anticipation of an interesting event due shortly in his family that he is willing to bet large sums that it will be a boy.

Next tweek "The Victims" is to be presented at the Mason, and Mr. Wyatt was feeling particularly good when he witnessed a rehearsal of this "startling play" last night. He took the company into his confidence and offered to bet $350 that the coming Wyatt will be of the sterner sex. That only left the company Hobson's choice. They had to bet "it" will be a girl.

ELECTED TREASURER.

Godfrey Holterhoff, treasurer of the Santa Fe, was yesterday elected treasurer of the Los Angeles Symphony Association.

UNDERWRITERS' CHIEF GUEST IN THIS CITY.

ON TOUR OF UNION TO HELP MOVE FOR REINSTATING WAR-RISK POLICIES.

Jonathan K. Voshell, president of the National Association of Life Underwriters, who is visiting the local organizations throughout the United States, arrived yesterday in Los Angeles. This is his first visit to California and he will be entertained until this evening by the members of the Los Angeles association.

As national head of the life insurance field men of the United States, Mr. Voshell has for the past year devoted a large part of his energies to assisting the national authorities at Washington in their endeavor to have discharged soldiers and sailors retain their government life insurance. He expresses regret that experience indicates that more than half of those insured while in service have not fully appreciated the value of government policies. He hopes the government will succeed in reinstating a large part of the insurance dropped by men upon leaving the service.

Under a recent ruling of Secretary of Treasury Glass, ex-service men in good health may reinstate lapsed insurance within eighteen months after discharge, without paying back premiums. All that is required is to pay premium for the month of grace during which the insurance was in force after the last premium had become due, and also to remit the premium for the current month at the time reinstatement is requested.

The entire organized strength of the life insurance field men has been thrown into this work.

A typical southern dinner will be served at the banquet to be given this evening at 6 o'clock in honor of Mr. Voshell, who is a resident of Baltimore. Life insurance men desiring to secure tickets for the banquet may do so by getting in touch with Secretary Spencer S. Cole.

SAN DIEGO SLAYER SOUGHT IN THIS CITY.

JEALOUS, NEARLY BEHEADS PARAMOUR—SAID TO BE AN EX-CONVICT.

The local police and Sheriff's office were last night requested by Chief of Police James Patrick of San Diego to assist in the apprehension of Tony Murray, a negro, who yesterday afternoon is alleged to have slashed and fatally wounded his paramour, Anna Morris, with a razor, and then made his escape. According to the information from the southern city, Murray is a recently-discharged convict from the Joliet (Ill.) penitentiary, where he served a sentence for highway robbery and that previous to his incarceration he lived with the woman he is said to have killed.

After beginning his sentence the Morris woman is said to have come to California with another man, and that immediately following his discharge from prison Murray followed her for the express purpose of slaying her. Late yesterday afternoon he appeared at her home and, after a few minutes' conversation, drew a razor and slashed her across the throat, nearly severing her head from her body.

The man is described as being about 35 years old, weighing 125 pounds, very black and when last seen wore a dirty brown coat and blue overalls. All officers were warned to take no chances in arresting the negro as he is known to be armed and will undoubtedly put up a desperate fight to prevent arrest.

ASK APPROVAL OF BOTH LAND BILLS.

COUNCIL TO BE REQUESTED TO INDORSE LANE AND KETTNER ACTS.

Indorsement of the all-American canal project for Imperial Valley will be recommended to the City Council today by its Public Welfare Committee. At the same session a request will be presented by Dr. A. D. Houghton for the indorsement of the Lane land bill with its special application to government lands in the Imperial Valley.

The Public Welfare Committee held a public hearing on the all-American canal project resolution yesterday afternoon. A delegation of Imperial Valley residents and Los Angeles citizens owning land in the valley presented arguments in support of the resolution. Dr. Houghton opposed the passage of the resolution unless it contained a clause also indorsing the Lane land law, claiming that under the provisions of the Kettner bill, which provides for the financing of the proposed canal, the exactions on soldiers who undertook to secure land in Imperial Valley would be so heavy that they would be unable to meet them, whereas the Lane law provisions would make it possible for a large number of soldiers to obtain government land.

Among the delegation present to advocate the adoption of the resolution favoring the canal were Leroy F. Holt, H. W. Elliott, T. P. Banta, Felix Havens, Arthur S. Fell, E. E. Chandler, H. C. Brandt, Dan V. Noland, Wiley Weaver and Nathan Newby.

The resolution which will be recommended by the Public Welfare Committee to the Council for adoption today reads:

"Whereas there is now pending before the Congress of the United States, a bill providing for the construction of the all-American canal in the Imperial Valley, and

"Whereas this project, as represented, would irrigate about 400,000 acres of land, now arid and barren,

"Now, therefore, be it resolved that the Council of the city of Los Angeles indorse said undertaking and recommend its early passage."

USED HER PICTURE TO GET A HUSBAND.

FOUND IT IN MARRIAGE PAPER, SAYS ACTRESS ASKING DAMAGES.

The story of a woman using the photograph of a popular moving picture actress to win herself a husband, is told in the suit of the Christie Film Company and Fay Tincher, the actress, against Henry Jahn, who publishes a matrimonial paper in St. Paul, Minn.

The suit names Ethel Smith, the woman alleged to have been seeking a husband, as a defendant. For the alleged unauthorized use of her picture, Miss Tincher demands $1500 damages. The company asks $500 damages on the ground that since the alleged publication of the picture in the matrimonial paper, Miss Tincher has been worried and the company could not get her best services.

Miss Tincher declares she has many opportunities of getting married without the aid of a humiliating and "notorious publication."

The picture was published April 25, last, and a description of Ethel Smith was given. She was said to live in Providence, R. I., and is described as possessing "lovely dark brown tresses, expressive brown eyes, pretty eyebrows and lashes, a pretty mouth and a cheerful nature."

AS SCHOOL OFFICER.

Miss Rosalie Bunker was yesterday elected attendance officer in the department of compulsory education and child welfare. This position is one of the two for additional attendance officers authorized by the committee of the whole on June 5.

Oil Wealth Again Gushes Forth in New Richfield District

THE Richfield Oil District has produced a second great sensation in oil circles. Standard Kramer No. 2—2 came in Tuesday, August 26th, with gradually increasing output. Latest reports state this well is making 8000 to 10,000 barrels daily.

This tremendous producer is on a direct line between the CHAPMAN GUSHER and the RICHFIELD-YORBA OIL CO. lease.

Richfield-Yorba Oil Company

Incorporated Under the Laws of California.

CAPITAL $1,000,000

California Permit, File No. 7395 to Sell an Allotment of Stock

Here Is an Opportunity Worthy of Your Consideration

The RICHFIELD-YORBA OIL CO. is the only company at the present time offering the investor an opportunity in California's new oil field. They have secured a 32-acre lease in the heart of this new field. In addition to our original 32-acre holding, the Richfield-Yorba Oil Co. has just secured a lease on a 51-acre tract adjoining. Their lease is surrounded by oil-producing territory. Oil corporations are paying enormous bonuses on every side of them. So large, in fact, that drilling is prohibitive except by those companies of extensive means.

Final Block of Richfield-Yorba Oil Co. Stock Offered for Subscription

The Richfield-Yorba Oil Co. has requested us to announce that of their total allotment of 250,000 shares of non-assessable stock, over 225,000 have been subscribed. We thank the investing public in this company's behalf for the remarkable interest manifested in their prospect.

The final block of Richfield-Yorba Oil Co. stock, consisting of only 20,000 shares, will be offered for subscription at par ($1.00 per share) at 9 o'clock Thursday, September 4th.

FAMOUS GUSHER FIELD

On March 11th, 1919, the Union Oil Company brought in the famous Chapman Gusher. The output of this well has steadily increased and at the present time stands at approximately 2,000,000 feet of gas and 4700 barrels of oil daily. At the present writing the largest oil corporations are sinking about forty wells in this new field.

AN INVESTOR'S DUTY

MR. INVESTOR, you owe it to yourself to investigate first hand the oil interests in which you are asked to invest. The RICHFIELD-YORBA OIL CO. offers you this privilege. Their lease is situated within 30 miles of Los Angeles over a first-class boulevard. Their cars leave the office for the field every day at 1 o'clock and Sundays at 2 o'clock. As their guest, YOU may decide the merits of what they have to offer. You are under no obligation whatever.

GET READY TO GREET WILSON

Mayor Confers with His Reception Committee.

Fleet Fund Balance may be Used for Expenses.

May Ask President for Speech Outside Auditorium.

The reception and entertainment committee named by Mayor Snyder to complete arrangements for the visit of President Wilson and his party met in the Mayor's office yesterday afternoon and discussed various details of the general plan.

The committee authorized the chairman, H. S. McKee, to ask the fleet reception committee to turn over to it the funds remaining from the fleet-welcoming celebration. It is understood that from $12,000 to $15,000 remains in this fund.

Chairman McKee today will name the subcommittees, and the general committee is to meet again at the call of the chairman. Franklin K. Lane, Jr., was elected secretary.

The names of Joseph Crail, Marco Hellman, D. A. Hamburger and Herbert T. Muzzy were added to the general committee.

There was much discussion as to the method to be used in providing admission to Shrine Auditorium for the public speech of President Wilson, but no conclusion was reached. It was determined that the methods used by other cities during the President's tour shall be closely watched, and the one seeming the most satisfactory is to be adopted.

One idea which seemed generally favored was to request President Wilson to make a short speech to the crowd outside the auditorium before he begins his address inside the building. Steps will be taken to ascertain whether he will be willing to do this.

REPORT POWER COLLECTIONS.

A report made to the City Council yesterday by the Board of Public Service Commissioners showed that the collections for the preceding week, under the operating agreement with the Southern California Edison Company for the sale of municipal power, amounted to $8,406.80.

DROVE WHILE "FULL?"

Serious Charge Made Against Two Men in Motor Car.

Morris Marberger and Fred G. Parker were held to answer yesterday by Justice Forbes on charges of driving an automobile while intoxicated. Testimony showed that John Witt drove his car off the Venice road and crawled underneath to make a repair. It was claimed Marberger drove his car over Witt's protruding legs. It was also claimed he had to lean against a woman to stand up after the accident.

Parker admitted drinking beer of 2.75 per cent. variety, but his car crashed into one driven by Antonio Merlo.

HAND 'EM ANOTHER LOAN.

Loan of $10,000 from the city's reserve fund to the Harbor Commission for the prosecution of continuous work on the sea wall at Fish Harbor was authorized by the Council, yesterday. This is in accord with a policy adopted some months ago. Monthly loans have been made, and the Harbor Commission has signed an agreement that this money will be returned to the reserve fund when the recently-authorized issue of harbor improvement bonds is sold.

STAIN ON RUG CRIME CLEW?

It is Found by Wife of Man Who Suddenly Vanishes.

Woman Who Occupied Room has His One-Time Auto.

Her Trial Brings to Light Weird Spokane Mixup.

Strange circumstances supposed to be connected with the disappearance on June 23 from Spokane of William H. McNutt, a well-to-do real estate operator of that city, were described yesterday at the hearing in Justice Brown's court of Miss Jewel Marie McDonald and Ted McDonald, her brother. Though they are charged with bringing an alleged stolen car, once the property of Mr. McNutt, into this State, the testimony centered about the man's disappearance as well as the ownership of the motor car.

Two witnesses, one of them Mrs. McNutt, wife of the missing man, were heard, and the case was continued until a week from today at the request of Deputy District Attorney Hill, who desires to produce further documentary evidence to show that the auto was stolen about the time Mr. McNutt dropped out of sight in a strange fashion, John L. Richardson, attorney for the defendants, informed the court that when the case is called again he will produce a bill of sale for the car to Will McDonald, a brother of the defendants.

LOOKED LIKE BLOOD.

Mrs. McNutt, apparently on the edge of tears many times, told of the weird discovery, shortly after her husband disappeared, of a large stain on a rug in a room in the Wolverine Hotel, Second and Madison streets, Spokane, which she said was occupied by Miss McDonald when she managed the hotel for Mr. McNutt. She said she last saw her husband when he started for that hotel.

"What did you see on the rug?" asked Mr. Hill.

"A large stain, like blood," she replied. "There was a spot under the rug on the floor, like something reddish had been washed away."

Mrs. McNutt said that after she saw the stain she employed detectives, notified the Spokane police and sought to find Miss McDonald and her brothers, who had left Spokane. She said the detectives learned from a transfer company that Miss McDonald had shipped her household goods to Los Angeles under another name. She denied she and her husband had quarreled, and that on one occasion she had struck her husband from behind while he was walking on the street, or that she had threatened him with a revolver. The witness said she is mother of a girl of 5 and a boy of 10. Her husband, she said, had considerable money on him when he disappeared.

FORMERLY MARRIED.

Testimony showed that Miss McDonald was formerly married and had obtained a divorce from a man named Wilkinson. The defendant's sister, Mrs. Helen Wilkerson, accompanied Miss McDonald to court.

A private detective told of finding Mr. McNutt's automobile in Los Angeles, and of gaining possession of it from Miss McDonald.

The court expressed the opinion that so far the fact that a crime had been committed was not sufficiently established.

"And we will prove," responded Mr. Richardson, "that all these references to the so-called peculiar disappearance of Mr. McNutt are merely a figment of the imagination of the detectives."

ONE SICK; OTHER IN JAIL.

With the husband sick in bed and the wife in jail in San Diego on a rooming-house charge, today will be an eleventh wedding anniversary of a drab kind for Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Mylio, the former of whom lives at 210 West Tenth street. Mrs. Mylio, who was arrested at a Coronado hotel, August 23, in company with J. Ridgeway, is to have her hearing tomorrow. She declares that the arrest was the result of a misunderstanding. A divorce suit between the Mylios is now pending.

NEW CHARGE IN CLERKSHIP WAR.

Candidate Helped Make Out Test, Court is Told.

Civil Service Board Holds Examination Unfair.

While Applicant Denies He had Undue Advantage.

Capt. W. L. Clark, the applicant who passed with the highest grade in the recent competitive examination to fill the office of County Clerk, consulted with and assisted Secretary Doty of the County Civil Service Commission in preparing the questions for the test, according to the commission's answer filed by Capt. Clark to compel his certification to the Board of Supervisors. This answer came into Judge Myers's court yesterday when demurrers were argued. It states that Capt. Clark, an efficiency expert employed in the civil service department, had advance knowledge of the nature and extent of the examination that gave him an unfair advantage over the other candidates.

Capt. Clark denies he had any such advantage.

Secretary Doty stated yesterday that at the time Capt. Clark assisted hi min preparatory work for the examination Clark was not an avowed candidate. Before Mr. Doty left for the East to attend a convention of the civil service, he says, he learned of Capt. Clark's candidacy, and notified Special Examiner Davis that Clark should not be a candidate.

Capt. Clark says he went before the commission and asked if it would be all right to take the examination and was told to go ahead. This will all be taken up with the commission at its meeting today.

Herman Lichtenberg, head of the probate department in the County Clerk's office, demurred to the Clark complaint, and the demurrer was overruled by Judge Myers. The court sustained the demurrer of the Civil Service Commission to Mr. Lichtenberg's cross-complaint. He was granted until the 22nd inst. to file an amended supplemental cross-complaint.

Mr. Lichtenberg, who was one of the candidates, and says he was marked low in experience, alleges it was the duty of the commission to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of County Clerk Lelande by promotion and not by an open competitive examination. He and L. E. Lampton, cashier in the County Clerk's office, are well qualified, he says, to fill the position.

Capt. Clark took the ground that he passed first in the test, and therefore ought to be certified on the County Clerk eligible list to the Supervisors.

The commission notified Clark it would not certify him.

OLD CURIOSITY SHOP TO HELP A HOSPITAL.

MANY FRIENDS OF LITTLE SUFFERERS TO SALVAGE GOODS FOR SALE.

In order to expand in the clinic work and to establish a social service department, the officers of the Children's Hospital and their friends yesterday held a meeting at the Hotel Clark to announce a bureau of salvage. It is the belief of the officers that such a department will care amply for the financial needs of the enlarged work.

Each of the several hundred guests of the officers was provided with a large canvas bag and a list of material that can be sold in the storeroom of the hospital soon to be open in the downtown district. This list included clothing, garments, hats and shoes for men, women and children; rubber tires, inner tubes and scrap, magazines, newspapers, rags, books, toys, jewelry, either broken or whole; plated ware, aluminum, copper, brass and household furnishings of every description. These articles will all be sold by the salvage bureau.

Mrs. Albert Crutcher, president of the hospital, which is an institution to care for the sick and crippled children of Los Angeles, announced at the meeting that Mrs. Bud Frankenfield has been appointed manager of the new work. She will have charge of the collection and sale of all material offered.

ORDERS WITNESS TO GIVE HER ADDRESS.

JUDGE IN THORKILDSEN CASE SAYS WOMAN MUST TELL DEFENDANT'S LAWYER.

Michael Shannon, attorney for Thomas Thorkildsen, borax king, defending the divorce suit of Selina L. Thorkildsen, filed an affidavit in Judge Valentine's court yesterday setting up that Christine Nelson, a witness, had declined to answer a question while her deposition was being taken in preparation for the trial of the divorce action. The question had to do with the address of the woman. The court ordered that the question be answered.

Mr. Shannon alleged on information and belief that Christine Nelson gave testimony showing alleged misconduct with another woman on the part of Mr. Thorkildsen. She declined to answer the question of residence on advice of counsel. Mrs. Thorkildsen, in her supplemental complaint, charges Mr. Thorkildsen with misconduct. The affidavit alleges that on information and belief Christine Nelson is a detective, employed in the case, that she is a nonresident of Los Angeles and that she will leave the city as soon as her deposition is taken.

WAS TIRED OF HIM.

Annie E. Hagenbaugh, wife of Sergt. Raymond A. Hagenbaugh of the police traffic squad, told her husband she was tired of living with him, and when they separated she said she was not coming back. Yesterday Judge Crail granted Sergt. Hagenbaugh a divorce. The sergeant testified that his wife persisted in going to dances without him, and finally left him.
